

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION

THIS manual is a guide, designed primarily to help library assistants, library school students, college students, teachers, and users of libraries in general, in gaining a knowledge of reference books quickly. It does not pretend to be complete. The reference books and bibliographies included in this list are necessarily limited, first to those of a strictly reference character, and, secondly, to the most useful works in the English language, with some exceptions in other languages. It is obviously impossible, without exceeding the limits of one volume, to include all of the important works of reference in foreign languages, which, though often of more value than the corresponding English books, still are of restricted use owing to the comparatively small number of readers of foreign languages who frequent our libraries.

Reference books which are limited to the use of the specialist have been in like manner usually omitted. Out-of-print books have occasionally been mentioned because they are to be found in the older libraries. It sometimes happens that the best reference book on a subject is out of print.

Almost all books of reference possess defects as well as merits; it is difficult indeed to find one that is perfect. At the same time they are essential to a well-equipped library. The annotations of the titles herein contained are largely of a descriptive character, showing for what purposes the books mentioned are especially useful.

Besides cyclopedias and dictionaries which give direct aid, the reader will have to consult more elaborate treatises for further information. Bibliographies are guides to these. A knowledge of bibliography, therefore, forms an important part in the preparation of the student. The most useful reference department will include bibliographies of special subjects along with the cyclopedias of those subjects. It is to be regretted that books belonging to the class Bibliography are as a rule kept in the cataloger's room or the librarian's office, not in the reference department where they would be useful to the public. In a large library, such an important printed catalog as that of the Peabody Institute Library and a bibliographical work like the United States catalog and supplement, should by all means be kept where the public can have easy access to them even if it is necessary to duplicate such works.

This manual will also serve as a guide in the selection of reference books for a library. The prices given are the publishers' prices, and the lowest price is usually quoted. Books can often be obtained at a discount or picked up from time to time at auction or second-hand stores at a much reduced price. Reference books are expensive, and few libraries can afford to keep up with new editions or even with recent authorities. In many cases new editions are not worth the cost. They are frequently made from the same plates as the earlier editions, with slight alterations, not of sufficient importance to warrant the expense involved in their purchase. A suggestive list of one hundred reference books for a small library will be found at the end of the volume.

The selection of the books in this volume has been made from a study of the reference departments of the principal libraries of Philadelphia, Boston, New York, St. Louis, and Washington, and practically covers the course of study in reference books as pursued in the Drexel Institute Library School. Other library schools also give similar courses.

PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION

THE publication of many important reference books since 1902 made it necessary to revise and enlarge the Guide. The Supplements published in the Library Journal and the A. L. A. Booklist in January of each year have been incorporated with much additional material in the present edition. More foreign reference books have been included, and in some cases the scope of the work has been extended to embrace mention of institutions as well as books which may be consulted by the reference librarian.

Special attention is called to the Index which has been made as full as practicable in order that the reference books may be more readily used by persons who have had little experience in looking up information in them. . . .

While it is obviously impossible to make a complete analytic index to the contents of reference books, there are still a number of subjects which it is convenient to locate quickly, and which are difficult to find without a thorough knowledge of these books.

The compiler extends grateful acknowledgments for helpful suggestions to Mr F. W. Faxon, Mr Charles C. Soule, Mr S. H. Berry, Mr A. Growoll, Mr. Edward H. Virgin, Mr. David H. Hutcheson, Mr Charles Martel, Mr Steingrimur Stefansson, Dr Roland P. Falkner, Miss A. R. Hasse, Miss Theodosia E. Macurdy, Mr C. W. Andrews, Mr. J. I. Wyer, Jr., Mr William Coolidge Lane, Miss Nina E. Browne, Mr George Winthrop Lee; to the reference librarians of the Free Library of Philadelphia, Astor Library, Library of Congress, John Crerar Library, and other libraries for their many courtesies.

PREFACE TO THE THIRD EDITION

THE third edition of the Guide is based, in the main, upon the second edition, 1908, and the two supplements for 1909-10 and 1911-13, but the many changes in reference books and developments in reference work and teaching since 1908 have necessitated many changes from the earlier edition. In the third edition the general plan and arrangement of the second edition have been followed and Miss Kroeger's Introduction, familiar to so many classes of library students, has been kept intact except that one section, "How to study reference books," has been made slightly more detailed. The lists of reference books, however, have been changed very materially and the annotations have been rewritten and much extended, so that this latter feature of the Guide is practically new throughout, only a few annotations having been carried over from the second edition, although somewhat more have been retained from the two Supplements. Aside from the new annotation, the revision of the lists of reference books has consisted principally of (1) excision of older titles and editions now superseded by more recent material, (2) addition of new titles including not only the recent books listed in the two Supplements and later titles through 1916, but also a very considerable number of earlier titles, principally foreign or more special works not hitherto included in the Guide, and (3) the addition of some entirely new lists, such as those on Constitutions, International law, Romances, Historical source books, English public documents, etc. Among the older lists which have been greatly augmented are those on Periodical indexes, both General and Special, Foreign dictionaries, Statistics, Author dictionaries, Concordances, Special gazetteers, Place names. In general, information included goes through 1916, and does not cover changes, additions, etc., for 1917.

In order to meet the needs of students in library schools which give courses in advanced reference work and of reference assistants in the larger public and university libraries, foreign reference books have been included more freely than in the earlier editions. Questions raised by the European War have emphasized the use and need of foreign reference books, and it is hoped that the very considerable extension of the Guide in this direction will meet a real need.

Prices have been revised carefully throughout and it is hoped that they are, in the main, accurate. As many book prices have been changed during the war and are still changing, some inaccuracies are inevitable. In the case of annuals and periodicals only the price of the latest volume or current subscription is given, as earlier prices often vary and the cost of a complete set would generally have to be ascertained by quotation from some dealer. The entries of books listed are in most cases those of the Library of Congress printed cards, and the collation has been modified somewhat from the second edition in order to agree more nearly with the Library of Congress practice. At the suggestion of several constant users of the Guide, the paragraph form of list previously used for such lists as Statistical abstracts, Engineering handbooks, etc., has been abandoned and the full entry substituted.

The compiler extends grateful acknowledgment for the helpful suggestions received during her work of revision from many users of the Guide. Special acknowledgment should be made to Miss Mary E. Hazeltine, Principal of the Library school of the University of Wisconsin, Mr Frank K. Walter, Vice Director of the New York State Library School, and Miss Mary L. Sutliff, instructor in reference work in the Library School of the New York Public Library for many suggestions based upon their use of the Guide as a textbook, to Professor W. W. Rockwell of the Union Theological Seminary for constant help in both the selection and the annotation of the theological titles included, to Mr Frederick C. Hicks, Law Librarian, Columbia University, for advice about the list of law reference books, to Mr W. B. Gamble, chief of the Technology division of the New York Public Library and Dr Otto Kinkeldy, chief of the Music division of the New York Public Library for aid in their two specialties, and to Miss E. A. Cole, of the Reference Department, Columbia University Library, for the compilation of the list of statistical abstracts.

INTRODUCTION

A REFERENCE book has been defined as "a book which is to be consulted for definite points of information rather than read through, and is arranged with explicit reference to ease in finding specific facts." (E. C. Richardson in Lib. j. 18:254.)¹ Books which come under this classification are usually separated from the rest of the books in a library and placed where they can be most readily consulted by the public, without the delay of customary formalities. They comprise general encyclopedias, cyclopedias of special subjects, dictionaries, gazetteers, atlases, etc. The term reference book in public libraries is also used to include many books than do not circulate outside the library either on account of their character or their value.¹

REFERENCE WORK IN LIBRARIES

The term reference work is commonly used in libraries to include that branch of their administration which deals with the assistance given to readers in their use of the resources of the library. This is an important part of the educational work of public libraries. The "information desk" is now a well-established feature in the large libraries of America.² At this post the reference librarian presides. His duties are to assist readers in their search for information, and to some extent to guide the reading public by preparing lists of references on topics of the day or on subjects of general interest. He must be able to send inquirers to the necessary reference books or other authorities, and in order to do this he should have a thorough knowledge of the librarian's aids and guides, reference books, and bibliographies.

The reference librarian, especially in a public library, should keep a record of the questions most frequently asked, specifying places in which answers to the same can be found. It is well, if time does not allow for analytic work to be inserted in the card catalog, to keep this record near the information desk, writing the questions on cards with references where found, and filing alphabetically. Much valuable time is consumed in looking up the same question over and over again. This is particularly noticeable in the case of questions for school work where a large number of children are assigned the same topic. Lists of all references on such subjects as Christmas, Arbor Day, Thanksgiving Day, Washington's Farewell address, lives of noted personages,—Washington, Lincoln, Lowell, Holmes, etc.,—should be always at hand covering every available reference in the library on the subject.

In libraries where there is no reference librarian every attendant at the delivery desk must be ready to answer questions, and, when not able to do so, must refer them to the librarian. Any one at all familiar with library management knows what a large number of questions—some trivial and some important—are brought to the library for solution every day.

The librarian cannot always be accessible to the numerous visitors who come to the library. It is, therefore, of the highest importance that his assistants should, so far as possible, understand how to use reference books, which serve frequently as guides to more important authorities which may not be included under the limited title, reference book. The public certainly cannot expect the attendants to know the answers to the questions which they ask, but in the majority of cases they should be expected to know where to find them. This knowledge comes largely from daily experience, and becomes constantly more technical in character; it can, however, be materially assisted by a systematic study of reference books. Johnson said: "Knowledge is of two kinds. We know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information upon it." The latter is one of the necessary requirements of a librarian. A thorough understanding of the use and value of reference books assists one to turn readily to the correct book for the solution of some difficult point, and saves much valuable time. Every desk-attendant should be a reference librarian so far as in him lies the ability.

The true librarian finds no greater satisfaction in his daily work than that of solving a difficult problem for some earnest student by placing before him the best authority from some hidden corner of the library. The memory can be trained along these lines to a remarkable degree. The librarian who sincerely wishes to succeed in this, by a systematic study of the books of reference, and the use of the indexes and other keys, will be able to accomplish what will appear most wonderful to one not accustomed to the daily handling of books and constant observation of them.

A librarian, distinguished for his ability to assist readers, wrote, "In the intervals of library work, I am accustomed to consider the looking up of subjects or authorities as one of my very best recreations. It is as interesting as a game of whist and much more profitable. . . . And this is one of the foremost attractions, let me add, of the librarian's calling; it is more full of intellectual variety, of wide-open avenues to knowledge, than any other vocation whatever." A. R. Spofford in his Book for all readers, p. 193.

In some of the large libraries meetings of the assistants are held at regular intervals. A study of aids and guides, with the result of practical experience in using them, can be made an instructive feature of such meetings. There are possibilities of improvement in the regular staff of the library in this way, while the results can be tested from time to time if desired by means of examinations, the questions asked at the delivery desk serving as a basis for such examination.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION

Other institutions besides libraries are engaged in reference work and are important bureaus of information which the reference librarian should know and refer to when the resources of his library have been exhausted. Some of these are in connection with the United States government at Washington, among which may be mentioned the Bureau of Education which is the chief authority in the country for educational information, the Department of Agriculture, the Surgeon-general's office for medical subjects, the Department of Commerce and Labor and many others. There are other institutions such as the Philadelphia Museums whose specialty is foreign commerce that may be called upon by librarians for aid in looking up subjects.

A few enterprises of a more commercial nature it is also well to use. An example of this is the Cumulative Reference Library of the H. W. Wilson Company, White Plains, which consists of articles clipped from magazines (principally those indexed in the Readers' guide) and theses, pamphlets, etc. Collections on a number of important subjects are rented at a small cost. This is of use in small towns to supplement the collections of the public library when its collection of periodicals is limited.

INTERLIBRARY LOANS

Through a system of interlibrary loans books may be borrowed from other libraries for the use of students. The reference librarian must remember this when assisting serious readers. The Library of Congress, for example, lends books "for the convenience of investigators engaged in research" on condition that the book is an unusual one "which it is not the duty of the local library to supply, and that it can at the moment be spared by the Library of Congress, and that the risk and expense of transportation shall be borne by the borrowing library." This custom is also adopted by many large public, state and college libraries.

LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE WORK

Several of the states have established in connection with the state library a legislative reference department where members of the legislature can obtain material upon matters which come before them for consideration and action. The legislative reference librarian collects books, newspaper and magazine articles, documents, pamphlets, letters, etc., classifies and indexes these so as to have them ready for immediate consultation. A few cities have adopted the idea by establishing municipal reference departments for the benefit of the mayor and the council. These legislative departments can also be consulted by librarians.

REFERENCE WORK IN COLLEGES

In many colleges the study of bibliography has been introduced—usually as an elective course in the senior year—in which the use of reference books and the library catalog is included. This is realizing, to some extent, what Emerson so much desired when he wrote, earnestly advocating a professorship of books in every college. That the college is the proper field for such study there is little question. It is only to be regretted that such a chair does not exist in every college, and that the course is not a regular part of the curriculum. It is here that the student, who is pursuing a special line of work, finds that a knowledge of bibliography will aid him in obtaining access to the literature of his subject, and that in thoroughly understanding how to use reference books, he can find quickly information on subjects outside his specialty which otherwise he would either do without, or be obliged to consume much valuable time in finding.

REFERENCE WORK IN SCHOOLS

A systematic study of the use of books can also be made an important feature in the training of teachers, and it might therefore be introduced to advantage into the course of study in high and normal schools. The knowledge of how to advise others what to read and how to find answers to the questions constantly coming up in the course of their reading is of the greatest value to the student who is soon to go out to teach young people. One of the difficult problems of the public libraries of the present day, especially in our large cities, is to make closer the union between the public library and the public schools. Many methods have been adopted to bring about better results in improving the character of the reading of the children in the schools, and much valuable discussion of these methods may be found in the volumes of the Library Journal. Nevertheless it still remains a formidable task for one librarian in a large city to influence several hundred public school teachers or to assist them to any perceptible degree in learning how to use the library and the books in it. Instruction of this character should begin before the cares and busy hours of teaching take up all the time, if not all the enthusiasm and desire on the part of the teacher.

A normal school is generally provided with a working collection of books. The instruction should therefore include a study of the catalog and classification of its own library, which must be made to conform as nearly as possible to the best library methods. In teaching the use of reference books in schools, it will often be found necessary to take the class to the public library, if the school library does not contain the most important of these books. On leaving the school, every student should be able to go to a library to look up any information either in catalog, on shelves, or in reference books.

The references (p. 4-5) will call attention to many articles in library periodicals, illustrating courses now given in normal schools.

HOW TO STUDY REFERENCE BOOKS

Only constant and practical use of a reference book will make a student thoroughly familiar with its character and use, but the following suggestions will help him in his preliminary examination of the book.

1. Examine title page carefully for information as to (a) scope of work as indicated in title, (b) author's name, (c) author's previous record (often indicated by list of degrees, positions, titles of earlier works, etc.), (d) publisher, (e) date of publication. Check date of publication by reference to copyright date and date of preface.

2. Read preface or introduction for (a) further information as to scope of work, (b) special features claimed, (c) limitations, if any, (d) comparison with other books on same subject.

3. Examine book itself for (a) arrangement, (b) kind of entry, (c) cross-references, i. e. extent to which included, whether given in main work or in separate list, etc., (d) supplementary lists, noting number and kind and how connected with main work, (e) indexes, noting fullness and exactness of reference, (f) quality and kind of articles, noting whether they are popular or scientific, signed or unsigned, impartial or biased, and especially whether they are equipped with satisfactory bibliographical references in the form of either appended bibliographies, references throughout the text or bibliographical foot notes. Several articles should be read carefully, and compared with similar articles in other books. The student should, if possible, look up subjects upon which he has some special information.

4. In examining both preface and articles note any evidence of lack of impartiality; c. g. if the book deals with a controversial subject, religious, political, etc., does it represent only one side; or in the case of a biographical work, is the selection of names, kind and length of article, etc., determined in any way by the desire to secure subscribers.

5. If the work in question purports to be a new edition, note carefully the extent of revision claimed for it and check this by comparison with earlier editions.

It is not sufficient that titles of reference books should be known to the student, but systematic study should be followed by constant reference to the books by means of set questions which must be looked up thoroughly. As the student progresses, he must not confine himself to the reference books, but consult the best books on any subject for fuller, and often more authoritative, information. Many text-books are the best reference books on special subjects. These have not been included in this list, which is limited to the more narrow meaning of the term reference book. Libraries such as that of the British Museum, and even others not so large, include the leading text-books and authorities in the reference department. This should be done if the library can afford to possess duplicate copies.

Care should always be taken to keep in touch with what is being published, the latest editions and most recent authorities should be noted, and when a new work comes out, and is found to be useful for some specific purpose, it should be added to the student's list of reference books.

GUIDE TO REFERENCE BOOKS

"Reference books are the clearing-houses of knowledge. They are libraries in miniature, focusing into a single book information scattered through a thousand volumes. They are short-cuts to learning, pass-keys to the accumulated wisdom of the ages. The ordinary reader knows little of them, and realizes but slightly the great help they would be to him in his daily reading and daily living." W: G: Jordan in Literary era, 8:52.

"A selection of the best works of reference should be the corner-stone of every library collection." A. R. Spofford in his Book for all readers.

"... For I have long known how much books of reference fail of all the good which they might accomplish, simply from ignorance of them, or inability to use them intelligently." Justin Winsor in Lib. j. 3:159.

"It is quite possible for a person of ordinary memory and ability, by careful study of reference books, by familiarity with the arrangement of his library, and by attention to the aids which his fellow librarians have put in print, to gain that respectable amount of information about a great many things essential to work at the information desk." George T. Little in Lib. j. 20: C 20.

"We all agree in lamenting that there are so many houses—even some of considerable social position—where you will not find a good atlas, a good dictionary, or a good cyclopædia of reference. What is still more lamentable, in a good many more houses where these books are, they are never referred to or opened. That is a very discreditable fact, because I defy anybody to take up a single copy of the Times newspaper and not come upon something in it, upon which, if their interest in the affairs of the day were active, intelligent, and alert as it ought to be, they would consult an atlas, dictionary, or cyclopædia of reference." John Morley in his Studies in literature, p. 205.

"It [a public library] should be rich in books of reference, in encyclopædias, where one may learn without cost of research what things are generally known. For it is far more useful to know these than to know those that are not generally known." James Russell Lowell in his Books and libraries.

REFERENCE BOOKS AND REFERENCE WORK

ists of the principal articles in English on reference books, reference work and aids, instruction in the use of reference books, legislative reference work, etc., will be found in Cannons' Bibliography of library economy (Lond., 1910), Library work, 1905-11 (White Plains, N. Y., 1912), in the department entitled "Library work" which is now a regular feature of the Library journal and in the annual cumulative index of this department which is included, beginning 1915, in the American library journal. PERIODICALS, ESSAYS, DEBATES, DISSERTATIONS

PERIODICALS

Periodicals form a very important element in reference work in any library, supplementing the book collections in several important ways. They are especially useful for the following purposes:

1. For subjects where it is of first importance to have the latest information available in print, periodicals often furnish articles that are later than any book on the subject. This use of periodicals is of special importance in the sciences, in technology, and in political, economic, and industrial questions of current interest.

2. Periodicals often contain articles on subjects about which the library has no books, or even about which no books have yet been written. This is especially true in the case of small or obscure subjects, or subjects of purely local or temporary interest.

3. Periodical articles are often very useful in showing contemporary opinion on any given event, subject, person, book, etc. Periodicals, newspapers, and contemporary memoirs are the three main sources for such information, and of these three sources, periodical files are the most easily used and most serviceable in the ordinary library.

To make the best use of periodical literature and to answer the ordinary questions about periodicals the reference worker needs three types of reference aids. These are:

1. The index to periodicals, which furnishes a guide to the contents of files of periodicals, serving the same purpose for articles in periodicals that the library card catalog does for the books in the library.

2. The bibliography or catalog of periodicals which is a list of the periodicals themselves, not an index to their contents, and which furnishes information about the periodicals listed, their correct titles, history, character, editors, prices, publishers, etc.

3. The union list of periodicals, which supplies information as to where sets of the periodicals included in the list may be found. Such lists are usually regional, i. e. for a given city, or larger area.

GENERAL INDEXES

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH

Poole's index to periodical literature, 1802-81. Rev. ed. Bost. Houghton, 1891 [^c86] 2 v. 27^{cm}. $16. 050

—Supplements, Jan. 1882-Jan. 1, 1907. Bost. Houghton [^c1887-1908] 5 v. 27^{cm}. $46. 050

Originally edited by William Frederick Poole, continued by him and William Isaac Fletcher, with the co-operation of members of the American library association.

Contents: v. 1, 1802-81; 1st suppl. 1882-86; 2d suppl. 1887-91; 3d suppl. 1892-96; 4th suppl. 1897-1901; 5th suppl. 1902-1906.

The pioneer index and, though no longer continued, still the most important index to American and English periodicals, since it covers the longest period, 105 years, and indexes the large total of about 590,000 articles in 12,241 volumes of 470 different American and English periodicals. A subject index only, includes no author entries; authors' names appear frequently as entries, but only as subject entries for biographical or critical articles about such authors. To make intelligent use of the index the student should remember the following points: (1) no author entries; (2) all articles having a distinct subject are entered under that subject; (3) articles having no subject, i. e. fiction, poems, plays, are entered under the first word of the title not an article; (4) book reviews are entered in two different ways: (a) reviews of a book which has a definite subject are entered under subject of the book; (b) reviews of a book which does not have a distinct subject, i. e. a novel, a work of poetry, a drama, are entered under the name of the author reviewed. Approximately complete for the periodicals covered, except in the following respects: (1) very brief articles, notes, etc. generally omitted; (2) minor book reviews not included; (3) some English periodicals included in volume 1 are incompletely indexed because of failure in collaboration between the English and American indexes. Information given about each article includes its title, author's name in curves when it was known or could be ascertained, abbreviated title of periodical, volume and page reference. Neither inclusive paging nor date is given, but the date (year only) can be worked out from the "Chronological conspectus," an ingenious table at the beginning of each volume. The list of periodicals indexed comprises principally periodicals of a general nature but a few selected periodicals on special subjects are included. In general the work of both indexing and printing is very accurate and there are comparatively few typographical errors. A list of errata has been published in the Bulletin of bibliography as follows—2:24-25, 40-41, 56-58, 75-76, 133-134; 3:25; 4:11-12, 72.

Poole's index to periodical literature. Abridged ed. ed. by W. I. Fletcher and Mary Poole. Bost. Houghton, 1901. 843 p. 27^{cm}. $12. 050

—First supplement, 1900-04. Bost. Houghton, 1905. 260 p. 27^{cm}. $5. 050

A condensation of Poole's Index, including all references to 37 popular periodicals still published, to the end of 1899. Designed especially for the small library, but of value to all libraries, large or small, on account of its one alphabet and the fact that it gives references enough for all ordinary work.

Annual literary index. 1892-1904. Including periodicals, American and English; essays, book-chapters, etc.; with author-index, bibliographies, necrology, and index to dates of principal events. N. Y. Publishers' weekly, 1893-1905. 13 v. 27^{cm}. $3.50 per vol. 050

Ed. by W. I. Fletcher and R. R. Bowker.

Contents of each volume: (1) Subject index to periodicals; (2) Subject index to general literature; (3) Author index to (1) and (2); (4) Bibliographies; (5) Necrology; (6) Index to dates of principal events.

A composite annual index containing among the six sections of the contents noted above four distinct indexes: (1) a subject index which was an annual continuation of Poole, indexing the same periodicals in the same way and forming the basis for the five-yearly Poole supplements; (2) a subject index to essays, which continued the A. L. A. index; (3) a much needed author index, never incorporated in Poole, and (6) an index to dates, which served practically as an index to newspapers. The Annual literary index has been in large measure superseded by the Poole supplements and the second edition and supplement of the A. L. A. index, but it is still useful for the author indexes, which furnish the only extended author key to the sets of Poole periodicals before 1900. Lists (4)-(6) are still occasionally useful.

Annual library index. 1905-10. Including periodicals, American and English; essays, book-chapters, etc.; bibliographies, necrology, and index to dates of principal events and select lists of public libraries in the United States and Canada and of private collectors of books. N. Y. Publishers' weekly, 1906-11. 6 v. 27^{cm}. $3.50 per vol. 050

Subtitle varies.

Editors: 1905, W. I. Fletcher, H. E. Haines; 1906-09, W. I. Fletcher; 1910, W. I. Fletcher and others.

Preceded by the Annual literary index (1892-1904)

Contents of each volume: (1) Index of periodicals, author, title and subject in one alphabet; (2) Index to general literature; (3) Bibliographies; (4) Necrology; (5) Index to dates of principal events; (6) Selected list of public libraries in the U. S. and Canada; (7) Selected list of private collectors of books.

Of the above contents (1)-(5) are found in all volumes, (6) in 1908-10 only, and (7) in 1910 only.

As an index the Annual library index differed from its predecessor, the Annual literary index, principally in the fact that its index to periodicals contained authors, titles and subjects in one alphabet instead of two separate subject and author lists. Now partly superseded, although it must still be used for many author entries for 1905-06; for subject entries it is now practically superseded by the cumulated volumes of the Readers' guide and Readers' guide supplement. (see below, p. 7) The other lists are still useful.

Readers' guide to periodical literature (cumulated), 1900-1914. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1905-15. v. 1-3. 27^{cm}. v. 1. $16. v. 2, $24. v. 3, $36. 050

—[annual] 1915-. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1915-. 26^{cm}. $6. 050

—[monthly] 1916-. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1916-. 26^{cm}. Subs. price $12. 050

A cumulative index, made up of three forms or sections: (1) permanent five-yearly volumes, (2) annual volumes, to be used as supplements to the quinquennial volumes until superseded by a new quinquennial, and (3) monthly issues, cumulating quarterly (i. e., March 3 months, June 6 months, September 9 months, etc.) until the last or December number forms a new annual volume. A complete set to date always consists of all quinquennial volumes, all annuals since the last quinquennial, the latest quarterly cumulation of the current year and the current (latest monthly) number.

Started in 1901 as an index for the small library, covering at first only 15 of the more popular periodicals, and gradually extended until in 1903 it absorbed the Cumulative index (see below, p. 7) and in 1911 took over the work of the Annual library index. The three five-yearly volumes indexed a total of about 567,000 articles in 2,456 volumes of 136 different periodicals, and the 1915 annual covered 92 periodicals. A modern index of the best type. Its special features are: (1) full dictionary cataloging of all articles, i. e., their entry under author, subject, and title when necessary; (2) uniformity of entries, owing to the fact that the work is done by a few professional indexers rather than by many voluntary collaborators; (3) use of catalog subject headings instead of catchword subjects; (4) full information in the references, i. e., refers not only to volume and page, but also to exact date and inclusive paging, and indicates illustrations, portraits, etc.; (5) the cumulative features of the monthly issues, which keep the index well to date without multiplying alphabets to be consulted; (6) the indexing of all book reviews, through 1904, under author reviewed; after 1905 reviews are generally omitted because included in the Book review digest; (7) the indexing, in the 2d and 3d quinquennial volumes, of some 597 composite books, thus forming an unofficial continuation of the A. L. A. index of general literature (see p. 24) This book indexing was abandoned after 1914 because the analytic work in the Standard catalog now being prepared by the same firm will take its place.

Readers' guide to periodical literature: Supplement, 1907-15; author and subject index to a selected list of periodicals not included in the Readers' guide, and to composite books. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson 1252 p. 26^{cm}. Price on service basis; apply to publisher. 050

Author and subject index, on the same plan as the Readers' guide. Indexes 74 periodicals of which 55 are indexed for the period 1907-15, and 19 for the period 1913-15 only, as they were already indexed for previous years in the Readers' guide. Indexes also some 55 composite books. In all about 89,000 articles are listed. Continued by the following:

Readers' guide to periodical literature: Supplement. An author and subject index to general periodicals not included in the Readers' guide, 1913-16. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1913-16. v. 1-4. 26^{cm}. 050

Annual cumulation $7. Subscription price varies according to number of periodicals taken. Apply to publisher.

Bi-monthly, cumulating throughout the year. Follows the same system of indexing as the Readers' guide. Material indexed is less popular in character than that included in the Readers' guide. v. 1-3 superseded by the 1907-15 cumulation noted above.

Cumulative index to a selected list of periodicals, 1896-Jun. 1903. Cleveland, Cumulative index co. 1897-1903. 8 v. 25^{cm}. $5 per year. 050

Started by the Cleveland public library (v. 1-3), continued by the Helman-Taylor co. (v. 4), then by the Cumulative index co. (v. 5-8) Consolidated with the Readers' guide to periodical literature, July, 1903.

Indexed 50 periodicals.

The Cumulative index was published monthly with quarterly and annual cumulations. No annual cumulations after 1898.

The indexing is by authors, titles, subjects. Portraits and book reviews are indexed. Now largely superseded but still occasionally useful for material not included in the corresponding volumes of Poole.

Magazine subject-index; a subject-index to seventy-nine American and English periodicals, forty-four indexed from their first issues to December 31, 1907, thirty-five indexed for the year 1907; comp. by F. W. Faxon. Boston book co. 1908. v. 1. 24^{cm}. $3. 050

An index of subjects only, not of authors or titles, except that fiction when included is indexed under author's name. Indexes all material with exact reference, giving abbreviated title of periodical, volume, date, inclusive paging and indication of illustrations, portraits, maps, and plans. Intended as a supplement to other indexes and so includes no periodicals indexed in either Poole, the Readers' guide, or Annual library index. While the whole list of periodicals is general in character about half of the titles relate to history, especially local history, and the index specializes also in travel, mountaineering, exploration, out-door life, and fine arts. Indexes all important articles in the periodicals covered but omits short or trivial articles, poetry, and most fiction, though continued stories and short stories by notable writers are included. Continued by the following:

Annual magazine subject-index for 1908-1915. A subject-index to American and

Compiler: F. W. Faxon.

Beginning with 1909, includes as pt. 2 the Dramatic index for 1909-15.

An annual supplement to the Magazine subject index, compiled on the same plan and specializing in the same subjects. In accordance with the plan of not indexing any periodicals covered by other general indexes, this index varies its list from year to year, dropping periodicals which have been taken over by other indexes and adding new titles. The annual volumes add many new local history titles, especially transactions of local history societies indexed in Griffin's bibliography (see p. 30), and as these are in many cases indexed back to the date when Griffin stopped, the index constitutes an informal continuation of Griffin. The only exception to the rule not to index material included elsewhere is in the case of a few of these history periodicals which are left in for the sake of completeness in this specialty. Indexes more English periodicals than other American indexes; out of 163 periodicals indexed in 1915, 26 are English and 8 Canadian.

Eclectic library catalog, 1908-1912. Minneapolis, Wilson, 1908-12. 5 v. $2.50 ea., bound together $5.

Title changed. 1911, to Readers guide abridged. Planned especially for the small library, indexing about twenty periodicals and selected public documents. Discontinued after 1912.

Review of reviews. Index to the periodicals of 1890-1902. [v. 1]-13. Lond. and N. Y., Review of reviews, 1891-1903. 13 v. illus., ports. 25^{cm}. annual. 15s. per vol. 050

Title varies: v. 1, 1891, The Annual index of periodicals & photographs for 1890; v. 2-4, Index to the periodical literature of the world. (Covering the year 1891-1893.)

No more published.

Primarily a subject index, but contains a fair number of author entries also, especially in the later volumes. Indexes material under rather broad subjects and gives for each, brief title, author's name when known, periodical, volume, month, and page reference, and, in parentheses, a reference to the volume, month, and page of the Review of reviews where a summary or other notice of the article is to be found. Indicates maps and illustrations. Indexes novels, short stories and poems under authors' names, not under title; as a special feature gives under such subjects as music, architecture, fiction, etc., a list of persons connected with those subjects who are noticed elsewhere in the index. The number of periodicals indexed varies from 117 in 1890 to 195 in 1902. Principally useful because it covers many English periodicals (about 100 in the later volumes) which are not indexed in Poole. Not needed in the small library.

Athenaeum subject index to periodicals, 1915. Issued at the request of the council of the Library association. Lond. Athenaeum, 1916. 350 p. 32^{cm}. £2, 10s. 050

Issued in two forms (1) preliminary class lists, as follows: A, Theology and philosophy; B, History; B1, European war; C, Geography, anthropology, and folk-lore; D, Sports and games; E, Economic and political sciences; F, Education; G, Fine arts and archaeology; H, Music; I, Language and literature; J, Science and technology; K, Preventive medicine and hygiene; (2) annual volume, combining in one alphabet the material of the class lists and adding other references.

A subject index to some 13,374 articles in 420 periodicals, principally English and American, although 17 French, 2 German, 2 Italian and 2 Russian periodicals are also included. Gives full title, with occasional brief explanatory notes, author's name, date, volume, and inclusive paging. The main index is to subjects only, but there is also an author index which refers to the subject list.

FOREIGN

Bibliographie der fremdsprachigen zeitschriftenliteratur, 1911-14. Lpz. Dietrich, 1911-14. v. 1-13. 26^{cm}. (Internationale bibliographie der zeitschriftenliteratur, Abteilung B.) 30m. per vol. 050

Similar in general plan and arrangement to the Bibliographie der deutschen zeitschriftenliteratur which now forms Abteilung A of the Internationale bibliographie. Indexes about 2,000 periodicals and general works in English and all the principal foreign languages except German. In the English and American library the principal use of this index will probably be for the large amount of French and Italian material indexed.

BELGIAN

Bibliographie de Belgique: 2^{me} partie, Sommaire des périodiques, 1897-1913. Bruxelles, Van Oest., 1897-1913. 17 v. 054

Title and frequency vary. 1899-1911, is 3d part of Bibliographie de Belgique and has title Bulletin des sommaires; 1912-13, is 2d part and has title Sommaire des périodiques; 1899-1911, frequency varied, monthly (sometimes bimonthly or quarterly) with annual author index; 1912-13, semiannual with annual author and subject indexes. Each number is a classed subject index arranged by the Belgian Dewey D. C. numbers; indexes a large number of periodicals, gives fairly full information for each article, i. e. author, title, periodical volume and number. A cumbersome but usable index, not easy to handle for quick reference work but useful when the whole field is to be covered, as it supplies material not easily findable in any other way.

Discontinued 1914, because of the European war.

DANISH

Dansk tidsskrift-index, 1915. København, Lybecker, 1916. 246 p. 23^{cm}. $1.058

Edited by Svend Dahl and Th. Dossing.
A classified subject index to 165 periodicals.

DUTCH

Hague. Koninklijke bibliotheek. Repertorium op de nederlandsche tijdschriften. Jaarg. 1-3, 1914-16. s'-Gravenhage. 1914-16. v. 1-3. 20^{cm}. 053

Monthly, Feb.-Dec. 11 numbers a year. The first volume indexed 440 periodicals, the second nearly as many. A monthly classified subject index arranged, like the Belgian index noted above by a modified decimal classification order, with annual index of (1) authors (2) small subjects, alphabetically. Gives for each article included author, full title, periodical, volume, year and inclusive paging and D. C. class number, with occasional contents or descriptive notes. Issued in three forms: (1) on ordinary paper printed on both sides; (2) on thin paper printed on one side only; (3) on cards. For the very large library or the library specializing in Dutch material, but not needed in other types.

Nijhoff's index op de nederlandsche periodieken van algemeenen inhoud, bewerkt door A. J. Van Huffel, jr. 's-Gravenhage, Nijhoff, 1910-16. v. 1-7 annual subs. 2 fl. 053

v. 1, Sept. 1909-Dec. 1910; v. 2, 1911; v. 3, 1912; v. 4, 1913; v. 5, 1914; v. 6, 1915; v. 7, 1916.

Monthly index to 49 general periodicals, including a few newspapers. No annual cumulations. Each number contains authors and subjects in one alphabet with a separate list of book reviews at the end. Useful in the very large library, or in the smaller library which specializes in Dutch material.

FRENCH

Argus des revues, indicateur universel, contient des articles provenant de près de 1,000 revues françaises et étrangères. Paris, Argus de la presse, 1880-1914. annual subs. 18 fr. 054

Not a regular general index, but a bimonthly list of the more important articles of general interest selected from about 1,000 French, Belgian and other foreign periodicals and newspapers. A subject list with no author index, no annual index, no cumulations. Gives only brief title of article, author, title and number or date of periodical in which found. Not satisfactory for quick reference work, but offers the only substitute for a general French index covering a long period and so is often useful when it is important to get at a large amount of French material. For the university or large reference library only.

Discontinued 1914, because of the European War.

Répertoire bibliographique des principales revues françaises, 1897-99. Paris, Per Lamm, 1898-1900. v. 1-3. 26^{cm}. v. 1, 16.50 fr.; v. 2, 20 fr.; v. 3, 22 fr. 054

A useful and important index, unfortunately discontinued after the third volume because of lack of support. Each volume contains: (1) a subject index giving title of article, author's name, and title and volume or number of the periodical and page reference, (2) an author index giving somewhat briefer information. Vol. 1 indexes 147 periodicals, vol. 2, 257, and vol. 3, 346. The Société française de bibliographie, organized in 1904, planned to revive this index but so far the plan has not been carried out.

GERMAN

Bibliographie der deutschen zeitschriftenliteratur, mit einschluss von sammlerwerken. Alphabetisches nach schlagworten sachlich geordnetes verzeichnis von aufätzen, die in zeitschriften und sammlerwerken deutscher zunge erschienen sind, mit Autoren-register, 1896-1915. Lpz. Dietrich, 1897-16. v. 1-37. 25^{cm}. (Internationale bibliographie der zeitschriften literatur, Abteilung A) price varies, about 25m. per vol. 053

Title varies slightly.

Editors: 1896- , Felix Dietrich and others.

— Ergänzungs-band 1-8. Lpz. Dietrich, 1908-1915. v. 1-8. 25^{cm}.

Numbered in set as v. 22A, 24A, 28A, 30A, 32A, 33A, 35A, 35B, 36B.

Contents: Erg. bd. 1, 1896-98; 2, 1896-1908; 3, 1893-95; 4, 1891-92; 5, 1889-90; 6, 1911-13; 7, 1887-88; 8, 1913-14; 9, 1885-86.

A voluminous and comprehensive index valuable because of the large number of important German periodicals, transactions, yearbooks and other composite works indexed, but difficult to use for quick reference partly because of the abbreviation of references and compactness of printing, and partly because the form of publication in semi-annual volumes with no cumulation necessitates the consultation of many alphabets—46 subject and 45 author alphabets in the set listed above. Except in the case of vols. 34-35 which have a combined author index each volume consists of (1) a subject index arranged

Compiler: F. W. Faxon.

Beginning with 1909, includes as pt. 2 the Dramatic index for 1909-15.

An annual supplement to the Magazine subject index, compiled on the same plan and specializing in the same subjects. In accordance with the plan of not indexing any periodicals covered by other general indexes, this index varies its list from year to year, dropping periodicals which have been taken over by other indexes and adding new titles. The annual volumes add many new local history titles, especially transactions of local history societies indexed in Griffin's bibliography (see p. 30), and as these are in many cases indexed back to the date when Griffin stopped, the index constitutes an informal continuation of Griffin. The only exception to the rule not to index material included elsewhere is in the case of a few of these history periodicals which are left in for the sake of completeness in this specialty. Indexes more English periodicals than other American indexes; out of 163 periodicals indexed in 1915, 26 are English and 8 Canadian.

Eclectic library catalog, 1908-1912. Minneapolis, Wilson, 1908-12. 5 v. $2.50 ea., bound together $5.

Title changed, 1911, to Readers guide abridged. Planned especially for the small library, indexing about twenty periodicals and selected public documents. Discontinued after 1912.

Review of reviews. Index to the periodicals of 1890-1902. [v. 1]-13. Lond. and N. Y., Review of reviews, 1891-1903. 13 v. illus., ports. 25^{cm}. annual. 15s. per vol. 050

Title varies: v. 1, 1891, The Annual index of periodicals & photographs for 1890; v. 2-4, Index to the periodical literature of the world. (Covering the year 1891-1893.)

No more published.

Primarily a subject index, but contains a fair number of author entries also, especially in the later volumes. Indexes material under rather broad subjects and gives for each, brief title, author's name when known, periodical, volume, month, and page reference, and, in parentheses, a reference to the volume, month, and page of the Review of reviews where a summary or other notice of the article is to be found. Indicates maps and illustrations. Indexes novels, short stories and poems under authors' names, not under title; as a special feature gives under such subjects as music, architecture, fiction, etc., a list of persons connected with those subjects who are noticed elsewhere in the index. The number of periodicals indexed varies from 117 in 1890 to 195 in 1902. Principally useful because it covers many English periodicals (about 100 in the later volumes) which are not indexed in Poole. Not needed in the small library.

Athenaeum subject index to periodicals, 1915. Issued at the request of the council of the Library association. Lond. Athenaeum, 1916. 350 p. 32^{cm}. £2, 10s. 050

Issued in two forms (1) preliminary class lists, as follows: A, Theology and philosophy; B, History; B1, European war; C, Geography, anthropology, and folk-lore; D, Sports and games; E, Economic and political sciences; F, Education; G, Fine arts and archaeology; H, Music; I, Language and literature; J, Science and technology; K, Preventive medicine and hygiene; (2) annual volume, combining in one alphabet the material of the class lists and adding other references.

A subject index to some 13,374 articles in 420 periodicals, principally English and American, although 17 French, 2 German, 2 Italian and 2 Russian periodicals are also included. Gives full title, with occasional brief explanatory notes, author's name, date, volume, and inclusive paging. The main index is to subjects only, but there is also an author index which refers to the subject list.

FOREIGN

Bibliographie der fremdsprachigen zeitschriftenliteratur, 1911-14. Lpz. Dietrich, 1911-14. v. 1-13. 26^{cm}. (Internationale bibliographie der zeitschriftenliteratur, Abteilung B.) 30m. per vol. 050

Similar in general plan and arrangement to the Bibliographie der deutschen zeitschriftenliteratur which now forms Abteilung A of the Internationale bibliographie. Indexes about 2,000 periodicals and general works in English and all the principal foreign languages except German. In the English and American library the principal use of this index will probably be for the large amount of French and Italian material indexed.

BELGIAN

Bibliographie de Belgique: 2^{me} partie, Sommaire des périodiques, 1897-1913. Bruxelles, Van Oest., 1897-1913. 17 v. 054

Title and frequency vary. 1899-1911, is 3d part of Bibliographie de Belgique and has title Bulletin des sommaires; 1912-13, is 2d part and has title Sommaire des périodiques; 1899-1911, frequency varied, monthly (sometimes bimonthly or quarterly) with annual author index; 1912-13, semiannual with annual author and subject indexes. Each number is a classed subject index arranged by the Belgian Dewey D. C. numbers; indexes a large number of periodicals, gives fairly full information for each article, i. e. author, title, periodical volume and number. A cumbersome but usable index, not easy to handle for quick reference work but useful when the whole field is to be covered, as it supplies material not easily findable in any other way.

Discontinued 1914, because of the European war.

DANISH

Dansk tidsskrift-index, 1915. København, Lybecker, 1916. 246 p. 23^{cm}. $1.058

Edited by Svend Dahl and Th. Dossing.
A classified subject index to 165 periodicals.

DUTCH

Hague. Koninklijke bibliotheek. Repertorium op de nederlandsche tijdschriften. Jaarg. 1-3, 1914-16. s'-Gravenhage. 1914-16. v. 1-3. 20^{cm}. 053

Monthly, Feb.-Dec. 11 numbers a year. The first volume indexed 440 periodicals, the second nearly as many. A monthly classified subject index arranged, like the Belgian index noted above by a modified decimal classification order, with annual index of (1) authors (2) small subjects, alphabetically. Gives for each article included author, full title, periodical, volume, year and inclusive paging and D. C. class number, with occasional contents or descriptive notes. Issued in three forms: (1) on ordinary paper printed on both sides; (2) on thin paper printed on one side only; (3) on cards. For the very large library or the library specializing in Dutch material, but not needed in other types.

Nijhoff's index op de nederlandsche periodieken van algemeenen inhoud, bewerkt door A. J. Van Huffel, jr. 's-Gravenhage, Nijhoff, 1910-16. v. 1-7 annual subs. 2 fl. 053

v. 1, Sept. 1909-Dec. 1910; v. 2, 1911; v. 3, 1912; v. 4, 1913; v. 5, 1914; v. 6, 1915; v. 7, 1916.

Monthly index to 49 general periodicals, including a few newspapers. No annual cumulations. Each number contains authors and subjects in one alphabet with a separate list of book reviews at the end. Useful in the very large library, or in the smaller library which specializes in Dutch material.

FRENCH

Argus des revues, indicateur universel, contient des articles provenant de près de 1,000 revues françaises et étrangères. Paris, Argus de la presse, 1880-1914. annual subs. 18 fr. 054

Not a regular general index, but a bimonthly list of the more important articles of general interest selected from about 1,000 French, Belgian and other foreign periodicals and newspapers. A subject list with no author index, no annual index, no

cumulations. Gives only brief title of article, author, title and number or date of periodical in which found. Not satisfactory for quick reference work, but offers the only substitute for a general French index covering a long period and so is often useful when it is important to get at a large amount of French material. For the university or large reference library only.

Discontinued 1914, because of the European War.

Répertoire bibliographique des principales revues françaises, 1897-99. Paris, Per Lamm, 1898-1900. v. 1-3. 26^{cm}. v. 1, 16.50 fr.; v. 2, 20 fr.; v. 3, 22 fr. 054

A useful and important index, unfortunately discontinued after the third volume because of lack of support. Each volume contains: (1) a subject index giving title of article, author's name, and title and volume or number of the periodical and page reference, (2) an author index giving somewhat briefer information. Vol. 1 indexes 147 periodicals, vol. 2, 257, and vol. 3, 346. The Société française de bibliographie, organized in 1904, planned to revive this index but so far the plan has not been carried out.

GERMAN

Bibliographie der deutschen zeitschriftenliteratur, mit einschluß von sammelwerken. Alphabetisches nach schlagworten sachlich geordnetes verzeichnis von aufätzen, die in zeitschriften und sammelwerken deutscher zunge erschienen sind, mit Autoren-register, 1896-1915. Lpz. Dietrich, 1897-16. v. 1-37. 25^{cm}. (Internationale bibliographie der zeitschriften literatur, Abteilung A) price varies, about 25m. per vol. 053

Title varies slightly.

Editors: 1896- , Felix Dietrich and others.

— Ergänzungs-band 1-8. Lpz. Dietrich, 1908-1915. v. 1-8. 25^{cm}.

Numbered in set as v. 22A, 24A, 28A, 30A, 32A, 33A, 35A, 35B, 36B.

A voluminous and comprehensive index valuable because of the large number of important German periodicals, transactions, yearbooks and other composite works indexed, but difficult to use for quick reference partly because of the abbreviation of references and compactness of printing, and partly because the form of publication in semi-annual volumes with no cumulation necessitates the consultation of many alphabets—46 subject and 45 author alphabets in the set listed above. Except in the case of vols. 34-35 which have a combined author index each volume consists of (1) a subject index arranged alphabetically by rather large subjects, giving for each article indexed its title, author's name in curves when known, reference to periodical by key number instead of title, and volume and page reference; and (2) an author index to the subject index. The number of periodicals indexed is very large, ranging from 275 in the first volume to about 3,000 in later volumes. The period covered in the whole set is 31 years, for while vol. 1 starts with 1896 the retrospective indexing of the Ergänzungsbände carries the work back to 1885. Important in university work and in large libraries which have many German periodicals, but not generally recommended for other libraries. Often especially important for biography because it indexes many yearbooks of learned societies containing obituary notices.

ITALIAN

Italy. Parlamento. Camera dei deputati. Biblioteca. Catalogo metodico degli scritti contenuti nelle pubblicazioni periodiche italiane e straniere. Parte 1^a. Scritti biografici e critici. Roma, Tip. della Camera dei deputati, 1885-1914. v. 1-7. 28^{cm}.

— — Indice generale a tutto l'anno 1906. Roma, Tip. della Camera dei deputati, 1909. 117 p. 28^{cm}. 050

Contents: v. 1, to 1883; suppl. 1, 1884-87 and earlier; suppl. 2, 1887-88 and earlier; suppl. 3 1889-94; suppl. 4, 1895-1900; suppl. 5, 1901-1906; [suppl. 6] n. s. v. 1, 1907-12.

Supplementary volumes to be issued every six years.

Not a general index, but a subject catalog of some 71,198 biographical articles in the sets of 448 periodicals (16,161 volumes) contained in the library of the Italian Chamber of Deputies. Each volume has (1) a main subject list which gives for each article indexed its title, author and the title and volume or year of the periodical in which it is to be found, and (2) a brief author index referring to the subject list. The supplementary volumes index both the volumes added during the period covered and also earlier material omitted from the first volume. The "Indice generale" refers to all names included in the subject lists of the first volume and supplements 1-5. Sets indexed include the principal Italian periodicals and society transactions and also many important English, French, German and Spanish titles. In the American library the principal use of this catalog is for the Italian and French material indexed, but it is occasionally useful even for the American and English material already indexed in Poole, because it can be used from the author as well as the subject side, and therefore serves to supplement Poole. Useful in the university or large reference library, but not recommended for the small library.

NORWEGIAN

Deichmanske bibliotek. Register til Norges tidsskrifter, v. 1-2. Christiania, Cammeyer, 1908-1911. 2 v. 23^{cm}. 8 kr. 058

Contents: v. 1, Topografi; v. 2, Norsk biografi.

Arranged by subject, each volume indexing one subject. v. 1 (1908) indexes the topographical articles in 75 periodicals of varying dates from about the beginning of the 19th century to 1907; v. 2 indexes the biographical articles in more than 700 periodicals of the 19th and the first part of the 20th century, giving not only references to periodicals, but also dates of birth and death and very brief characterization for each name indexed. The list of periodicals included in v. 2 furnishes a nearly complete bibliography of Norwegian periodicals. Very valuable in the large reference library or in the library specializing in Scandinavian material.

RUSSIAN

Ul'ianov, N. A. Ukazatel' zhurnal' literatury, alfabetnyi, predmetnyi, sistematicheskii. [Guide to periodical literature, alphabetic, by subject, by classes]. Moskva, "Nauka," 1911-13. v. 1-2. 24^{cm}. 057

Contents: v. 1, 1906-10 indexing 6 periodicals; v. 2, 1896-1905 indexing 9 periodicals.

An index to a selected list of general periodicals of a solid character. Each volume contains (1) an author index which gives the full entries for the articles indexed and (2) an alphabetical subject index and (3) a classed or systematic subject index; both subject indexes refer to the main author index.

SPECIAL INDEXES

Agriculture

Agricultural index, a cumulative index to agricultural periodicals and bulletins, 1916-. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1916-. v. 1. 26^{cm}. 016.63

Price varies according to number of periodicals subscribed for by library. Minimum, $4, maximum. $25 per year. Apply to publisher.

A subject index similar in general plan and arrangement to the Industrial arts index published by the same firm (see p. 15). Issued five times a year, cumulates throughout the year, the last issue, r.o. 5, forming the annual bound volume. Indexes about 200 periodicals, bulletins and reports, all in English.

U. S. Office of experiment stations. Experiment station record. Sept. 1889-July 1916. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1890-1916. v. 1-35. 23^{cm}. monthly. $1 per vol. 630.5

— General index to Experiment station records vols. I to XII, 1889-1901 and to Experiment station bulletin no. 2 [the latter a digest of the annual reports of the experiment stations for 1888] Wash. Govt. print. off., 1903. 671 p. 23^{cm}. o. p.

— General index to Experiment station records, vols. XIII to XXV, 1901-11. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1913. 1159 p. 24^{cm}. $1.

A record and digest of current agricultural literature, not planned as an index of the subject but covering the field so fully that it serves practically as an index to the periodical, bulletin, and report material on this subject, in English and the principal foreign languages. Each monthly number contains a digest of recent important articles and reports with exact reference to the full article. In addition to monthly numbers there are bimonthly abstract numbers, so that a semiannual volume consists of nine numbers. There are no cumulations of the digests, but there is an author and subject index to each volume referring to the monthly issues and for the volumes before 1911 these separate indexes are superseded by the two general indexes 1889-1901 and 1901-11. Less easy to use for quick reference than the new Agricultural index, but better for scientific use as it indexes more scientific material and includes foreign language material as well as English.

Archaeology

016.913

A useful author index to some 94 sets of English archaeological periodicals and transactions of local antiquarian societies. Gives for each article indexed author's name, full title, periodical, volume or date, and inclusive paging. Principally British archaeology but includes also material on classical and other non-British antiquities. A subject index to the same material, which was contemplated but not undertaken when the author index was made, is now in preparation. Continued by the following:

Index of archaeological papers published in 1891-1910. Lond. Constable, 1892-1914.* v. 1-20. 22^{cm}. 1s. each. 016.913

An annual continuation of Gomme's index, indexing the same type of material and following the same plan as far as the author index is concerned, but differing from the main work in that each annual volume has a subject index to the author list. While each volume nominally covers one year, many cover a longer period since whenever a new periodical is added to the list it is indexed back to 1891.

Book reviews

Book review digest, 1905-16. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1905-16. v. 1-12. 26^{cm}. $5 per year. 050

A digest and index of selected book reviews in over 50 English and American periodicals, principally general in character. Arranged alphabetically by author of book reviewed, with subject and title index. For each book entered gives author, title, place, publisher and price, a brief descriptive note, quotations from selected book reviews with exact reference to periodical in which review appeared, and references only, without quotation, to other reviews. Indicates length of review in number of words and whether favorable or unfavorable. From the public library point of view and primarily useful in the selection of books for such a library; less useful in the college or university library partly because of the type of book listed and partly because the reviews indexed are taken principally from the general and not to any great extent from the special journals. Monthly; with a semi-annual cumulation in August, and an annual cumulation of the main list in February which forms an annual volume; the subject, title and pseudonym index cumulates monthly, the index in a current number referring to all previous issues of the current volume since the last cumulation.

Bibliographie der rezensionen, mit einschluss von referaten und selbstanzeigen. Lpz. Dietrich, 1901-15 v. 1-20. 25^{cm}. 37.50 m. per vol. 053

Title varies, 1901-10 Bibliographie der deutschen rezensionen.

1901-10 inclusive, one volume per year, indexing reviews of books printed in some 3,000 German periodicals; 1911- date, two volumes per year, the first volume of each year indexing reviews in German periodicals, the second volume indexing reviews in about 2,000 periodicals in other languages than German. A very comprehensive list, including more books of the university grade than the Book review digest and many references to special journals, and therefore often more useful than the Book review digest in the university library, when only references to reviews are wanted. Does not give digests or quotations from the reviews listed. The volumes which index reviews in German periodicals only cover the same list as the Bibliographie der deutschen zeitschriften literatur (see p. 9) and supplement that work; the volumes indexing non-German periodicals do the same thing for the Bibliographie der fremdsprachigen zeitschriften literatur (see p. 8).

Drama

Dramatic index for 1909-15, covering articles and illustrations concerning the stage and its players in the periodicals of America and England; with a record of books on the drama and of texts of plays. Bost. Boston book co. 1910-16.* v. 1-7. 24^{cm}. $4 per vol. 016.792

Edited by F. W. Faxon.

Issued separately, and also as part 2 of the Annual magazine subject index, 1909-15. Contains the cumulation of the Dramatic index published in the quarterly numbers of the Bulletin of bibliography.

Issues for 1912-15 have appendix, Dramatic books and plays (in English) published during 1912—, by Henry Eastman Lower and George Heron Milne.

An annual subject index to all articles about the drama, the theater, actors and actresses, playwrights, librettists, managers, etc., to all synopses of plays, and to all stage and dramatic portraits, scenes from plays and other theatrical illustrations contained in about 150 English and American periodicals, and to texts of plays whether published in book or magazine form. Magazine articles are entered under subject only, texts of plays are entered under title or under the form heading "dramas" with cross reference from author, costume portraits are entered under both the actor and the character. All references are exact, i. e. to title of periodical, volume, date, and inclusive paging, with length of article indicated in fractions if less than one page, and full indication of illustrations, portraits, etc. While the index nominally begins with 1909 there is some retrospective indexing, e. g. the 1910 volume indexes the Theatre back to its first volume 1906. From 1912 the dramatic books of the year are indexed both in the main index and in the appendix, Dramatic books and plays, which consists of (1) author list of books about the theater, (2) author list of play texts, (3) title list of texts. A very useful index, necessary in any library which makes much use of dramatic material. Kept to date by the quarterly indexes in the Bulletin of bibliography.

Education

U. S. Bureau of education. Bibliography of education for 1907-1911/12. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1908-15. 5 v. 15 cts. each. 016.37

An annual bibliography of books and periodical articles, arranged by classes with general alphabetical index of authors and subjects. Indexes many periodicals in various languages. Discontinued as an annual with the issue for 1911-12, and continued by the following monthly list:

—Monthly list of current educational publications, January, 1912-16. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1912-16. 016.37

Monthly classified lists, on same plan as annual list noted above. There is no annual cumulation, but instead a full annual index of authors and subjects referring to entries in the monthly numbers.

Année pédagogique. 1911-13. Paris, Alcan, 1912-14.* v. 1-3. 7.50 fr. per vol. 016.37

An annotated annual bibliography, including both books and periodical articles arranged by classes with author and subject indexes. The 1913 volume indexed 156 periodicals in various languages. Gives digests of many of the articles indexed.

History

There is no one periodical index to the whole field of history but the following bibliographies described more fully in other parts of the Guide, offer usable substitutes.

Annual magazine subject index, 1908-15. For full description see p. 7.

Griffin, A. P. C. Bibliography of American historical societies. Washington, 1908.

Indexes all articles in periodical transactions, etc., published by historical societies of the United States and Canada. For full description see p. 30.

Writings on American history, 1906-14.

Indexes all articles on American history in more than 400 American and foreign periodicals. For full description see under History, p. 167.

Répertoire méthodique de l'histoire moderne et contemporaine de la France, 1898-1912.

Indexes all articles on French history in more than 200 periodicals in different languages. For full description see under History, p. 164.

Law

Jones, Leonard Augustus. Index to legal periodical literature. Bost. Boston book co. 1888-99. 2 v. 25^{cm}. $20. 016.34 v. 1, to 1886; v. 2, 1887-98.

Each volume consists of a main subject index with brief author index to the subject part. Covers principally 19th century material but a few sets included in the first volume belong to the 18th century. Indexes not only material on technical and historical law subjects, but a great deal of legal biography and a considerable amount of material on political, economic, and sociological subjects. The second volume is stronger in this sociological material than the first. For all biographical articles included, dates of birth and death are given. The first volume indexes practically all articles in 158 legal periodicals (1373 volumes) all articles on law subjects in 113 general periodicals and the proceedings of various Bar associations. Useful in the general library as well as the law library. A third volume covering the period 1899-1913 is in preparation.

Index to legal periodicals (published in conjunction with the Law library journal). White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1909-1916: v. 1-8. 26^{cm}. $5 per yr. 016.34

Quarterly lists with an annual cumulation published each January. The annual number consists of both an author and a subject index, the latter an alphabetical classed arrangement according to the system used by the West publishing company in the American and Decennial digests. The first annual number indexes 39 periodicals for 1908, the eighth indexes 64 American, English and colonial periodicals and the proceedings of 11 bar associations for 1915. Most of the periodicals indexed are strictly law journals but a few political and economic periodicals are included also.

Library work cumulated, 1905-1911; a bibliography and digest of library literature, ed. by Anna Lorraine Guthrie. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1912. 409 p. $4. 020.5

A cumulation in one alphabet of the material in all quarterly numbers of Library work from April, 1906, to October, 1911, with some additions to carry the work to the close of 1911. Indexes the material in 32 periodicals (124 volumes), including 24 English and American titles and 1 Danish, 1 Dutch, 2 German, 1 Italian, 1 Norwegian, 1 Spanish and 1 Swedish. Includes no French material.

The quarterly issue of Library work was discontinued at the end of 1911 and the work of indexing library periodical literature is now carried on in the Library journal, beginning in 1914. There are annual cumulations in the American library annual, i. e., a classified list in the 1914 issue and an alphabetical cumulation beginning 1915/16.

Bibliographie des bibliotheks- und buchwesens. Bearb. von Adalbert Hortschansky. 1904-1912. Leipzig, Harrassowitz, 1905-1913.* v. 1-9. 24^{cm}. (Beihefte zum Zentralblatt für bibliothekswesen.) Price varies, about 7m. per vol. 016.02

Annual cumulation of titles recorded in the quarterly lists in the Zentralblatt.

A bibliography of both books and periodical articles in different languages on various aspects of bibliography, library science and library history. A classified list with alphabetical author and title index.

Cannons, H. G. T. Bibliography of library economy. A classified index to the professional periodical literature relating to library economy, printing, methods of publishing, copyright, bibliography, etc. Lond. Stanley Russell, 1910. 448 p. 7s. 6d. 016.02

"It now comprises over 15,000 entries arranged in classified logical sequence, under 1,900 subject headings, entries being placed in order of date to present the subject in its historical aspect; the whole being preceded by an elaborate and detailed scheme of classification, specially prepared for the work, and an alphabetical subject index comprising over 2,500 direct references. It thus forms a classified bibliography to all articles appearing in the professional publications during the period 1876-1909."—Preface.

Indexes 48 English and American library periodicals, government reports and yearbooks, including one Australian and one Irish periodical.

Medicine

Index medicus; a monthly classified record of the current medical literature of the world, 1879-1915. Wash. Carnegie institution, 1879-1916. v. 1-33. 26^{cm}. $8 per year. 016.61

The standard current bibliography of medicine. Indexes periodical articles as well as the new book literature of the subject. For full description see under Medicine, p. 96.

The Index-catalog of the Surgeon-general's library at Washington also indexes a large amount of periodical literature on medicine and allied subjects. For full description see under Medicine, p. 96.

Military science

International military digest, annual; a review of the current literature of military science for 1915. Cumulated from the monthly issues of the International military digest. N. Y. Cumulative dig. corp. 1916. 390 p. 25^{cm}. 355

"Editors-in-chief," 1915-, C. De W. Willcox and E. R. Stuart.

International military digest is issued in three forms (1) monthly, (2) quarterly, and (3) annual, which can be subscribed for either separately or in combination. Price: either monthly or quarterly $3 per year, monthly and quarterly $5, monthly, quarterly and annual $6; annual alone $2.

Indexes all articles in about 80 military periodicals and all articles on military science in some 30 general periodicals. Of the military periodicals about half are American, English and Colonial and the remainder are Dutch, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Scandinavian, and Spanish and Portuguese (including some South American). Arranged alphabetically by subject, gives author, title, periodical and date (but not volume and page) and length in number of words, and in addition a digest of each article varying in length from one twentieth to one fifth of the original article. Useful in the special or large reference library.

Philosophy and psychology

There is no cumulated index to periodical articles on these subjects, but the field is fairly well covered year by year by the following annual bibliographies which not only list the new books in the field but also index periodicals extensively.

Bibliographie de la philosophie française, 1909-12. Paris, 1910-14. v. 1-4.

Indexes philosophical articles and book reviews in more than 160 French and Belgian periodicals. For full description see under Philosophy, p. 55.

Philosophie der gegenwart, 1908-13. Heidelberg, 1910-16. v. 1-5.

Indexes articles in many important periodicals in different languages. For full description see under Philosophy, p. 55.

Psychological index, 1894-1915. N. Y. Macmillan, 1898-1916. v. 1-22.

Indexes both English and foreign material. For full description see under Philosophy, p. 55.

Portraits

A.L.A. Portrait index; index to portraits contained in printed books and periodicals; ed. by W: C. Lane and N. E. Browne. Wash. Library of Congress, 1906. 1600 p. 25^{cm}. $3. 920

An index to portraits contained in 1,181 sets (6,216 volumes) including both books and periodicals through the year 1904. Indexes 120,000 portraits of about 35,000 or 45,000 persons. Information given includes dates of birth and death and brief characterization of the person, artist, engraver, etc., of the portrait, and volume and page of the work where the portrait may be found. Does not index portraits in local histories, genealogical works, or collections of engravings as such, or portraits of writers included in sets of their collected works.

— Periodical articles on religion, 1890-1899: Author index. N. Y. Scribner [1911] 876 p. 24^{cm}. $5. 016.2

An index to 58,000 articles by 21,000 writers, in more than 600 periodicals and transactions in English and the principal foreign languages. The subject volume, which is arranged alphabetically, has a special feature not ordinarily found in indexes, i. e.

each heading used is briefly defined and the definition is followed by a reference to some encyclopedia article for fuller explanation. Articles are arranged under each heading alphabetically by authors, and for each full reference is given, i. e. author, title, periodical, volume, date, and inclusive paging. The author volume indexes the same articles as the subject volume, with equally full information, so either volume may be used independently. Important in the theological university and large reference libraries; not needed in small libraries.

Science

Royal society of London. Catalogue of scientific papers, 1800-1900. Lond. Clay, 1867-1902; Camb. [Eng.] Univ. press, 1914-15. v. 1-14. 29^{cm}. £11 16s. 6d. 016.5

Comp. under the supervision of Henry White and others. To be completed in 21 v.

Contents: v. 1-6, 1st ser., 1800-1863; v. 7-8, 2d ser., 1864-73; v. 9-11, 3d ser., 1874-1883; v. 12, Supplementary volume, 1800-1883; v. 13-14, 4th ser., 1884-1900, A-Fittig.

A monumental index of the first importance in scientific or large reference libraries. An author index for the whole of the 19th century to 1,555 periodicals and transactions in various languages including the transactions of the great European academies and other learned societies. Full information is given for each article entered, viz. author's name in full when it can be found, full title, title of periodical, volume, date, and inclusive paging. For Russian articles the original title is given followed by French or English translation in brackets.

— Catalogue of scientific papers, 1800-1900: Subject index, v. 1-3. Camb. [Eng.] Univ. press, 1908-14. v. 1-3 in 4. 69s. 016.5

Each vol. sold separately; v. 1, 21s; v. 2, 15s; v. 3, pt. 1, 18s; v. 3, pt. 2, 15s.

Contents: v. 1, Pure mathematics; v. 2, Mechanics; v. 3, Physics: pt. 1, Generalities, heat, light, sound; pt. 2, Electricity and magnetism.

A subject index to the same material as the above author catalog, classified according to the schedules of the International catalogue of scientific literature and to be published as separate Index-volumes for each of the seventeen sciences of the schedules of the International catalogue, viz. Mathematics, Mechanics, Physics, Chemistry, Astronomy, Meteorology, Mineralogy, Geology, Geography, Palaeontology, Biology, Botany, Zoology, Anatomy, Anthropology, Physiology, and Bacteriology. Of the seventeen indexes projected only the first three have been issued so far. These index 116,687 articles from 1,555 periodicals divided as follows: Mathematics, 38,748 articles from 700 serials; Mechanics, 21,295 articles from 959 serials; Physics, 56,644 articles from 1,261 serials. The subject index gives sufficiently full information to be used independently of the author volumes, i. e. author's name, brief title, periodical, volume date and paging—though for full title reference must be made to the author index.

When finished the index will constitute a monumental record of the material on these seventeen sciences to be found in all the principal scientific periodicals, in different languages, of the 19th century. Continued for material since 1900 by the International catalogue of scientific literature.

International catalogue of scientific literature. Published for the International council by the Royal society of London. Lond. 1902-16. 016.5

An annual bibliography of both books and periodical articles on each of the 17 sciences covered. Indexes a large number of important scientific journals, but not very satisfactory for up-to-date reference work because of the delay in publication, each issue being usually about two years behind. For full description see under Science, p. 89.

Bibliographie der sozialwissenschaften; 1906-16. Hrsg. von Hermann Beck. Berl. Springer, 1906-16. 016.3

A very full index of the periodical as well as the book literature on the various social, economic and political sciences, in all the principal foreign languages. Not easy to use quickly, but indispensable when the complete literature of the subject, especially the foreign literature, is needed. For full description see under Social sciences, p. 65.

Public affairs information service. Bulletin of the Public affairs information service, a co-operative clearing house of public affairs information. 1st annual cumulation. White Plains, N. Y., Wilson, 1915-. v. 1. 26^{cm}. 016.3

1915-comp. by O. L. Evans and M. E. Egbert.

Issued in three forms: (1) weekly bulletins, (2) bimonthly cumulations, cumulating throughout the year until the last issue, November, indexes the material of twelve months and forms (3) the permanent annual volume. Apply to publishers for price.

A combination of a subject index to recent periodicals and books and a digest of recent events in the fields of sociology, political science and economics, particularly the practical sides of these subjects. Indexed, 1915, 150 periodicals and about 200 books. All the material indexed is in English and a fair proportion of the periodicals indexed are already covered by the general indexes. Useful, but its high cost is prohibitive for all except very large or highly specialized libraries.

Technology

Engineering index, 1884-1905. N. Y. Engineering magazine, 1892-1906. 4 v. 24^{cm}. v. 1-2, o.p. v. 3-4, $15. 620.5

V. 1, 1884-1891, published under the title Descriptive index of current engineering literature; v. 2, 1892-1895, ed. by J. B. Johnson; v. 3, 1896-1900, and v. 4, 1901-1905, ed. by H. H. Supplee and T. H. Cuntz.

An alphabetical subject index, with no author index, to about 250 technical and engineering periodicals in English, French, German, Italian, Spanish and Dutch; about three quarters of the periodicals indexed are in English. Gives fairly full information, i. e. title, author, brief digest or description of the article, length in number of words, periodical and exact date. Does not give volume or page. Continued after 1905 by the following:

Engineering index annual, comp. from the Engineering index published monthly in the Engineering magazine, 1906-15. N. Y. Engineering magazine, 1907-16.* v. 1-10. 22^{cm}. $2 per vol. 016.62

Continues the Engineering index 1884-1905, v. 1-4, covering the same field in the same detail, but with a different arrangement i. e. is a classed subject index, not an alphabetical subject index. Material is grouped in 8 large classes, Civil engineering, Electrical engineering, Industrial economy, Marine and naval engineering, Mechanical engineering, Mining and metallurgy, Railway engineering, Street and electric railways. Each large group is divided into many sub-classes.

Industrial arts index: subject index to a selected list of engineering and trade periodicals, 1913-16. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1913-16. v. 1-4. 26^{cm}. 016.6

Annual volume $7. Subscription price varies according to number of periodicals taken. Apply to publishers.

Bimonthly index, cumulating throughout the year, with the December number forming an annual cumulation. Indexes many of the same periodicals as the Engineering index (annual) but differs from that index in having (1) a rather wider range of subjects, (2) an alphabetical instead of a classed arrangement. More useful than the Engineering index in the general library or for quick reference. In general follows the same plan of indexing as the Readers' guide except that articles are indexed only under subjects and not under authors also. Indexes only material in English. The annual for 1915 indexes 79 periodicals. Indexes no foreign periodicals, while the Engineering index includes many important foreign periodicals.

Crane, Walter Richard. Index of mining engineering literature, comprising an index of mining, metallurgical, civil, mechanical, electrical and chemical engineering subjects as related to mining engineering. N. Y. Wiley, 1909-12. 2 v. 23^{cm} $4 per vol. 016.6

Covers American and English material with some Australian and Canadian works, including periodicals, society transactions and some government reports. Vol. 1 indexes 18 publications covering 30 years to the end of 1907; vol. 2 brings to date the periodicals indexed in that volume and indexes several additional titles, giving complete indexing for 26 periodicals and incomplete indexing for 20 other serials and 20 books. Classified arrangement with alphabetical index. A special feature is the section of references on cost.

Mining world index of current literature. Chic. Mining World, 1912-15. v. 1-8. 23^{cm}. $2.50 per vol. 016.620

A semi-annual index to the current literature of the mining sciences (mining, ore dressing, metallurgy, assaying, geology, and mining law), cumulated from the weekly index included in the Mining and engineering world. A classed subject index, with author and alphabetical subject indexes to the classed list. Gives digest of each article with reference to periodical date and page, and the price at which the number containing the article can be purchased. Index covered, 1915, more than 400 periodicals in various languages. For the special and large reference library.

Repertorium der technischen journal literatur, 1874-1909. Berl. Heymann, 1875-1909. 35 v. 28^{cm}. 24m. per vol. 016.6

A subject index of technical and scientific periodicals, compiled by order of the Imperial patent office. There is also an author index, and a list of periodicals indexed.

Earlier series, 1823 to 1873, had title Repertorium der technischen literatur.

"Beginning with the 1892 number, the index gives the German equivalent for the English technical terms, which practically serves for the use of English readers as a key to all the previous volumes." Lib. j. 19:C80.

Fortschritte der technik. Neue folge des früher im Kaiserl. Patentamt bearbeiteten Repertoriums der techn. journal-literatur. 1.-2. jahrg; 1909-10. Berl. Bibliog. zentral-verlag 1910-11. 9 v. 26^{cm}. 016.6

1910 issued in 7 v.; 1, Maschinentechnik; 2, Elektrotechnik; 3, Bautechnik; 4, Berg- und hütten-technik; 5, Chemische technik; 6, Militär und marinetechnik; 7, Supplement.

Also issued monthly under title: Technische auskunft.

BIBLIOGRAPHIES

GENERAL

British museum. Library. Catalogue of printed books; periodical publications. 2d ed. Lond. British museum, 1899-1900. 2 v. 35^{cm}. 26s. 016.05

Arranged alphabetically by place of publication with an index of titles. Gives brief information about each title, i. e. title, dates, place, note of changed titles. For the verification of titles this is the most important of all the general lists because of (1) the great number of periodicals included and (2) the convenient double arrangement.

Royal society of London. Catalogue of the periodical publications in the library. Ox. Univ. press. 1912. 445 p. 26^{cm}. 15s. 016.05

Includes all serials in the library Dec. 31, 1911. A title list of 1,811 serial publications, arranged alphabetically by first word of title not an article. Gives place and dates of publication, statement of the society's files, changes in titles, series and, in case of proceedings of meetings and congresses, a list of places at which the various meetings were held. Society index, p. 285-455. Useful for verifying titles, especially titles of foreign publications, for tracing changes in title and for ascertaining what constitutes a complete set.

Faxon, Frederick Winthrop. A checklist of American and English periodicals. Post. Boston book co. [privately pr.] 1908. 95 p. not for sale. 016.05

An alphabetic title list of all periodicals indexed in Poole's index, the Readers' guide, the Cumulative index, the Magazine subject index, the Review of reviews index, the A. L. A. index, A. L. A. portrait index, the general periodicals in Jones' Index to legal periodicals and the more important technical sets in the Engineering index and a selected list of unindexed periodicals. Gives title, dates of first issue, notes of series, changed titles and mergers, and the Poole vol. nos. when these differ from those on the volumes. Planned as an aid to the order department of a library which is trying to complete its files of important sets, but useful also to the reference department for verification of titles.

Births and deaths; a record of new titles, changed titles and deaths in the periodical world. (In Bulletin of bibliography, April 1900-1916.)

AMERICAN

Ayer & son's American newspaper annual and directory; a catalogue of American newspapers, a carefully prepared list of all newspapers and periodicals published in the United States, territories, and Dominion of Canada, Cuba and the West Indian Islands. Phil. Ayer, 1880-1916.* v. 1-36. 25^{cm}. $5 per yr. 016.071

Title varies.

Binder's title: American newspaper annual.

Absorbed Rowell's American newspaper directory in 1910.

Contents, 1916: (1) Statistical tables; (2) Population of cities of over 3,000; (3) Presidential election statistics, 1912; (4) Catalogue of American newspapers, dailies, weeklies and monthlies, as follows (a) United States, arranged by states and cities, (b) Canada, arranged by provinces and cities, (c) Newfoundland, (d) Bermuda, (e) Cuba and the West Indies; (5) List of daily newspapers with indication of whether morning or evening, and special Sunday, weekly, semi-weekly editions and circulation; (6) Monthly and weekly publications; (7) Religious publications arranged by states with indication of denomination; (8) Agricultural publications, with information as to specialty and circulation; (9) Class and trade publications, by subject; (10) Secret society publications; (11) Publications in foreign languages arranged by language; (12) Co-operative newspaper lists.

The standard American list; comprehensive, listing in 1916 24,589 newspapers and periodicals, but not claiming completeness, as it intentionally omits certain classes of papers, e. g. publications of private and high schools and smaller colleges, local church papers and most house organs issued merely to exploit goods of their firms. The main list, no. 4, covers more than 1,000 pages and gives (1) considerable gazetteer information about each city, i. e. its distance and direction from some important place, its railroads, water or stage communications, note of banks or of nearest banking place, etc., leading manufactures, products and institutions and (2) detailed information about each paper or periodical listed including its name, frequency, character or politics, date of foundation, size of column and page, subscription price, circulation figures, names of editors and publishers. Has many good maps, at least one for each state, and a standard time map.

Rowell's American newspaper directory, containing a description of all the newspapers and periodicals pub. in the United States and territories, Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland. [1st]-40th year; 1869-1908. N. Y. Rowell, 1869-1908. 40 v. in 6l. illus. plates. ports. 21-26^{cm}. 016.071

Annual, 1869-77; quarterly, Jan. 1878-Oct. 1879; annual, 1880-96; quarterly, June 1897-Dec. 1901; semiannual, Apr.-Oct. 1902; annual, 1903-08.

Title varies. Merged in Ayer's American newspaper annual, 1910.

Severance, Henry Ormal. A guide to the current periodicals and serials of the United States and Canada, 3d ed. 1914. Ann Arbor, Wahr, 1914. 462 p. 26^{cm}. $2.50. 016.05

1st ed. 1907; 2d ed. 1908.

Contents: (1) Alphabetic title list giving in general, for each periodical, frequency of publication, date of founding, publisher's address, subscription price, note of changed or merged title; (2) subject index, less complete than title list. Lists about 10,000 titles, omitting railroad reports and most public documents and including society publications sparingly. Includes fewer titles than Ayer and often gives briefer information for those included, but more convenient than Ayer for quick reference work because of alphabetic arrangement.

FRENCH

Annuaire de la presse française et du monde politique, 1880-1916. Paris, Flammarion, 1880-1916.* v. 1-37. illus. ports. facsim. 18-22^{cm}. 13 fr. per yr. 016.074

Title varies. Continues E. Mermet's La Publicité en France, 1878-80.

An important and useful bibliography and annual, containing not only full information about French journals and the French press but also a considerable amount of the statistical, gazetteer, political and governmental information needed by French journalists. Contains many portraits. Scope and contents of volumes before 1914 differ somewhat from the volumes issued since 1914.

Contents, 1916: (1) Livre d'or de la presse pendant la guerre; (2) les journaux du front; (3) la censure; (4) les affiches de l'emprunt de la victoire; (5) les éphémérides de la guerre (1915); (6) la vie politique et sociale (1915); (7) la vie littéraire; (8) nos colonies et protectorats; (9) le monde parlementaire, sénat et chambre; (10) les grandes administrations de l'état; ville de Paris; (11) principales agences de publicité; (12) code usuel de la presse, 9. éd.; (13) syndicats et les associations professionnelles de la presse française; (14) critiques et chroniques; (15) liste de pseudonymes de journalistes et gens de lettres; (16) journaux des départements; (17) journaux des colonies; (18) journaux de Paris (classified list); (19) correspondences de presse; (20) la presse étrangère; (21) grandes institutions financières de Paris; (22) bulletin des diverses associations, sociétés, etc. (classified list); (23) Indexes: (1) index of syndicates, associations and newspapers, journals, etc.; (2) index of names.

Annuaire des journaux, revues et publications périodiques parues à Paris. Paris, Le Soudier, 1881-1914.* v. 1-34. 20^{cm}. 3 fr. per vol. pap. 016.054

Issued annually but revised only every other year, in the even years; in the odd years the previous issue plus a supplement of new titles is printed.

Contents: (1) main list arranged alphabetically by titles giving for each periodical included its full title, editor's name, format, number of current volume, date of foundation, frequency of publication, average number of pages, plates, etc., in each number, its weight, price per number, subscription price in Paris, France, and the postal union, dates when subscriptions begin, how long they run, publisher's address, etc.; (2) classified list, with brief titles, referring to main list, arranged by broad not small subjects.

A very useful list for current periodicals, excellent for identifying titles, for securing the information needed before ordering, for some historical information, and for subject lists. Includes only Paris publications; for provincial periodicals the Annuaire de la presse française must be used.

A trade edition of the above, entitled Catalogue tarif des journaux, differs from the Annuaire des journaux only in the fact that it runs to December instead of November of each year, and gives both subscription prices and trade discount prices.

Paris, Firmin-Didot, 1866. cxvii, 660 p. incl. illus. port. 24^{cm}. o. p. 016.054

A bibliography of the retrospective, not the current type, with detailed bibliographic and historical notes about each periodical listed. Useful, though never complete and now very far from up to date.

GERMAN

Deutscher zeitschriften-katalog für 1865-1916, zusammenstellung von über 3200 titeln deutscher zeitschriften. Lpz. Schulze, 1865-1916.* v. 1-52. 22^{cm}. 1.50m. per vol. 016.053

Title, before 1916, Deutscher journal-katalog.

An annual trade bibliography, listing only the periodicals and transactions regularly handled by the German dealers. Consists of (1) a main subject list giving full title, frequency of publication, publisher's name and address, price, month when new volume or subscription starts, and information whether subscription is by year or volume, and (2) alphabetical title index. Useful for identifying title, for finding what German periodicals there are on a given subject and for securing the information needed before placing a subscription, but of no value for information about the history, editorship, etc., of the periodicals listed, or for collation of complete sets. Corresponds to the French Annuaire des journaux, but is inferior to the latter in historical information.

UNION LISTS

A union list of periodicals is a catalog, usually in alphabetical title arrangement, of the periodicals to be found in the libraries in a special region, with indication of the libraries containing any given title. There are two types of such lists, (1) lists of periodicals currently received (2) lists of sets, with exact indication of what portion of each set is in the libraries listed. The second type is more useful. Such lists are of great reference importance since they often show where a library can find a periodical or volume not in its own collections. The principal use of such lists is for reference and inter-library loan purposes but they are often useful also as catalogers' aids. Foreign union lists are naturally not useful for inter-library loans, but are often very helpful in identifying foreign titles.

An alphabetical list with exact indication of files of the serials, exclusive of public documents, that are to be found in eleven Toronto libraries.

Library of Congress. Union list of periodicals, transactions, and allied publications currently received in the principal libraries of the District of Columbia; comp. under the direction of A. P. C. Griffin. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1901. 315 leaves. 28^{cm}. $1.

Printed on only one side of the leaves. Alphabetic list of about 6,500 titles in 15 libraries. Does not indicate files.

New York. Engineering societies' library. Catalogue of technical periodicals, libraries in the city of New York and vicinity, comp. and ed. by the assistant librarian, Alice Jane Gates, with the co-operation of a committee of the New York library club. N. Y. United eng. soc. 1915. 110 p. 27^{cm}. $3.

New York library club. Union list of periodicals currently received by the New York and Brooklyn libraries. N. Y. 1887.

An alphabetic list of about 2,100 serials in 39 libraries. Indicates complete sets but does not give exact statement of volumes for incomplete files. Badly out of date, but still useful because there is no later general list for New York. For later subject lists (Mathematics, Chemistry, Archaeology, etc.) of periodicals in the New York Public Library and Columbia University see N. Y. Public Library Bulletin, v. 1-4.

Philadelphia. Free library. List of serials in the principal libraries of Philadelphia and its vicinity, prepared by J. P. Lamberton. Phil. Free library, 1908. 309 p. 27^{cm}. $2. (Bulletin, no. 8)

An alphabetic list, with exact statement of files, of 12,012 periodicals in 24 libraries.

— — Supplement. Phil. Free library, 1910. (Bulletin, no. 9) price 75c.

016.05

Supplements the original list by supplying omissions, principally in 18th century periodicals, and by adding the periodicals of two libraries not previously included. Adds about 1,000 titles.

NEWSPAPERS

Newspapers are often very important in certain lines of reference work. Current issues are helpful for reference work on questions of the day, current history, politics, local happenings, current or local opinion, etc. and back volumes serve the same purpose for the current history, etc., of an earlier period, and are particularly important as contemporary records, as registers of contemporary opinion and as records of facts often too small or too local in their application to be included in the general reference books. Bound files of newspapers are therefore important additions to the reference equipment of any library which can afford and use them. As such files are very expensive to bind and shelve, care should be taken to choose for preservation only those actually needed, and especially those which from their general character, indexes, etc. are most likely to be useful. To make intelligent use of newspapers the reference worker needs the same type of reference aids that he needs for periodicals, i. e., (1) indexes, (2) bibliographies and (3) lists of other libraries. These differ however in some ways from the corresponding aids for periodicals. There is for example no general index to newspapers similar to Poole. Such a work would be a practical impossibility, and moreover is not needed in just the same way as an index to periodicals. Newspapers all publish reports of any event of general interest, at approximately the same time, generally one day after it occurred, and the substance of such information is largely the same in all important papers. The date of any event is the clue needed and an index of dates, or an index to any one newspaper will furnish a workable index to all newspapers for subjects of general interest. This, of course, is not true of purely local or special articles.

NEWSPAPER INDEXES

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH

Index to dates of current events, 1911-13. N. Y. Bowker, 1912-14. 3 v. 24^{cm}. $4 per year. 070

Monthly, with quarterly and semi-annual cumulations. Arranged alphabetically by subjects and names, followed by date of occurrence of each event. The annual cumulation is included in the American library annual, and is not published separately. While this index does not refer directly to newspapers the fact that it gives the dates of all events listed makes it serviceable as an index to all newspapers as far as general news is concerned. It cannot of course be used as an index for local news not of general interest or for special articles or editorials. For a similar index before 1911 see the Index to dates included as part of the Annual literary index 1892-1904 and the Annual library index 1905-1910. Discontinued after 1914 and succeeded by the following:

Information annual, a continuous cyclopedia and digest of current events. 1915-.

N. Y. Bowker, 1916-. v. 1-. 25^{cm}. 031

Issued in three forms or sections: (1) monthly, (2) quarterly, (3) annual, which can be subscribed for separately or in combination. Price, monthly $3 a year, quarterly $2, monthly and quarterly $4, monthly, quarterly and annual $6, annual alone $4.

A continuation and expansion of the Index to dates. Gives in addition to date a concise descriptive summary of each event and so serves the double purpose of newspaper index and encyclopedia of current events. A very useful compilation.

New York Times index. v. 1-4, 1913-16.

N. Y. New York Times, 1913-16. 28^{cm}. $8. per year; paper, $6. per year. 071

A carefully made quarterly index, with entries under small subjects, exact reference to date, page and column, and plentiful cross references to names and related topics. The brief synopses of articles answer some questions without reference to the paper itself. Each volume consists of four parts.

New York Tribune. New-York daily tribune index for 1875-1906. N. Y. Tribune assoc. 1876-[1907] 31 v. 19-20^{cm}. annual. $1 per vol. 071

No more published. A much briefer index than the N. Y. Times index but useful while it lasted.

Times, London. Official index, 1906-16. Lond. Times off., 1907-16. 15 v. 25^{cm}. £5 5s. per yr. 072

Title varies: 1906-13, The annual index to the Times. 1914- The official index to the Times.

Minute alphabetical index referring to date, page and column. Volumes for 1906-13 form the annual cumulation of the monthly index published 1906-June 1914 and then discontinued.

— Palmer's index to the Times newspaper. 1828-1910. Lond. Palmer, 1868-1910. 21^{cm}. 10s. per vol.

Quarterly beginning with the index covering Oct.-Dec. 1867, pub. in 1868. The indexes for preceding volumes have been issued in the reverse order, from 2 to 11 a year, beginning with the one covering July-Sept. 1867, pub. in 1875.

Title-page reads, July 1828-Dec. 1896: Index to the Times newspaper. Caption and running title: Palmer's index to the Times newspaper.

Much briefer than the Official index noted above.

GERMAN

Halbmonatliches verzeichnis von auf-sätzen aus deutschen zeitungten in sachlich-alphabetischer anordnung, mit jahres gesamt sach-und-verfasser-register, 1909-15, v. 1-7. Gautzsch, Dietrich, 1909-13.

7 v. (Bibliographie d. deutschen zeitschriftenliteratur, v. 23A, 25A, 27A, 29A, 31A, 34A, 36A) v. 1-4, 20m. ea.; v. 5, 21.25m.; v. 6, 26.25m.; v. 7, 22.50m. 073

A fortnightly index of the principal articles in about 50 German and Austrian newspapers, with an annual subject and author index to the volume. The volumes run Oct.-Sept.

NEWSPAPER CATALOGS

Ayer, Mary Farwell. Check-list of Boston newspapers, 1704-1780, with bibliographical notes by Albert Matthews. [Boston, The Society, 1907] 527 p. 25^{cm}. (Publications of the Colonial society of Massachusetts, v. 9. Collections) $3.50. 016.07

Contents: (1) Chronological list of titles, Alphabetical list, List by years; (2) Check-list, listing all issues in 14 American libraries, p. 13-400; (3) Bibliographical notes, by Albert Matthews, p. 401-508; (4) Index.

Brigham, Clarence S. Bibliography of American newspapers 1690-1820. Pts. 1-4 (in American antiquarian society. Proceedings. n. s. 23:247-403, 24:363-449, 25:128-293, 396-501)

Arranged alphabetically by states and towns.

Pts. 1-4 Alabama-Massachusetts (except Boston). To be completed in about eight installments in the Proceedings and then to be reprinted in one volume with historical introduction and index. No reprints of installments are available.

"Attempts, first, to present a historical sketch of every newspaper printed in the United States from 1690 to 1820; secondly to locate all files found in the various libraries of the country; and thirdly to give a complete check list of the issues in the library of the American antiquarian society."

The historical sketch of each paper gives title, date of establishment, names of editors or publishers, frequency, date of discontinuance, and attempts to give date of changes in title, frequency or publisher. In the case of common papers only location of long files is noted, but rare newspapers are minutely listed.

Library of Congress. Check-list of American newspapers in the Library of Congress, comp. under the direction of A. B. Slauson. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1901. 292 leaves. 30^{cm}. 60 cts. 016.071

Arranged by states and towns and under each town alphabetically by catchword title. Gives for each paper exact title, frequency, often politics and date of founding, and exact statement of Library of Congress files.

— Check-list of American 18th century newspapers in the Library of Congress. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1912. 186 p. 26^{cm}. 50 cts. 016.071

Arranged alphabetically by states subdivided by towns. Gives, for each newspaper, the date of establishment, changes in title, names of printers, publishers and editors and a statement of the Library of Congress file. Title index, and index to printers, publishers and editors.

Arranged geographically by places of publication and under each place alphabetically by catchword title of the newspaper. Gives for each paper exact statement of Library of Congress files. Includes many titles which are really periodicals rather than newspapers.

New Jersey historical society. Some account of American newspapers, particularly of the 18th century, and libraries in which they may be found. v. 1-3. 22^{cm}. Paterson, Press pr. and pub. co. 1894-97. (In its New Jersey archives. 1894-97. Ser. 1, v. 11, 12, 19) 974.9

Contents: v. 1. Alabama-Maryland; v. 2, Massachusetts; v. 3, Michigan-New Hampshire.

New York. Public library. Check-list of newspapers and official gazettes in the New York public library; comp. by Daniel C. Haskell. N. Y. Public library, 1915. 579 p. 25^{cm}. $1.20. 016.07

Reprinted from the New York public library, Bulletin, July-Dec. 1914 and July 1915.

Includes all the newspapers and official gazettes in possession of the library at the end of 1914.

Contains three lists: (1) the main list arranged alphabetically by cities in which the papers are published, with exact statement of issues in the library; (2) an alphabetical title index; (3) a chronological index.

Virginia state library. List of newspapers in the Virginia state library, Confederate museum and Valentine museum. Richmond, 1912. p. 285-425. 23^{cm}. (Virginia state library. Bulletin, v. 5, no. 4) 016.071

Contents: (1) Newspapers, arranged first by libraries and secondly by towns; (2) Union list for the three libraries, arranged by states; (3) Chronological list of titles.

Wisconsin state historical society. Library. Annotated catalog of newspaper files in the library. 2d ed. Madison, Society, 1911. 591 p. 23^{cm}. $1.50. 016.07

Arranged alphabetically by states, subdivided by towns. Gives statement of library files and some information about date of establishment of newspaper, founder's name, editor's names, etc. Includes not only newspapers in the ordinary acceptance of the term but also all journals that are organs of societies, trades or special interests.

Yale university. Library. List of newspapers in the Yale university library. New Haven, Yale univ. press, 1916. 216 p. 23^{cm}. $3. 016.07

GENERAL LITERATURE AND ESSAYS

"A.L.A." index; an index to general literature. 2d ed. enl. and brought down to Jan. 1, 1900. Bost. [A.L.A. publishing board] 1901. 679 p. 27^{cm}. $6. 040

—Supplement 1900–1910. Chic. A.L.A. publishing board, 1914. 223 p. 27^{cm}. $4.

A subject index which attempts to do for books of essays and general literature what Poole's index does for periodicals.

"The general purpose was to index as far as possible all books common to our libraries which treat several subjects under one title and to the contents of which the ordinary catalogue furnishes no guide, although they are generally treated analytically in the more elaborate catalogues, and to save libraries in the future from the necessity of repeating each for itself the analytical work."—Preface.

The second edition indexes books belonging to the following classes: (1) Essays and similar collections of critical biographical and other monographs; (2) Books of travel and general history whose chapters or parts are worthy of separate reference; (3) Reports and publications of boards and associations dealing with sociological matters, and publications of historical and literary societies; (4) Many miscellaneous books and some public documents.

Includes only books in English and books found in most libraries. Indexing is by catchword subjects, not catalog subjects. The second edition was supplemented by the annual Index to general literature, included in the Annual literary (library) index 1900–1910. These annual supplements are now superseded by the Supplement 1900–10 which cumulates all the material for the annual lists and adds reference from 125 new books not previously indexed adding a total of over 500 books to the several thousand covered by the main work. An informal supplement is found in the 2d and 3d five-yearly volumes of the Readers' guide, 1905–14, which index the contents of some 597 composite books, in addition to the regular indexing of periodicals (see p.).

Cotgreave, Alfred. A contents-subject index to general and periodical literature. Lond. Stock, 1900. 743 p. por. 18^{cm}. 10s. 6d. 028

"The chief aim of the work is not to give everything which appears in a select number of works on a few selected subjects, but rather to cover as many subjects as possible, and give a few references to each one."—Preface.

The indexes described above cover a considerable portion of the composite books in English most commonly found in medium-sized libraries but omit many older and less common works which are quite as valuable though found in fewer libraries. Analytic subject references to the contents of many such books and also analytic author and title references to important collections, both English and foreign may be found in printed catalogs of certain libraries, such as the Peabody institute, the Boston Athenæum, the London library, etc. For full description of these catalogs see under Library catalogs, p. 194.)

The index volume to Brewer's World's best essays (see under Literature, p. 107) is often useful for material not covered by the A.L.A. index.

DEBATES

Abridged debaters' handbook series. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1912–1916. 10 v. 25 cts. ea. 808.5

Small pamphlets, averaging about 50 pages each, compiled on the same plan as the large Debaters' handbooks, but covering subjects for which there is either not sufficient material or sufficient demand for a larger book. Subjects included so far are:

Fortification of the Panama canal. C. E. Fanning. 1912.

Government ownership of the telegraph. E. M. Phelps. 1912.

Independence for the Philippines. E. L. Teich. 1913.

Minimum wage. M. K. Reely. 1913.

Swan Sonnenschein, with many new articles and a complete index. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton, 1911. 269 p. 19^{cm}. 2s. 60 cts. 808.5

A useful handbook, when briefs only are wanted, containing briefs for the affirmative and negative, but no bibliographies, for some 164 questions of current interest. Briefs are written by an English lawyer, and pros and cons of the same question are arranged in parallel columns for ease of comparison. Written from the English point of view, so some of the topics included are of less interest outside of the United Kingdom.

Debaters' handbook series. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1911-16. 31 v. $1. ea. 808.5

Each volume treats a separate subject and gives, in general, briefs, a bibliography and selected extracts from the more important articles on the subject. Sometimes the brief is omitted.

Capital punishment. C. E. Fanning. 2d ed. rev. 1913.

stitution for a literary society and a list of the topics on which the Library of Congress has issued bibliographies.

University debaters' annual; constructive and rebuttal speeches delivered in the intercollegiate debates of American colleges and universities during the college year 1914-15, ed. by E. C. Mabie. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1915.* 534 p. 20^{cm}. $1.80. 808.5

Supplements issued frequently.

An index of the topics included in 34 debate manuals, giving, under each topic, a brief statement of the question, a page reference to the manual in which the topic is included and a note indicating the kind of material to be found there, i. e. briefs, references, specimen debates, synopses, etc.

DISSERTATIONS

Catalogs or bibliographies of dissertations are extremely important reference tools in certain types of libraries, although almost negligible in other types. Dissertations or theses presented by candidates for the doctorate form a very special class of publications. As such degrees are given only for original work, each thesis must deal with some phase of a subject which has not been previously covered by a printed work. Each thesis therefore at the date of its publication is usually the only thing in print on that particular phase of its subject and its value to the reader interested in that subject is obvious. While some dissertations are issued by regular publishers and so appear in the ordinary trade bibliographies, most are privately printed and are listed only in the special bibliographies of dissertations. These bibliographies have therefore a distinct value in libraries which make much use of thesis material i. e., the large reference, special, and university libraries, and serve the following purposes: (1) to show the student who is trying to select a thesis subject whether that subject has already been written on; (2) to show the order department whether a publication not listed in the ordinary trade lists is a dissertation and if so from what university it can be obtained; (3) to show the reference worker what material has been printed on very special or unusual subjects.

GENERAL

Paris. Bibliothèque nationale. Catalogue des dissertations et écrits académiques provenant des échanges avec les universités étrangères et reçus par la Bibliothèque nationale, 1883-1912. Paris, Klincksieck, 1884-1914.* 22^{cm}. 378

Arranged alphabetically by universities. Useful principally for universities in countries for which there is no current national list. For French, German or Swiss theses the national lists are more useful.

AMERICAN

Library of Congress. List of American doctoral dissertations printed in 1912-14.* Wash. Govt. print. off. 1913-15. v. 1-3. 23^{cm}. 30 cts. per vol. 378.73

Contents of each volume: (1) Alphabetic list of theses printed during the year; (2) Classified list, arranged under the broad classes of the Library of Congress scheme; (3) Index of subjects; (4) Doctors whose theses have been printed during the year, arranged by institutions.

Lists 1 and 2 give full catalog information and, in case of reprints, indicate the periodical or other publication in which the thesis was first printed. Includes the theses of about 25 colleges and universities. The introduction in v. 1 gives titles of earlier printed lists of American theses.

FRENCH

France. Ministère de l'instruction publique et des beaux-arts. Catalogue des thèses et écrits académiques. Années scolaires 1884-1913. Paris, Hachette, 1885-1914.* v. 1-6. 24-27^{cm}. 1.25 fr. per yr. 378.44

Issued annually, 5 yearly parts being paged continuously to form a volume.

The official French list. Each annual issue is arranged alphabetically by universities, with sub-arrangement by facultés. Gives for each thesis author's name, full title, place, date, size, paging. Each annual issue has an author index and each volume a subject and an author index. Issued in two editions: (1) book edition on ordinary paper printed on both sides, (2) on thin paper printed on only one side, for clipping. Of great value in the university library, as the French theses are among the most important published.

There is no official list for the period before 1884, so for that period the following subject lists must be used:

Literature

Maire, Albert. Répertoire alphabétique des thèses de doctorat ès lettres des universités françaises, 1810-1900; avec table chronologique par université et table détaillée des matières. Paris, Picard, 1903. 226 p. 22^{cm}. 5 fr. 378.44

List of 2,182 theses, arranged alphabetically by authors' names. Gives for each thesis author's name, title of thesis, place, publisher, date, paging, university, and a statement as to whether the thesis was published also in any other form. Marks rejected theses.

Mourier, Athénais, and Deltour, F. Notice sur le doctorat ès lettres, suivie du catalogue et de l'analyse des thèses françaises et latines admises par les facultés des lettres depuis 1810. Paris, Delalain, 1880. 442 p. 25^{cm}. 10 fr. 378.44

This list, with its annual continuations, includes practically the same theses as Maire's Répertoire but arranges them by years and universities instead of alphabetically, and gives in addition to title and paging a full table of contents of each thesis. Gives very brief biographical data. Special value is for the full analysis of contents. Indexes: (1) subjects; (2) authors.

— Catalogue et analyse des thèses françaises et latines admises par les facultés des lettres. Paris, Delalain, 1882-1901. 21 v. 25^{cm}. 1.50 fr. per vol. 378.44

Annual continuation of the above, following the same plan. No more published.

Science

Maire, Albert. Catalogue des thèses de sciences soutenues en France de 1810 à 1890 inclusivement. Paris, Welter, 1892. 223 p. 25^{cm}. 10 fr. 378.44

Lists more than 2,400 theses arranged by universities: (1) Paris, (2) The provincial universities, and under each university chronologically. Gives for each thesis author's full name with brief biographical data, title, place, publisher, date of publication, paging, plates, format, and date of sustaining theses. Indexes: (1) authors; (2) subjects.

Estanave, E. Revue décennale des thèses présentées à la Faculté des sciences de Paris, 1891-1900. Arcis-sur-Aube, Frémont, 1901. 114 p. 22^{cm}. 5 fr. 378.44

Continues Maire but with a different arrangement, i.e. by the three large classes of mathematical, physical and natural sciences, and in each group chronologically. Gives author's full name, with brief biographical data, title, place, publisher, date of publication, date of sustaining, and whether or not published in any other form. Refers to reviews and abstracts.

GERMAN AND AUSTRIAN

Fock, Gustav. Bibliographischer Monatsbericht über neuerschienene schul- und universitätsschriften, 1889-1915. Lpz. Fock, 1890-1915.* v. 1-27. 22^{cm}. 5m. a yr. 378.43

Classified arrangement, with annual author index, and beginning with volume 4, an annual "Sachregister" published separately.

Jahres-verzeichnis der an den deutschen universitäten erschienenen schriften, 1885-1914. Berl., Behrend, 1887-1915.* v. 1-30. 25^{cm}. 15m. per vol. 378.43

v. 1-18 publ. by Asher.

v. 1-27, 1885-1911/12, each volume covers an academic year, i.e. parts of two calendar years; v. 28 covers Aug.-Dec. 1912; v. 29-30 cover the calendar years 1913 and 1914.

The standard official German list including, v. 1-28, the theses of all the German universities and v. 29-30 the theses of the "Technische Hochschulen" as well as the universities. Arranged, v. 1-28 by universities, v. 29-30 by faculties, with an author index in each volume, a separate subject index for v. 1-5, and a subject index in each volume for v. 6-30. Gives for each thesis author's full name and brief characterization, brief biographical data, title of thesis, date, publisher, paging, size, and whether reprinted from some scientific journal, report, etc.

In two parts, an author list and a subject list. The author list is printed also in Uppsala universitets, Arsskrift, 1911, v. 2.

SWISS

Jahresverzeichnis der schweizerischen universitätsschriften, 1897-1914. Basel, Schweighauserische buchdruckerei, 1898-1915.* v. 1-17. 20^{cm}. 378.494

Title varies; 1909-, Jahresverzeichnis der schweizerischen hochschulschriften.

SOCIETY PUBLICATIONS

The serial publications issued by learned societies serve somewhat the same kind of reference use as do the more general periodicals, i. e., they supplement the book collections of the library by furnishing articles more up to date, or more authoritative and special, than the book literature of the subject in question. Papers printed in academy and society transactions are usually based directly upon original research and are scholarly and scientific in character, and are therefore more valuable than articles in the more general periodicals. For this same reason, as they appeal to a more limited public, they are less often indexed in the general indexes of periodicals, although generally indexed in the special bibliographies and indexes. To use society transactions intelligently the reference worker needs the same kind of aids needed in work with periodicals, i. e., indexes, bibliographies, and union lists or catalogues. For indexes use the indexes to periodicals, particularly the special indexes, described in the preceding chapter. The union lists of periodicals include many society transactions as well. For bibliographies, however, a special set of publications is available. Both the reference worker and the cataloger frequently need to look up information about the history, organization, officers, publications, addresses, etc., of the various learned societies, and for such purposes the following bibliographies, yearbooks and handbooks are useful. Certain of these, e. g., Griffin, Terry, etc., are so arranged that they serve also as indexes to the publications covered.

GENERAL

British museum. Library. Catalogue of printed books: Academies. Lond. Clowes, 1885. 1018 col. 35^{cm}. £1. 060

Alphabetically by cities, with index to academies.

Continued in its Catalogue of printed books. Supplement. 1900-03. pt. 1, col. 67-496.

Minerva, Jahrbuch der gelehrten Welt, 1891-1914. Strassb. Trübner, 1891-1914. v. 1-23. illus. 10m. per vol. 378

Discontinued on account of the European War.

Annuaire de la vie internationale: unions, associations, instituts, commissions, bureaux, offices, conférences, congrès, expositions, publications; publié pour l'Union des associations internationales avec le concours de la Fondation Carnegie pour la paix internationale et de l'Institut international de la paix, 1908/09-1910/11. Bruxelles, Off. centr. des assoc. internat. [1913] 2 v. 25^{cm}. v. 1, 25 fr. v. 2, 45 fr. 060

Contains a great deal of information about the history, organization, membership, purposes, meetings, etc., of all types of international organizations, governmental and private, but not so much about their publications. Each volume contains (1) Public (i. e. governmental) unions, conferences, etc., arranged by subject according to the Belgian Dewey D. C.; (2) Private organizations, same arrangement; (3) Chronological list of international meetings, giving name, date and place (4) Index of persons, Index of subjects. While the second volume contains the later information it does not entirely displace the first, but refers it for earlier material.

Eijkman, P. H. L'internationalisme médical. Publication du Bureau préliminaire de la fondation pour l'internationalisme. La Haye, Amsterdam, F. van Rossen, 1910. Cover-title, 44 p., 51 l. 24^{cm}. 2 fr. 060

At head of title: Fondation pour l'internationalisme.

"Notes" [list of international congresses, conferences and associations] 51 l. at end.

— L'internationalisme scientifique (sciences pures et lettres), avec un avant-propos du professeur Paul S. Reinsch. La Haye [W. P. van Stockum et fils] 1911. 108 p., 162 l. 24½^{cm}. 060

CONTENTS.—Avant-propos du professeur P. S. Reinsch.—Introduction contenant un supplément à L'internationalisme médical.—L'internationalisme scientifique (sciences et lettres, sciences, lettres, conclusion)—Notes [List of international congresses, conferences and associations].

The two volumes contain a good deal of information about international commissions, conventions, societies, etc., which is not easily findable elsewhere. Difficult to use quickly, however, because of the lack of a subject index.

AMERICAN

Bowker, Richard Rogers. Publications of societies; a provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary, and other societies from their organization. N. Y. Publishers' weekly, 1899. 181 p. 24^{cm}. $3. 016.06

Based upon the material contained in the Appendixes to the American catalogue of books, 1884-95.

Now largely superseded by the Carnegie institution Handbook, but occasionally useful for societies not included in the Carnegie list.

Carnegie institution of Washington. Handbook of learned societies and institutions: American. Wash. Carnegie institution, 1908. 592 p. 22^{cm}. $4. 016.06

"Includes North and South America and the adjacent islands. Similar material for the rest of the world has been collected but is not yet edited for publication. It is however kept on file available for consultation at the Library of Congress. . . . Omits societies and institutions devoted to medicine and agriculture, patriotic societies, local bar associations and teachers' organizations, and leagues for civic improvement or charitable purposes. Astronomical and meteorological observatories have been included only when forming departments of universities, colleges, etc."

Gives name, address, history, object, meetings, membership, serial and special publications, distribution of publications, research funds and prizes. Arranged: (1) United States national societies; (2) local societies and institutions alphabetically by cities with the exception of state societies and institutions and historical societies of counties, smaller cities and towns which are entered under their respective states; (3) Canada, Mexico, West Indies, Central America, South America. Alphabetic index.

Griffin, Appleton Prentiss Clark. Bibliography of American historical societies, the United States and Canada. 2d ed. rev. and enl. Wash. 1908. $1. (In American historical association. Annual report, 1905. v. 2.) 906

A very important list useful both for information about the societies included and as an index to the contents of their publications. Arranged: (1) national organizations, (2) local societies. For each society gives brief information about its history and a full list of its publications, with detailed contents of each composite volume. Full author, subject and society indexes. The subject index makes the work usable as an index to articles in the serial publications of the societies listed.

ENGLISH

Year-book of the scientific and learned societies of Great Britain and Ireland, giving an account of their origin, constitution, and working. Lond. Griffin, 1884-1915.* v. 1-32, 22^{cm}. 7s. 6d. per vol. 062

Sub-title varies.

Contents, 1915: (1) General societies, or; (2) Subject groups, e. g. Astronomy, Chemistry, Geography, Literature, etc. (3) Index of society names.

A very useful list, giving for each society authoritative information as to its corporate name, address, date of founding, patron, officers, meetings, membership, titles of publications with prices, and contents of publications for the year covered. The first volume 1884 was a basic volume, containing considerable historical information not reprinted in later issues. For full information, therefore, both the first and latest volume should be consulted.

Terry, Charles Sanford. Catalogue of the publications of Scottish historical and kindred clubs and societies, and of the volumes relative to Scottish history, issued by his Majesty's Stationery office, 1780-1908. Glasgow, MacLehose, 1909. 253 p. 26^{cm}. 10s. 6d. 016.941

A useful though not complete work, on the same general plan as Griffin's Bibliography of American historical societies (see above, p. . . .)

Contents: (1) Catalogue of the publications of over 50 Scottish historical and kindred clubs and societies, arranged alphabetically by name of society, giving for each society its corporate name, date of founding, purpose, list of its publications, and contents of each volume if several papers are included; (2) author and subject index to the publications and contents notes. The index is quite full and is often useful for analytic references on small or out-of-the-way points in Scotch history.

Publication of the Comité des travaux historiques et scientifiques.

Issued in parts, 1885-1914.

Vol. 1-4 cover the literature published to the year 1885; v. 5-6, 1886-1900.

A monumental undertaking, not yet completed but forming already the most important work on French societies undertaken so far. Arranged alphabetically first by départements, then by towns and under each town by the name of the society. For each society gives brief history, note of all changes of name, suspensions, mergers, etc., full titles, dates, etc., of all of its publications and full contents of each volume. Not limited to societies in France but includes also those in the French colonies and abroad. Most useful at present for the historical matter about the societies and for the titles and collation of the sets of their publications, but can not be used rapidly for the analytical material. An alphabetical author and subject index has been projected and if this is ever published the work will become enormously useful as an index to the periodicals and society literature of French history and related topics. Continued on the same plan and scale by the following:

Bibliographie annuelle des travaux historiques et archéologiques publiés par les sociétés savantes de la France dressée sous les auspices du Ministère de l'instruction publique. t. 1-3, années 1901/04-1909/10. Paris, Impr. nationale, 1906-14.* v. 1-3 in 9 pts. 28x22^{cm}. 6.50 fr. per vol.

Each volume consists of three annual issues.

Contents: v. 1, 1901/02-1903/04; v. 2, 1904/05-1906/07; v. 3, 1907/08-1909/10.

An annual continuation of the above, on the same plan and scale, listing in the 9 annuals so far issued 42,612 analytics. The following indexes should be noted: v. 3, no. 3 1909-10 has general index of societies (but not of analytics) in vols. 1-3, pts. 1-9. v. 3, no. 1, 1901-02, has both an author and a subject index to the analytical material in that issue; this index not continued in other issues, however.

Lefèvre-Pontalis, Eugène. Bibliographie des sociétés savantes de la France. Paris, 1887. 142 p. 28^{cm}. $1. 016.064

Largely superseded by Lasteyrie (see above) but still useful for some societies not included by Lasteyrie.

Arranged by cities with alphabetic index of societies.

ENCYCLOPEDIAS

A good encyclopedia or collection of encyclopedias forms the backbone of a great part of the reference work in any library. Such books should be selected with great care and used intelligently with full understanding on the part of the reference assistants of the relative merits and defects of the different works. The making of an authoritative up to date encyclopedia is a very expensive undertaking, calling for heavy outlay for experienced writers, good editorial oversight, and careful and accurate printing and proofreading. Such work can not be done cheaply and reputable publishers recognize this fact and spend what is necessary to produce an authoritative, well edited work. As the immediate profits from cheap work are much larger, however, and as the ordinary buyer often does not discriminate between good and poor encyclopedias, unscrupulous publishers will sometimes utilize cheap hack writers or reprint with only slight changes, old, out of date material and thus produce encyclopedias which are only made to sell, and which from the point of view of any real authority are nearly worthless though perhaps costing the library almost as much as the really good works. An encyclopedia should never be purchased without a full knowledge of its character and rigid examination of the book itself. If the librarian does not have the requisite knowledge, purchase should be deferred until the book has been examined and reviewed by an expert, otherwise library money may be wasted. If the library can possibly afford the initial outlay, a good expensive encyclopedia may be the cheapest in the long run, but if this cannot possibly be afforded, it is better to buy a second hand copy of the next to the last edition of a thoroughly good work than to buy a cheap new encyclopedia, of the hack-work or commercial type. An encyclopedia that was once good is never entirely superseded, and this fact should be taken into account if the publisher of a new work or new edition offers to allow a discount on the new edition for the return of the old. The small library may be justified in giving up its old edition, but the large library which does much reference work should keep one copy of such older works, which will often be useful. Older encyclopedias are helpful: (1) in supplying information as to the condition or view of a given subject, art, or science at the date when the book was compiled, and (2) in supplying minor biographical and other articles omitted from the later edition to make space for other material.

The three cardinal points which decide the standing of an encyclopedia are: (1) its authority (including the qualities of accuracy, up-to-dateness and completeness), (2) satisfactory mechanical arrangement, which should be such that information actually included in the work can be found easily, (3) the extent to which the encyclopedia sends the reader on to other sources of information, i. e., its bibliographies. In examining an encyclopedia to determine its standing on these three points, note the following: (1) publisher—is he well known, and reputable, or entirely unknown; (2) date, not of publication but of copyright; (3) editor—is he capable and has he really edited the book or only allowed the use of his name; (4) general appearance of the book, is it cheap and indicative of hasty and inaccurate work or are both paper and typography good; (5) preface—read publisher's or editor's own statement and try to check up his claims by his accomplishment; (7) authority—are the articles by specialists and signed; (8) are the articles full and adequate, or too brief; (9) bibliographies, are these always given, and in such form as to be usable; (10) arrangement of the work, is it clear, easily used, are there enough cross references; if arranged by large subjects, or not alphabetically, is there an alphabetical index of small subjects; (11) quality of illustrations.

AMERICAN

Encyclopedia Americana; a general dictionary of the arts and sciences, literature, history, biography, geography, etc. Editor-in-chief, F. C. Beach. N. Y. The Americana co. [c1903-04] 16 v. illus. pl. ports. maps. 26^{cm}. $6 per vol. 031

Covers much the same ground as the first edition of the New international and occasionally supplements that work, especially in the fields of science and technology in which the Americana has been thought to be somewhat stronger. Has signed articles, bibliographies, good illustrations. Unpaged. Less important now than when first issued because not now up to date. There have been several partial revisions; the latest partial revision has title Americana, a universal reference library comprising the arts and sciences, literature, history, biography, geography, commerce, etc., of the world. (N. Y. Sci. Amer. comp. co. 1912. 22 v. $122) This revision is printed principally from the same plates as the edition of 1903-06, but with new articles and illustrations added, and some changes in the older articles to include events since 1903 and add a few recent bibliographical references. New articles added are largely in the field of science and technology.

Nelson's encyclopædia; everybody's book of reference. Editors-in-chief, Frank Moore Colby, George Sandeman. N. Y. Nelson [c1906-07] 12 v. illus. pl. maps. 25^{cm}. $42. 031

Nelson's encyclopædia; everybody's book of reference, editors-in-chief: Frank Moore Colby, George Sandeman. [Perpetual loose-leaf ed.] N. Y. Nelson, 1907. 12 v. col. fronts., illus. col. pl. maps (part double) 26^{cm}. $90. 031

Articles are much briefer than those in either the New international or the Americana and there is much less bibliography. The special feature upon which most stress is laid is the loose-leaf feature which enables the publisher to keep the work up to date by the issue of new pages, supplied regularly to subscribers, to be inserted in the place of, or in addition to, the original pages whenever changed information and new events make new articles necessary.

New international encyclopædia. 2d ed. N. Y. Dodd, 1914-16. 23 v. illus. pl. (part col.) ports., maps, plans. 25^{cm}. lib. buckr. $6. per vol. 031

Editors: Frank Moore Colby and Talcott Williams.

First edition 1902-04, in 17 vols. A later edition not entirely revised but with new material and new maps was published in 1907 in 20 vols. Another partial revision in 1912 incorporated the population figures of the United States census of 1910. The 2d edition, 1914-16, is thoroughly revised and reset and contains about 80,000 articles as against the 65,000 of the 1st edition.

An encyclopedia of the best modern type, with adequate and authoritative articles, many good illustrations, and excellent and very useful bibliographies. Important articles are by specialists, minor articles by a capable office staff. Articles are all unsigned, but there is at the beginning of each volume a list of the authors of the principal articles in that volume. Many very small subjects, including even titles of famous works of literature, names of fictitious characters, etc., are given separate treatment, pronunciation is marked, and the system of cross references is good. There are many biographical articles, about 20,000 in all, including articles on persons who have come into prominence during the European war and a considerable proportion of Latin-American biography. The numerous maps are of high grade, well to date and mounted on special "insets" in such a way that they can be removed and replaced by new revised maps to be supplied free to subscribers as need of change arises. The strongest feature of the encyclopedia, however, is its excellent and usable bibliographies. A special bibliographical feature which is often very useful is the reference, in articles on foreign authors, to translations of their works as well as to the best editions in the original. On the whole, especially for purposes of ready reference the New international is the most frequently useful of all encyclopedias in English, although for some English and European subjects and especially for cases where very full and scholarly treatment of a subject is called for the longer articles in the Britannica are to be preferred. A supplementary volume, unnumbered, contains courses of reading and study.

Issued in various bindings and on both ordinary paper and India paper. For library use the ordinary paper edition bound in library buckram according to A. L. A. specifications is to be preferred.

For annual supplement see New international year book, under Annual encyclopedias, p. 35.

Universal cyclopædia and atlas; Charles Kendall Adams, editor-in-chief. Rev. and enl. ed. Rossiter Johnson, editor of revision. N. Y. Appleton, 1905. 12 v. illus. pl. por. maps. $48. 031 and Johnson's universal cyclopædia. A concise, well-edited, practical work, with entry under small subject, signed articles, and bibliographies. Before the publication of the 1st edition of the New international, Johnson's cyclopædia was one of the most useful American encyclopedias, but it has not been recently revised, is now considerably out of date and is superseded for many purposes although still useful for occasional articles.

Various known also as Johnson's encyclopædia

The encyclopedias noted above represent the most used American works of recent or comparatively recent date. An older work which was once an excellent authority, though now superseded for all except occasional uses, is the American cyclopedia, ed. by George Ripley and C. A. Dana (N. Y. Appleton, 1873-1883. 16 v.) An annual supplement to this, entitled Appletons' annual cyclopædia is still useful. For description see under Annual encyclopedias, p. 34.

The large standard encyclopedias are to be preferred for most purposes, but some of the many smaller works are occasionally needed, either as substitutes when the large works cannot be afforded, or in addition to the latter for briefer articles or for occasional facts not found in the larger encyclopedias.

Appleton's new practical cyclopedia; a new work of reference based upon the best authorities, and systematically arranged for use in home and school, ed. by Marcus Benjamin, assisted by Arthur E. Bostwick, Gerald Van Casteel, George J. Hagar, with an introduction by Elmer Ellsworth Brown. New and rev. ed. N. Y. Appleton, 1915. 6 v. illus. plates (part col.) maps. 25^{cm}. $24. 031
First edition 1910.

A concise encyclopedic handbook, once very useful but now somewhat out of date. Based upon Haydn's Dictionary of dates, but revised and enlarged to include more general and more American material than Haydn. Resembles Haydn in the chronological arrangement of information under subjects which permit of such treatment but less well up to date than the latest edition of Haydn. (See under History, p. 161.)

A later edition (N. Y. Harper, 1906) contains some changes when the plates could be altered without too great cost, but there are not sufficient additions to make this edition necessary in libraries possessing the earlier one.

ANNUAL ENCYCLOPEDIAS

Appletons' annual cyclopædia and register of important events. . . . Embracing political, military, and ecclesiastical affairs; public documents; biography, statistics, commerce, finance, literature, science, agriculture, and mechanical industry. v. [1]-15, 1861-75; v. 16-35 (new ser., v. 1-20) 1876-95; v. 36-42 (3d ser., v. 1-7) 1896-1902. N. Y. Appleton, 1862-1903. 42 v. illus. pl., ports., maps. 25^{cm}. 031

Vol. 1-14 have title: The American annual cyclopædia and register of important events.

No more published.

—A general index to Appletons' annual cyclopædia, embracing vols. I to XV inclusive, and the years 1861 to 1875. N. Y. Appleton, 1876. 442 p. 25^{cm}.

—An index to Appletons' annual cyclopædia, 1876 to 1887 inclusive. N. Y. Appleton, 1888. 144 p. 25^{cm}.

Other indexes are included in the set as follows: Index to new series v. 1-20, 1876-95, in n. s. v. 20 p. 769-866; Index to 3d series v. 1-7, 1896-1902, in 3d ser. v. 7 p. 845-66.

Originally published as an annual supplement to the American cyclopædia. Of little use now as a supplement, but still very useful as an independent publication, especially for the following: (1) for record of the events of a given year, especially the political, governmental, economic and military events, which are given with greater detail in this year by year record than in later general accounts; volumes covering the Civil War and Reconstruction periods are especially useful to students of American history; (2) for many comparatively minor articles, particularly obituaries and biographies, which are either omitted from later encyclopedias or given briefer treatment than in the annual volume for the year when the person was of especial interest. For somewhat similar record after 1907, see New international year book.

International year book; a compendium of the world's progress. . . . 1898-1902. N. Y. Dodd, [1899-1903] 5 v. illus., pl., ports., maps, plans, facsim. 25^{cm}. $4. per vol. 031

Editor: F. M. Colby; consulting editor, H. T. Peck.

Covers much the same ground as last five volumes of Appletons' annual cyclopædia, but includes some different material and presents it in a different arrangement, i. e. one straight alphabet. The last volume contains a general index to the set.

New international year book; a compendium of the world's progress, 1907-1915. N. Y. Dodd, 1908-16.* v. 1-9. pl. ports. maps. 26^{cm}. $5. per vol. 031

Editor: F. M. Colby.

Planned as a supplement to the New international encyclopædia, volumes 1907-13 supplementing the first edition, volumes 1914-, the second edition. The volume for 1907 contains, in addition to the record for that year, brief summaries of the events of 1903-06. An excellent annual encyclopædia, compiled and arranged on the same plan as the New international encyclopædia and useful both as a supplement to that work and as an annual record of the progress and events in any subject. Especially useful for biography.

ENGLISH

Encyclopædia Britannica; a dictionary of arts, sciences, literature, and general information. 11th ed. Camb. [Eng.] & N. Y. Univ. press, 1911. 29 v. illus. pl. (partly col.) maps. 30^{cm}. 032

Amer. ed. cloth $159.50; half mor. $203.25. v. 1-28, A-Z; v. 29, Index.

The most famous encyclopedia in English and for some purposes the best. The first edition was published in 1771 and the ninth edition (the last complete revision before the present eleventh edition) in 1875-88, the tenth edition, published 1902-03 was not a revision of the whole work but merely a 10 volume supplement to the 9th edition issued to bring that edition more nearly to date and linked to it by a general index, vol. 35. The old Britannica type, which persisted through the 9th edition, called for a collection of important monographs on large subjects, by specialists, often very scholarly and important, with good bibliographies, good illustrations, but with no separate treatment of small subjects and no biographical sketches of living persons. Small subjects were treated only as parts of larger subjects and could be found only through the index. This plan was modified somewhat in the supplementary 10th edition and still more, to meet modern demands, in the present or 11th edition.

The 11th is based upon the 9th and 10th editions but revised throughout, rearranged and with much new material added. The features to be noted are: (1) long signed articles by specialists with (2) excellent bibliography appended to most articles; (3) many excellent illustrations, both in the text and in black and white plates and some colored plates; (4) inclusion of many smaller subjects not separately treated in earlier editions and (5) inclusion of biographical articles on persons still living; (6) very detailed index of small subjects; (7) almost equal up-to-dateness of all parts of the alphabet due to a nearly simultaneous completion and publication. Pronunciation is not marked. In general the articles are excellent but a few show insufficient revision of earlier material especially in the bibliographies. A point which makes for inaccuracy in quick reference work, unless the reference worker uses the index constantly, is the omission of all "see references" from the body of the book and their inclusion in the index only, although "see also" references are given at the ends of articles. There are some minor differences between the English and American edition, e. g. the English edition has clearer impression of most of the illustrations, especially the plates, and the American edition gives for American cities the population statistics of the 1910 census instead of the figures of the 1900 census given in the English edition. Issued in two forms, on ordinary paper and on India paper, the latter not recommended for libraries on account of its tendency to cling and fold. The ordinary paper edition was issued in three bindings, ordinary cloth and in three special library bindings: (1) buckram, A. L. A. specifications (2) half morocco, Lib. assoc. [Eng.] specifications (3) half morocco special Chivers binding, this latter for English edition only, and now out of print.

A "handy volume edition" was published in 1915-16 and is sold by Sears, Roebuck and co., Chicago. This edition is an exact photographic reproduction, reduced one-third in size, of the standard edition described above, and the text is not revised or altered in any way. The type is small but very clear, and is usable. The illustrations in the text are reduced in proportion and lose somewhat in the process but the maps and plates are not reduced at all, as it was found possible, by folding the maps and dividing the illustrations which were formerly grouped on one plate, in many cases illustrations of the same size as in the original edition. The reduced edition is prepared for the private purchaser and is not recommended for a library which can afford to purchase the work in its original form, but to the small library with a work fund which does not admit the purchase of the original edition this reproduction offers a fairly satisfactory substitute. It is published in several bindings and on both India paper and ordinary paper but for library purposes the ordinary paper edition at $48 is to be preferred.

Kvervman encyclopædia, ed. by Andrew Boyle, Lond., Dent, N. Y. Dutton, [1913]. 12 v. illus., 17^{cm}. 18s. $6. 032

A good small encyclopedia for the private library or small library which cannot afford a larger work. The articles are concise and generally accurate, although American subjects are treated somewhat less adequately than English. Bibliographies often omitted but when given are generally good. Few illustrations. An excellent work for the price but not a substitute for one of the larger standard encyclopedias.

Among the old English encyclopedias occasionally used may be mentioned:—

Penny cyclopedia (1833 43, 27v.)

Encyclopædia Metropolitana (1817-45, 30v.)

Rees's cyclopædia; or, Universal dictionary of arts, sciences, and literature (1802 19, 45v.)

A standard Dutch work of the Meyer-Brockhaus type with good concise articles and good illustrations. Very little bibliography.

FRENCH

La grande encyclopédie, inventaire raisonné des sciences, des lettres et des arts, par une société de savants et de gens de lettres; sous la direction de MM. Berthelot, Hartwig Derenbourg, etc. Paris, Lamirault, 1886-1902. 31 v. illus., col. pl., maps (partly col.) 31^{cm}. 700 fr. 034 Secrétaire général: v. 1-18, F. Camille Dreyfus; v. 19-22, v. 23-31, André Berthelot.

Vol. 23-31 published by Société anonyme de La grande encyclopédie.

The most important French encyclopedia and one of the best encyclopedias in any language. Has authoritative signed articles, excellent bibliographies, many entries under small subjects. Somewhat out of date now for sciences, etc., in which there have been recent developments, but an excellent authority for other subjects, especially for mediaeval and renaissance subjects, and for literature, history, biography, etc., of continental Europe. Very good for French and other continental biography. The bibliographies are especially important. Has fewer illustrations and plates than recent English or American encyclopedias, but what there are, are good.

Larousse, Pierre Athanase. Grand dictionnaire universel du XIX^e siècle français. Paris, Larousse, 1866-90. 17v. 32^{cm}. 750 fr. 034

v. 1-15, A-Z; v. 16, suppl. A-Z; v. 17, suppl. A-Z.

A famous encyclopedia, well edited and well written, once of first importance and still useful in many cases if allowance is made for the fact that it is not up to date and must be checked, on important points, by occasional reference to more recent authorities. Combines the features of dictionary and encyclopedia, and as an encyclopedia is an extreme example of entry under small subject, including many articles, some of considerable length, on individual works of literature, e. g. poems, plays, novels, romances, etc., and a very large amount of minor biography not included in other general encyclopedias. Good for questions of European literature, biography and history. Pink index pages referring to articles in the two supplements have been issued for insertion at the back of each of the original 15 volumes. As these were not issued until after the publication of the supplements they are not included in earlier sets, but may be purchased separately and inserted; price 3.50 fr.

— Nouveau Larousse, illustré, dictionnaire universel encyclopédique. Paris, Larousse, 1898-1906. 8v. illus. pl. (some col.) maps. 32^{cm}. 250 fr. 034

v. 1-7, A-Z; v. 8, suppl.

Not an abridgment or revision of the above, but an entirely new work of a more popular character, with briefer articles, and profusely illustrated in both black and white and colors. Preserves much of the old Larousse feature of separate treatment of very small subjects. Especially useful for certain kinds of questions about works of art, as one of its special features is the inclusion of separate articles on individual works of art, e. g. paintings, statues, etc., entered under their titles or subjects, and accompanied by small but usable illustrations. Contains a large amount of biography but comparatively little bibliography. For popular, not scholarly use.

— Larousse mensuel illustré, revue encyclopédique universelle, pub. sous la direction de Claude Augé, 1907-16. Paris, Larousse, [1907-16]. v. 1-3. illus. 32^{cm}. 9 fr. per year. 034

v. 1, 1907-10; v. 2, 1911-13; v. 3, 1914-16.

An excellent monthly supplement to the Nouveau Larousse, with the same size and style of page, and same type of articles and illustrations. Each monthly number is alphabetical, there are annual indexes for each year, to be used until a volume is completed, and a final alphabetical index for each volume. Articles are well up to date and numbers are issued promptly. Good work for contemporary French biography, obituaries, portraits, etc. The issues for 1914-16 contain many articles on current history of the European war, military art and science, terms, maps of battles and campaigns, etc.

Encyclopédie universelle du xx^e siècle
Paris, Librairie nationale, 1908-10. 8 v. 34^{cm}. 650 fr. 034

A recent work of a more popular character than La grande encyclopédie; not so scholarly as the latter but occasionally useful for some subjects, minor or recent biography, etc., not treated in La grande encyclopédie or Larousse.

v. 17 is a supplementary volume.

The 1908 edition is called the Jubiläums ausgabe but is not revised.

Begun in 1796 by Löbel, it was taken up by Brockhaus in 1808. The first edition bore the title Damenslexicon.

v. 24-25, 1st suppl. A-Z; v. 26-28, 2d suppl. A-Z.

This is the Spanish encyclopedia which is most commonly found in American libraries and is much used in spite of the fact that it is often unsatisfactory. Inferior to the Enciclopedia universal ilustrada noted below but still useful for the parts of the alphabet not yet covered by the new work.

Enciclopedia universal ilustrada Europeo-Americana. Barcelona, Espasa y Hijos, 1905-15. v. 1-20, 29-31. illus. pl. (partly col.) maps. 26^{cm}. 27 ptas. per vol. 036

v. 1-20, A-Espan, 29-31, L-Madz.

v. 21-28 not to be published until after the European war.

A useful encyclopedia for the very large reference or special library. It has long articles, bibliographies, many good illustrations and maps, and includes many short articles on very small subjects. Special features are the many maps, geographical, geological, historical and statistical, the numerous plans of even small cities, colored plates of uniforms, flags, coins, etc., of each country, and the many reproductions of paintings and other works of art given usually under title and sometimes under the artist's name.

DICTIONARIES

For a general survey of the whole field of language dictionaries consult the article "Dictionary" in the Encyclopaedia Britannica, 11th edition. This is valuable for its historical information, but the appended bibliography has not been sufficiently revised to include the best recent dictionaries of the various languages.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE

For an interesting and authoritative survey of the history and development of the English dictionary consult Sir James A. H. Murray's Evolution of English Lexicography, Ox. Univ. press, 1901, 51p.

Dictionaries are the main sources for information about words, their spelling, pronunciation, meaning, derivation, etc. Theoretically the dictionary is concerned only with the word, not with the thing represented by the word, differing in this respect from the encyclopedia which gives information primarily about the thing. Practically, however, the large modern dictionary is very often encyclopedic and gives information about the thing as well as the word, thus combining the features of the two types of reference books. As the large English dictionary is the most familiar "family reference book," this encyclopedic feature has been continually strengthened by the addition of many special lists and excellent illustrations, until the best modern works of this sort can now be used for many more purposes than information about words. The student of reference books should familiarize himself with the special features and supplementary lists of each of the great dictionaries if he is to make each of these books serve all the purposes that it can be made to serve.

Dictionaries should be purchased cautiously. Like encyclopedias they are expensive undertakings for the publisher, and an unscrupulous publisher may try to increase immediate profits by using cheap work, by reprinting without revising some older work the copyright of which has expired, or by other unjustifiable measures. The prospective buyer should use the same care recommended in the case of encyclopedias.

In studying an English dictionary the student should follow the general directions for examining reference books, and should also note carefully the following points: (1) period of the language covered; (2) vocabulary—extent and how counted, special elements included, e.g. slang, dialect, scientific terms, etc.; (3) treatment of each word with reference to (a) spelling, (b) syllabication and hyphenization, (c) pronunciation, (d) etymology, (e) history, (f) definition, (g) illustrative quotations—are they given freely and with exact reference, (h) standard and usage—is a word indicated as obsolete, colloquial, etc., (i) encyclopedic information, (j) synonyms, antonyms; (4) illustrations; (5) special types of words included in addition to the ordinary vocabulary, e.g. Christian names, foreign phrases, geographical names—to what extent are these included and where, i.e. in separate lists or in the main vocabulary; (6) special features and treatment—does the dictionary stand especially for any one thing, historical information, simplified spelling, etc.

Dictionaries of the English language have been divided rather arbitrarily, according to their place of compilation and publication, into American dictionaries and English dictionaries. Of course both types cover the same field, the English language as a whole, and conform in the main to the same standards, but there are certain minor differences. In cases where there are differences in spelling, pronunciation, meaning, etc., each dictionary will generally give both usages, but the English work will prefer the English usage or form, while the American work will prefer the American. An American dictionary generally includes more Americanisms, an English dictionary more local English terms and colonial words.

AMERICAN

For a detailed study and comparison of the principal American dictionaries consult American dictionaries, by Stewart Archer Steger, Baltimore, Furst, 1913, 131 p.

Century dictionary and cyclopedia with a new atlas of the world. N. Y. Century co. [c1911] 12 v. illus. pl. (partly col.) maps, charts. 31^{cm}. 423

Published and originally sold by Century co., but no longer handled by that firm. Now sold by Encyclopædia Britannica co., New York.

First edition 1889-91, 6 v., with two supplementary volumes, Cyclopedia of names, 1894, and Atlas 1897; partially revised from time to time and plates altered by the cutting out of some of the original material and the insertion of new information, but never entirely revised and reset. Revisions to note especially are: (1) Edition of 1901, 10 v., v. 1-8, Dictionary, v. 9, Names, v. 10, Atlas; (2) two supplementary volumes published 1909, numbered v. 11-12 to continue the 1901 edition and containing about 100,000 new words, senses and phrases and a 92 page supplement to the Cyclopedia of names; and (3) the 1911 edition, 12 v.

Contents: v. 1-10, Dictionary; v. 11, Cyclopedia of names; v. 12, Atlas.

Printed from the same plates as the earlier editions but with alterations in the plates to include a considerable amount of new material. In addition there is bound at the end of each volume the corresponding portion of the alphabet from the two supplementary volumes published in 1909, making two alphabets in each volume, linked together by cross-references.

The most comprehensive and detailed American dictionary and the best example of the encyclopedic type. Its special features are its free inclusion and careful treatment of the technical terms of the various sciences, arts, trades and professions, its excellent illustrations and plates, and, particularly, the large amount of encyclopedic material included. This last feature makes the work almost as much an encyclopedia as a dictionary.

Standard dictionary. Funk and Wagnalls new standard dictionary of the English language, prepared by more than 380 specialists and other scholars under the supervision of I. K. Funk, Calvin Thomas, F. H. Vizetelly. N. Y. Funk, 1913. 2916 p. illus. pl. (partly col.) por. facsim. 31^{cm}. sheep $12. half goat $14.50; 2 vol. ed. $25. 423

First edition 1893 had title Standard dictionary; a new edition, 1901, had 85 pages of addenda containing 13,000 new words but was otherwise printed from the same plates as the first edition; the New standard is a thorough revision of the 1893 edition, reset and printed from new plates throughout.

Contents: (1) Dictionary, including in one alphabet all ordinary dictionary words and also the various proper names, i. e. biographical, bibliographical, geographical, mythological, biblical, etc., which were given in separate lists in the first edition; (2) Appendix: Disputed pronunciations, Rules for simplified spelling, Foreign words and phrases, Statistics of population, History of the world day by day (this last in "subscription ed." only).

A serviceable one volume work, the most recently revised of American dictionaries and therefore often the most useful for new words. Its special feature is emphasis upon current information, i. e. present day meaning, pronunciation, spelling and the subordination of the historical to the current information. Full vocabulary, about 450,000 words including 65,000 proper names, aims to include all live words of the language in standard speech and literature of the day and terms commonly used dialectically by large numbers of people in different parts of the English speaking world. Prefers simpler spelling and when several forms are used by authorities indicates those used by American philological association, American spelling reform association, and Simplified spelling board. Marks syllabication and hyphenated words plainly, using single hyphen for the first and double hyphen for the second; indicates pronunciation by two respellings, (1) by the scientific alphabet, N.E.A., and (2) by the ordinary respelling used in textbooks. Gives antonyms as well as synonyms. Contains considerable encyclopedic information and many illustrations and good colored plates.

Published in both a "regular" and a "subscription" edition. The regular edition does not contain the appendix "History of the world day by day."

Desk standard dictionary of the English language, designed to give the orthography, pronunciation, meaning, and etymology of about 80,000 words and phrases in the speech and literature of the English-speaking peoples; 1,200 pictorial illustrations; abridged from the Funk & Wagnalls New Standard dictionary of the English language by James C. Fernald. N. Y. Funk, 1915. 894 p. illus. 22^{cm}. $1.50. 423

Published also under title: The high school Standard dictionary of the English language.

Webster, Noah. Webster's new international dictionary of the English language, based on the International dictionary of 1890 and 1900. Now completely revised in all departments, including also a dictionary of geography and biography, being the latest authentic quarto edition of the Merriam series. W. T. Harris, Ph. D., LL. D., editor in chief, F. Sturges Allen, general editor. Sprgrf. [Mass.] Merriam, 1909. 2620 p. illus. pl. (partly col.) 31^{cm}. $12. 423

First edition of Webster's dictionary 1828; a revision popularly known as the Unabridged, 1864; Webster's International (the revised Webster), 1890; a new edition of this latter, 1900, had a 238 page supplement containing 25,000 new words but was otherwise reprinted from the plates of the 1890 edition; the New international, 1909, is entirely revised and reset throughout.

Contents: (1) Dictionary, including in the same list both the usual dictionary words and also foreign phrases, abbreviations, proverbs, noted names of fiction and all proper names except those in the biographical and geographical lists; (2) Appendix: (a) Pronouncing gazetteer, (b) Pronouncing Biographical dictionary, (c) Arbitrary signs used in writing and printing, (d) Classified selection of pictorial illustrations. In addition to the foregoing the "Reference history edition" contains a separately paged supplement "Reference history of the world" by J. C. Ridpath and H. E. Scudder, revised by E. A. Grosvenor, 152 p.

The oldest and most famous American dictionary, a good all round dictionary with no marked specialization or bias, well edited, reliable, and noted particularly for the clearness of its definitions. The most used, and for general purposes the most useful, of the one volume dictionaries, although as it has been less recently revised than the New Standard it is less useful than that work for very recent words or meanings. A special feature in the arrangement is the divided page, containing in the upper part the main words of the language and in the lower part, in finer print, minor words, foreign phrases, abbreviations, etc. Contains considerable encyclopedic matter, about 6,000 illustrations and a number of good colored plates.

Worcester, Joseph Emerson. Dictionary of the English language. New ed. enl. Phil. Lippincott, 1891. 2126 p. illus. por. pl. 29^{cm}. $10. 423

Worcester's first dictionary was published in 1830. There is an introduction on the history of English lexicography and a catalog of English dictionaries.

A famous older work once much used and referred to especially as an authority on pronunciation but no longer up to date and not now frequently called for except by occasional readers who have become used to it.

ENGLISH

Murray, Sir James Augustus Henry. New English dictionary on historical principles. Ox. Clarendon press, 1888–1916. v. 1–10. 33^{cm}. v. 1–8, £23 2s. 6d. $114.50; v. 9–10, incomplete, 2s. 6d per section (64 p.) 423

v. 1–8, A–Sh, complete; v. 9–10, Si–Th, Ti–Z, both incomplete.

Known variously as Murray's dictionary, the New English dictionary, and the Oxford dictionary. For history of the work see preface to volume one, and also Murray's Evolution of English lexicography.

The great dictionary of the language, compiled on a different plan from any of the other standard English dictionaries and serving a different purpose. It is based upon the application of the historical method to the life and use of words and its purpose is to show the history of every word included from the date of its introduction into the language, showing differences in meaning, spelling, pronunciation, usage, etc., at different periods of the last 800 years, and supporting such information by numerous quotations from the works of more than 5,000 authors of all periods, including all writers whatever before the 16th century and as many as possible of the important writers since then. The vocabulary is very full, and is intended to include all words now in use or known to have been in use since 1150, excluding only words which had become obsolete by 1150. Within these chronological limits, aims to include: (1) all common words of speech and literature, and all words that approach these in character, the limits being extended further into science and philosophy than into slang and cant; (2) in scientific and technical terminology, all words English in form except those of which an explanation would be intelligible only to a specialist, and such words not English in form as are in general use or belong to the more familiar language of science; (3) dialectal words before 1500, omitting dialectal words after that date except when they continue the history of a word once in general use, illustrate the history of a literary word or have a literary currency. Words included are classified as (1) main words, (2) subordinate words, (3) combinations; information for all main words is entered under its current modern or most usual spelling, or if obsolete under most typical later spelling, with cross references from all other forms. Information given about each main word is very full and includes (1) Identification, including (a) usual or typical spelling, (b) pronunciation indicated by respelling in an amplified alphabet or in case of obsolete words by marking of stress only, (c) grammatical designation, (d) specification, e. g. musical term, etc., (e) status, if peculiar, e. g. obsolete, archaic, etc., (f) earlier spelling, (g) inflexions; (2) Morphology, including derivation, subsequent form history, etc., (3) Signification, arranged in groups and historically, with marking of obsolete senses, erroneous uses, etc.; (4) Quotations, arranged chronologically to illustrate each sense of a word, about one quotation for each century, given with exact reference.

The most important use of this dictionary is for historical information about a word but it has many other secondary uses; e. g. while not intentionally encyclopedic it has a good deal of encyclopedic information including some not given in other dictionaries, and while not specializing in slang it does include many colloquial and slang words, Americanisms, etc., and where such words are included the information is often better than in the special slang dictionaries.

Fowler, Henry Watson. Concise Oxford dictionary of current English adapted by H. W. Fowler and G. E. Fowler. Ox. Clarendon press, 1911. 1041 p. 19^{cm}. 3s. 6d. $1. 423

Includes words in current use or preserved in much used quotations or proverbs, scientific and technical terms that are current in general speech but are not purely learned terms, and many colloquial, facetious, slang and vulgar expressions. An excellent small desk dictionary, based upon the work done for the New English dictionary.

ETYMOLOGY

For the etymology of the English language, the best authority, so far as it has been published, is Murray's New English dictionary. A smaller but very useful work and the standard special dictionary is:

Skeat, Walter William. Etymological dictionary of the English language. New ed., rev. and enl. [4th ed.] Ox. Clarendon press, 1910. 780 p. 26^{cm}. £1 18s. 422

Contents: (1) Dictionary; (2) Appendix: List of prefixes, Suffixes, List of homonyms, List of doublets, List of Indogermanic roots, Distribution of words according to languages from which they are derived.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Foreign dictionaries are important in any library, though their use will vary greatly according to the size and type of the library and the character of the library clientele. The needs of the small library used by English speaking readers will be met by a modest equipment of French, German and Latin dictionaries, while the small or branch library in a locality which has a considerable immigrant population will need also the dictionaries of the languages of these immigrants. Large public libraries and especially university libraries need the best dictionaries of all principal languages and many minor languages.

Two main types of dictionaries are represented in the following list: (1) the standard dictionary of a language in that language only, such as Littré's French dictionary, and (2) the bilingual dictionary, such as the various French-English and German-English dictionaries. The first type is the more complete and must be consulted when the fullest vocabulary or detailed and historical information is needed, but it can be used only by someone fairly familiar with the language, and is not needed generally in the smaller library. The second type, which is the most used kind in the average library, is planned for people who are learning a language, is much less complete in vocabulary and contains generally no historical information, as its main purpose is not detailed definition but the explanation of a foreign word by its English equivalent. The ordinary bilingual dictionary is generally very satisfactory for most words of the "literary" language but is often weak in scientific terms and popular expressions. Bilingual dictionaries differ greatly also, according to the users for whom they are compiled. In a French-English dictionary prepared for the use of English speaking students who are learning French, the French-English half of the book is the more important and this will be worked out very carefully, while the English-French half may be given briefer or less careful treatment. The reverse is true of a dictionary prepared for French students learning English. In that case the English-French half is more important and will generally be fuller and better than the French-English half. A library which can afford to have several dictionaries of a language should take this difference into account and represent both points of view.

"In the Deutsches wörterbuch of Jacob and Wilhelm Grimm the scientific spirit . . . first found expression in general lexicography . . . Their design, in brief, was to give an exhaustive account of the words of the literary language (New High German) from about the end of the 15th century, including their earlier etymological and later history, with references to important dialectal words and forms; and to illustrate their use and history abundantly by quotations . . . The scope and methods of this dictionary have been broadened somewhat as the work has advanced. In general it may be said that it differs from the New English dictionary chiefly in its omission of pronunciations and other pedagogic matter; its irregular treatment of dates; its much less systematic and less lucid statement of etymologies; its less systematic and less fruitful use of quotations; and its less convenient and less intelligible arrangement of material and typography." Encyclopaedia Britannica, 11th ed. 8:189.

Fasc. 1, D-degóir.

The authoritative dictionary of the Irish language, based on materials collected for many years by the Academy from printed books, manuscripts and the spoken language. Arranged on historical principles with many quotations illustrating the development both of meanings of words and of their grammatical inflexions. Begins with the letter D, leaving A-C to be published last, because the letters A-Dn were covered in Kuno Meyer's Contributions to Irish lexicography, of which this new dictionary is a continuation. To be completed in three volumes of about 1,000 pages each.

SPECIAL SUBJECTS

PHILOSOPHY

Baldwin, James Mark. Dictionary of philosophy and psychology, including many of the principal conceptions of ethics, logic, aesthetics, philosophy of religion, mental pathology, anthropology, biology, neurology, physiology, economics, political and social philosophy, philology, physical science and education, and giving a terminology in English, French, German and Italian. N. Y. Macmillan, 1901-05. 3v. in 4, illus. pl. (partly col.) 27^{cm}. $26. 103

Contents: v. 1, A-Laws; v. 2, Le-Z; Indices: (1) Greek terms (2) Latin terms (3) German terms (4) French terms (5) Italian terms; v. 3, Bibliography of philosophy: pt. 1, History of philosophy, pt. 2. Systematic philosophy, Logic Aesthetics, Philosophy of religion, Ethics, Psychology.

A useful authoritative work, concise rather than exhaustive in treatment, with signed articles by specialists and many bibliographies. Covers the whole field but is fuller for modern than for earlier aspects of the subjects and does not attempt to cover the whole of Greek and Scholastic philosophy. Includes very brief biographies of men no longer living. A special feature is the inclusion of French, German and Italian equivalents of English terms.

A new edition 1910 differed from the original only in the correction of a few typographical errors.

Blanc, Elie. Dictionnaire de philosophie ancienne, moderne et contemporaine. Paris, Lethiellieux, [1906]. 1248 cols. 24^{cm}. 103

Eisler, Rudolph. Handwörterbuch der philosophie. Berl. Mittler, 1913. 801 p. 23^{cm}. 17.50m. 103

A condensation and popularization of his Wörterbuch der philosophischen begriffe, utilizing also some material from his Philosophen-lexikon. An excellent small work, useful where short, concise articles are wanted, but not a substitute in a college library for his two larger works.

— Philosophen-lexikon; leben, werke und lehren der denker. Berl. Mittler, 1912. 889 p. 23^{cm}. 18.50 m. 103

— Wörterbuch der philosophischen begriffe. 3. völlig neubearb. Aufl. Berl. Mittler, 1910. 3 v. 23^{cm}. 35 m. 103

Scholarly articles, with bibliographies, on philosophical concepts and terms, tracing their use, meanings and treatment through the writings of the philosophers and giving many references to sources. For the specialist, not the general reader. Of first importance in advanced work.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Rand, Benjamin. Bibliography of philosophy, psychology and cognate subjects. N. Y. Macmillan, 1905. 2v. 27^{cm}. $10. 016.1

Forms v. 3 of Baldwin's Dictionary of philosophy; also sold separately. The most important bibliography of the subject. The section on psychology is continued by the Psychological index.

An excellent annual bibliography of publications in French on all branches of philosophy. A classified list with alphabetical name index; includes both book and periodical material and indexes all articles on subjects in philosophy in over 200 French and Belgian periodicals.

Die Philosophie der gegenwart; eine internationale jahresübersicht. 1-5. bd., 1908-13. Heidelberg, Weiss, 1910-16.* v. 1-5. 25^{cm}. 17.50 m. per vol. 016.1

Psychological index; a bibliography of the literature of psychology and cognate subjects, 1894-1915. N. Y. Macmillan, 1894-1916.* v. 1-22. $1 per vol. 016.15

Includes original publications in all languages, both books and periodical articles, together with translations and new editions in English, French, German and Italian. A classified subject list, with an alphabetical author index but no subject index. For books gives author, title, place, publisher and paging but not price, and for magazine articles author, title, periodical date, volume and inclusive paging. Lists about 3000 titles each year. A very useful bibliography for advanced work.

RELIGION

Encyclopædia of religion and ethics, ed. by James Hastings, with the assistance of John A. Selbie, and other scholars. Edin. Clark, N. Y. Scribner, 1911-12. v. 1-8. illus. pl. 29^{cm}. 28s. per vol. $7 per vol. 203

v. 1-8, A-Mulla.

The most recent and comprehensive work in this class, planned to include articles on all religions, ethical systems and movements, religious beliefs and customs, philosophical ideas, moral practices, related subjects in anthropology, mythology, folklore, biology, psychology, economics and sociology, and names of persons and places connected with any of these subjects. Signed articles, full bibliographies. To be completed in 12 vols.

Frazer, Sir James George. The golden bough; a study in magic and religion. 3d ed. Lond. Macmillan, 1907-15. 12 v. 23^{cm}. £6 10s. 209

Contents: v. 1-2. The magic art and the evolution of kings; v. 3. Taboo and the perils of the soul; v. 4. The dying god; v. 5-6. Adonis, Attis, Osiris; studies in the history of oriental religion; v. 7-8. Spirits of the corn and of the wild; v. 9. The scapegoat; v. 10-11. Balder the Beautiful; the fire festivals of Europe and the doctrine of the external soul; v. 12. Bibliography and general index.

Not a reference book in the ordinary sense of the word, but a great storehouse of information about primitive religion. The very detailed general index makes it possible to use the set for ready reference.

Schaff, Philip. The new Schaff-Herzog encyclopedia of religious knowledge, embracing biblical, historical, doctrinal and practical theology and biblical, theological and ecclesiastical biography; based on the 3d ed. of the Real-encyklopädie founded by J. J. Herzog and edited by Albert Hauck. S. M. Jackson, editor-in-chief. N. Y. Funk. [c1908-12.] 12 v. and index. 28^{cm}. $60. 203

This encyclopedia is one of the most important reference books on its subject in English, superseding the older work by M'Clintock and Strong, except for an occasional special article. Based upon the 3d ed. of the Herzog-Hauck-Real-encyklopädie, and so Protestant in tone, but not biased. Is not a mere translation of the German work, however, as much of the material has been condensed, fresh material added and the bibliographies extended and improved. Is not limited to the Christian religion but includes articles on other religions and religious leaders. Covers the whole field of biblical, historical and contemporary theology, church history and religious biography, including separate articles on all sects, denominations and churches, organizations and societies, missions, doctrines, controversies, etc. Biographical notices include those of men still living. The strongest feature of the work is the bibliographical feature which is in three forms — (1) an excellent general bibliographical survey, with critical comment, in the preface (xii-xxiv), (2) the bibliographical appendix at the beginning of each volume which gives recent literature, and (3) the fine bibliographies appended to each article.

The most extended modern work of reference in the field of theology is the great French series now in course of publication under the general title Encyclopédie des sciences religieuses, composed of the following separate works:

Dictionnaire d'archéologie chrétienne, by Cabrol; Dictionnaire d'histoire et de géographie ecclésiastiques, by Baudrillart; Dictionnaire de théologie catholique, by Vacant and Mangenot; Dictionnaire de la Bible, by Vigouroux, and Dictionnaire du droit canonique, (this last in preparation but not yet published). Parts of this series contain the finest material on the subject published in any language and the work as a whole represents the highest level of French Catholic scholarship. The price of the sets puts them beyond the reach of the small or medium-sized library and the work is too special to be of much use except in a theological library, a large general reference library or a library which specializes in mediaeval and ecclesiastical history and literature. For historical subjects the two dictionaries by Cabrol and Baudrillart are the most useful of the series. For fuller description see below and also p. 57, 63.

Baudrillart, Alfred. Dictionnaire d'histoire et de géographie ecclésiastiques, par Alfred Baudrillart, Albert Vogt et Urbain Rouziès. Paris, Letouzey, 1912. v. 1-3 (fasc. 1-12). illus. maps. 28^{cm}. 5 fr. per fasc. 203 fasc. 1-12, A-Angleterre.

Publication in fascicles was begun in 1908; v. 2 was completed in 1914, and one fascicle of v. 3 has been issued also, completing more than half of the letter A. Scope of work covers all subjects in history of the Roman Catholic church, and other churches as they affect the Roman church, from the beginning of Christianity to the present time.

The geographical material includes separate articles on towns and other small divisions, past and present, indicating the connection of the place with ecclesiastical history, its present ecclesiastical status, a list of its religious institutions, and, in case it is or has been an episcopal see, a list of the bishops, etc. There are biographical articles on all important and some minor names in the Roman Catholic church, members of other churches who have had any effect on the Roman church, all ecclesiastical and theological writers, saints in the Russian and other churches, ecclesiastical musicians, artists, etc. Signed articles, good bibliographies.

Herzog, Johann Jakob. Realencyklopädie für protestantische theologie und kirche, begründet von J. J. Herzog; in 3. verb. und verm. aufl. unter mitwirkung vieler theologen und gelehrten, hrsg. von Albert Hauck. Leipzig, Hinrichs, 1896-1913. 24 v. 26^{cm}. 284 m. 203

v. 1-21. A-Z; v. 22. Index; v. 23-24, Supplement, A-Z.

Long signed articles by specialists, full bibliographies. The most extended German work, and one of the most important in any language. Formed the basis for the new Schaff-Herzog described above. Of value in the theological university or large reference library, but not needed in other types.

Buchberger, Michael. Kirchliches handlexikon; ein nachschlagebuch über das gesamtgebiet der theologie und ihrer hilfswissenschaften. München, Allg. verlags-gesellschaft m. b. h., 1907. v. 1. 29^{cm}. 203

v. 1, A-H.

Schiele, Friedrich Michael. Die religion in geschichte und gegenwart. Handwörterbuch in gemeinverständlicher darstellung. Tübingen, Mohr, 1909-13. 5 v. illus. pl. 28^{cm}. 26 m. per vol. 203

v. 1-5, A-Z; an index volume is still to be published.

Signed articles written by specialists from an advanced point of view; full bibliographies. Cross references in the main alphabet refer to treatment of small subjects in articles on larger subjects. Many biographical articles, including articles on men still living.

CHRISTIAN ANTIQUITIES

Cabrol, Fernand. Dictionnaire d'archéologie chrétienne et de liturgie. Paris, Letouzey, 1907-14. v. 1-3. illus. pl. (some col.) maps. 28^{cm}. 5 fr. per fasc. 203

v. 1-3, A-Cyrique.

Excellent signed articles, with full bibliographies, on institutions, manners and customs of primitive Christianity, on the architecture, Christian art, iconography, symbols, epigraphy, paleography, numismatics, liturgy, rites and ceremonies of the early church to the time of Charlemagne. Covers about the same ground as Smith's Dictionary of Christian antiquities but with fuller and more up to date treatment. Excellent illustrations.

Kraus, Franz Xaver. Real-encyklopädie der christlichen alterthümer. Freiburg im Breisgau, St. Louis, Mo., Herder, 1882-86. 2 v. illus. 26^{cm}. 203

Smith, Sir William, and Cheetham, Samuel. Dictionary of Christian antiquities. Lond. Murray, Bost. Little, 1876-80. 2v. illus. 24^{cm}. £3 13s. 6d. $15. 203

Treats subjects connected with the organization of the church, its officers, legislation, discipline and revenues, social life, worship and ceremonials, church music, vestments, instruments, insignia, ecclesiastical architecture and art and their symbolism, sacred days, seasons, burial places, etc. Omits literature, sects, doctrines, heresies, etc., as such subjects are covered in the companion work Dictionary of Christian biography. Covers period to the age of Charlemagne. Long signed articles; bibliographies. Not abreast of modern scholarship but still useful on many points.

Smith, Sir William, and Wace, Henry. Dictionary of Christian biography, literature, sects, and doctrines. Lond. Murray, Bost. Little, 1877-87. 4v. 24^{cm}. £6 16s. 6d. $24. 203

A companion work to the Dictionary of Christian antiquities.

Aims to supply an adequate account, based upon original authorities, of all persons connected with the church down to the age of Charlemagne about whom anything is known, of the literature connected with them, and of the controversies about doctrine and discipline in which they were engaged. Covers the whole church from the time of the Apostles to the age of Charlemagne but pays special attention to subjects and names in English, Scotch and Irish church history. Signed articles, bibliographies.

For a revised, abridged edition see the following:

Wace, Henry, and Piercy, William C. Dictionary of Christian biography and literature to the end of the sixth century A. D., with an account of the principal sects and heresies. Lond. Murray, Boston, Little, 1911. 1028 p. 24^{cm}. 21s. $8.

203

A revised and abridged ed. of Smith's Dictionary of Christian biography. Adds later references and puts the articles more abreast of modern scholarship but does not supersede Smith, which must still be used for long articles, for minor names and for subjects of the 7th and 8th centuries, as this new edition covers only the first six centuries.

Ayer, Joseph Cullen. Source book for ancient church history, from the Apostolic age to the close of the conciliar period. N. Y. Scribner, 1913. 707 p. 21^{cm}. $3. 270

To the end of 8th century.

A useful reference manual intended primarily for Catholic seminary students but useful in any library which does much reference work on the subject. Gives for each of the fathers (1) a brief biographical sketch, (2) a general statement about his writings, their character, doctrines, etc., and (3) bibliography, indicating complete editions, selections and separate works, translations, and works about.

BIBLE

Cruden, Alexander. Complete concordance to the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament. N. Y. Dodd [Pref. 1737] 856 p. 25^{cm}. $1. 220.2

A dictionary of all the words of the Bible arranged alphabetically, with references to the various places where they are to be found. Compares the several meanings of the same words.

Divided into 3 alphabets: 1. Common words; 2. Proper names; 3. Apocryphal books.

Strong, James. Exhaustive concordance of the Bible. N. Y. Hunt, 1894 [c'90] 1340 + 262 + 205 p. 31^{cm}. 220.2

Methodist book co. $3.

The most complete concordance, giving every word of the text of the common English version and a comparative concordance of the authorized and revised versions, with brief dictionaries of the Hebrew and Greek words of the original, with references to the English words. Forty-seven very common words are cited in the appendix by reference only and are not given in the main concordance.

Young, Robert. Analytical concordance to the Bible, also index lexicons to the Old and New Testaments and a complete list of Scripture proper names. 7th ed. rev. throughout by W. B. Stevenson. Edin. Young, N. Y. Funk [1902] v. p. por. facsim. 30^{cm}. 21s. $5. 220.2

Cheyne, Thomas Kelly, and Black, J. S. Encyclopædia biblica; a critical dictionary of the literary, political, and religious history, the archæology, geography, and natural history of the Bible. N. Y. Macmillan, 1899-1903. 4 v. illus. maps. 27^{cm}. $20. 220.3

Signed articles by specialists, with bibliographies. Prepared with the co-operation of many foreign scholars, primarily for the scholar and professional Bible student. Standpoint is that of the advanced higher criticism.

Reprinted in one volume on India paper, with rectification of some typographical errors, 1914. 25s. $6.

Ewing, W. The Temple dictionary of the Bible; written and edited by Rev. W. Ewing and Rev. J. E. H. Thomson and other scholars and divines. With five hundred illustrations. Lond. Dent, N. Y. Dutton, 1910. 1011 p. illus. maps. 10s. 6d. $4.

In two alphabets: (1) the canonical books, (2) the apocrypha. Written from a strongly conservative, and, in the case of the Old Testament articles, a reactionary point of view. Good illustrations.

"On subjects which do not require critical judgment this dictionary is valuable, but for historical study, based on literary appreciation of the documents, it is misleading."—Nation, 90 : 323.

Hastings, James. Dictionary of the Bible, dealing with its language, literature, and contents, including biblical theology. N. Y. Scribner, 1898-1902. 5 v. illus. maps. 28^{cm}. $24. 220.3

v. 5 is an "extra" or supplementary volume, containing indexes, maps and some articles not alphabetically arranged.

Signed articles, bibliographies. From a less advanced point of view than Cheyne and intended for use by the general reader as well as the professional Bible student.

In comparing the two works by Cheyne and Hastings the Nation says: "The one [Cheyne] is an international undertaking which will be accepted and quoted on the continent of Europe as well as in England and America; the other is adapted for the use of the English-speaking peoples. The one appeals to scholars and specialists; the other more to the body of the Christian church. It will be the boast of some articles in the one that they give the best presentation of their subjects that exists in English; it is true of many articles in the other that they give the best short presentation that exists in any language."—Nation, 70:246.

—Dictionary of the Bible, ed. by James Hastings, D. D., with the co-operation of John A. Selbie, D. D., and with the assistance of John C. Lambert, D. D., and of Shailer Mathews, D. D. N. Y. Scribner, 1909. 992 p. 4 maps (2 double) 26^{cm}. $5. 220.3

Eng. ed., Edin. Clark, 20s.

An excellent one volume dictionary; an independent work, not a condensation of Hastings' larger work.

—Dictionary of Christ and the gospels. N. Y. Scribner, Edin. Clark, 1906-08. 2 v. map. 28^{cm}. $12. 225.3

Complementary to Hastings' Dictionary of the Bible. Purpose is to give an account of (1) everything relating to the person, life, work, and teaching of Christ, whether found in the Gospels or elsewhere, and (2) everything contained in the Gospels. Planned especially for preachers; most of the articles written by men who are or have been preachers. Signed articles; bibliographies.

—Dictionary of the Apostolic church. N. Y. Scribner, Edin. Clark, 1916. v. 1. 28^{cm}. $6. per vol. 225.3

A continuation of his Dictionary of Christ, doing for the rest of the New Testament what the Dictionary of Christ does for the Gospels.

International standard Bible encyclopædia; James Orr, general editor; J. L. Nuelson, E. Y. Mullins, assistant editors. Chic. Howard-Severance co. 1915. 5 v. illus. pl. maps. 27^{cm}. $30. 220.3

Represents the conservative point of view and useful, therefore, for readers for whom Hastings and Cheyne are too advanced.

Jacobus, Melancthon Williams. A standard Bible dictionary, designed as a comprehensive guide to the Scriptures, embracing their languages, literature, history, biography, manners and customs, and their theology, ed. by Melancthon W. Jacobus, Edward E. Nourse and Andrew C. Zenos. N. Y. and Lond., Funk, 1909. 920 p. illus. pl. maps. 27^{cm}. $6. 220.3

Smith, Sir William, and Fuller, J. M. Dictionary of the Bible. 2d ed. rev. and enl. Lond. Murray, Bost. Little, 1893. 3v. illus. 24^{cm}. £4 4s. $22. 220.3

An older standard work, not now in line with the most recent results of modern scholarship but still useful for many purposes.

Vigouroux, F. Dictionnaire de la Bible, contenant tous les noms de personnes, de lieux, de plantes, d'animaux mentionnés dans les Saintes Écritures, les questions théologiques, archéologiques, scientifiques, critiques relatives à l'Ancien et au Nouveau Testament et des notices sur les commentateurs anciens et modernes. Paris, Letouzey, 1907-12. 5 v. illus. 28^{cm}. 190 fr. 220.3

Originally publ. in pts. 1895-1912 (2d impression 1907-12).

The standard Bible dictionary from the French Catholic point of view, containing long signed articles by Catholic scholars, good bibliographies and excellent illustrations. Differs from Hastings' Dictionary of the Bible and the Encyclopædia biblica in several points, notably in the inclusion of separate biographical articles, with bibliographies, on the various commentators on the Bible, ancient and modern, Catholic, Protestant and Jewish.

Not yet completed. Each volume is by a specialist and embodies the results of modern scholarship.

EDITIONS

While the Bible itself is not a reference book in the ordinary sense of the word, at least one copy or edition will be needed in even the small reference collection. The first to be purchased should be a good parallel text edition of the Authorized, or King James version, and the Revised version; a good edition is the Riverside parallel Bible (Bost. Houghton, $5.). To this should be added a copy of the Douay Bible, the authorized Catholic translation from the Latin Vulgate; a good edition is published at Baltimore, by Murphy, $1. A convenient collection of various English translations of the New Testament is: The English Hexapla, exhibiting the six important English translations, Wiclif 1380, Tyndale 1534, Cranmer 1539, Genevan 1557, Anglo-Rhenish 1582, Authorized 1611, and the original Greek text (Lond. Bagster, 42s.).

Larger reference collections will need copies of the Latin Vulgate (good edition Milan, Hoepli, 1914, 12L.), and of the Greek text; good editions of the latter are: Old Testament in Greek, ed. by Henry Barclay Swete (Cambridge Univ. press, 3 v. 22s. 6d.) and the Parallel New Testament Greek and English, with the original Greek as ed. by F. H. A. Scrivener (Cambridge, Univ. press. 9s.)

MISSIONS

Dwight, Henry Otis, Tupper, H. A., and Bliss, E. M. Encyclopedia of missions, descriptive, historical, biographical, statistical. 2d ed. ed. under the auspices of the Bureau of missions. N. Y. Funk, 1904. 851 p. 28^{cm}. $6. 266

The first edition was edited by E. M. Bliss (N. Y. Funk, 1891).

Deals with organized missionary work, the origin, growth, and work of missionary societies, countries in which and races for which missionary work is done and the religious beliefs encountered. Includes in one alphabet articles on special topics within this field, brief biographical sketches of missionaries, excluding those still living, and gazetteer articles on about 5000 mission stations. Articles are not signed; some bibliographies. Appendices contain: (1) Directory of foreign missionary societies, (2) Chronological table of the extension of foreign missions from the time of Carey, (3) List of Bible versions, (4) Missionaries who have made translations or revisions of Holy Scripture, (5) Statistical tables, (6) Roman Catholic foreign missions.

World atlas of Christian missions, containing a directory of missionary societies, a classified summary of statistics, an index of mission stations, and maps showing the location of mission stations throughout the world. Ed. by James S. Dennis, Harlan P. Beach, Charles H. Fahs; maps by John G. Bartholomew. N. Y. Student volunteer movement, 1911. 172 p. 24 double maps. 37^{cm}. $4. 912

Excellent maps. The best of the several mission atlases.

Church of England

Ollard, Sidney Leslie. Dictionary of English church history, ed. by S. L. Ollard, assisted by Gordon Crosse. Lond. Mowbray, Milwaukee, Young churchman co. [1912] 672 p. 2 maps (in pocket) 25^{cm}. 12s. 6d. $5. 283

Scope of this work is strictly that of the English Church, i. e., the provinces of Canterbury and York, and does not include discussion of the church in Ireland, Scotland or America. Good signed articles with brief bibliographies, on history, beliefs, controversies, architecture, decoration, costume, music, etc., of the Church of England. Many biographies but not of men still living. A special feature is the attempt to give a complete list of its bishops under the name of each see. Two maps of the English dioceses are included for the year 1542 and 1912 respectively. High Church point of view.

Roman Catholic

Catholic encyclopedia; an international work of reference on the constitution, doctrine, discipline and history of the Catholic church. N. Y. R. Appleton co. [c1907-14] 16 v. illus., pl. (partly col.) maps. 28^{cm}. $6. per vol. 282

v. 16 pub. by the Encyclopedia Press, Inc.

v. 1-15, A-Z, Errata; v. 16, Additional articles; Index.

"It differs from the general encyclopedia in omitting facts and information which have no relation to the Church. On the other hand, it is not exclusively a church encyclopedia, nor is it limited to the ecclesiastical sciences and the doings of churchmen. It records all that Catholics have done, not only in behalf of charity and morals, but also for the intellectual and artistic development of mankind." Preface.

Authoritative work with long signed articles by specialists, good bibliographies and illustrations. Very useful for many questions on subjects in mediaeval literature, history, philosophy, art, etc., as well as for questions of Catholic doctrines, history, biography. The standard work in English, but for very full information often not so good as the great French Catholic works.

Dictionnaire de théologie catholique, contenant l'exposé des doctrines de la théologie catholique, leurs preuves et leur histoire, commencé sous la direction de A. Vacant et continué sous celle de E. Mangenot. Paris, Letouzey, 1909-14. v. 1-6, fasc. 47. illus. maps. 28^{cm}. 5 fr. per fasc. 282

Signed articles by specialists; bibliographies.

"On one side, it is a true encyclopædia, and speaks, always from a Jewish standpoint, de omni scibili; on another, it is a cyclopædia as the record of a single branch of knowledge—the civilization of a single race. . . . The chief value of this book . . . is to be found in its biographies, its descriptions of the present state of Jews throughout the world, and in its elucidations of Talmudic law. On all these points it gives first-hand information of a kind and to an extent not accessible elsewhere." Nation, 73 : 341-342.

—[Jahrbuch]. 1906-1908. (Dresden, O. V. Böhmert, 1907)-09. 3 v. 24^{cm}.

No more published.

A classified subject list with alphabetical indexes, listing both the book and periodical literature of the various subdivisions of the social and political sciences. The most complete current bibliography of the subject, containing a large amount of valuable material but difficult to use quickly because of lack of cumulations. The Jahrbuch furnished an annual cumulation for three years only.

Cambridge, Mass. Harvard univ. 1910. 265 p. 22^{cm}. (Publications of the dept. of social ethics. no 3) $1.25. 016.3

Useful annotated list.

For ordinary purposes the most useful bibliographies in the field of the social sciences are the various "selected lists" issued by the Library of Congress and revised as needed. These contain references to the best book and periodical literature on their subjects and already cover about seventy different subjects, including such topics as child labor, parcels post, political parties, monetary question, trusts, tariff, etc. For a complete list of these bibliographies see the following:

—Supplementary list. Jan. 1916. Wash. 1915. 6 p.

The New York public library has also published several valuable bibliographies on subjects in social science, including lists on bimetallism, constitutions, criminology, economic and social aspects of war, marriage and divorce, minimum wage, money and banking, political parties, political rights, government control of railroads, etc. These lists, which are printed in the Bulletin of the New York public library and reprinted as separates, are usually longer than the Library of Congress selected lists, and are very useful when full lists are wanted. For briefer lists the bibliographies given in the Debater's handbooks are often serviceable. See under Debates, p. 25.

POLITICAL SCIENCE AND ECONOMICS

Cyclopedia of American government, ed. by Andrew C. McLaughlin and Albert Bushnell Hart. N. Y. Appleton, 1914. 3 v. illus. (incl. maps) 26^{cm}. $22.50. 320.3

Scope is wider than title indicates as many articles are included on general or foreign topics, but the majority of the subjects treated are American. Covers topics in theory or philosophy of political society, forms of political organization, methods and agencies of law and government, international and constitutional law, party organization, federal, state and municipal government, history of political parties and other American political topics. Many biographies, including those of living men. Arrangement is alphabetical by small subjects and there is an analytical index. Signed articles by specialists, bibliographies. Has been criticised for hasty work and minor inaccuracies. See long review by H. B. Learned in American historical review, 20:411-18.

Lalor, John Joseph. Cyclopædia of political science, political economy, and of the political history of the United States. N. Y. Merrill, 1888-90 [c 81-84] 3 v. 25^{cm}. $15. 303

Not up to date but still useful for many subjects, particularly subjects in the earlier political history of the United States.

Palgrave, Sir Robert Harry Inglis. Dictionary of political economy. Lond. and N. Y. Macmillan, 1910. 3 v. 24^{cm}. 63s. $15. 320.3

The standard English work, including some general and foreign aspects of the subject, but largely limited to developments of economic study in England, America and the English colonies. Signed articles by specialists, bibliographies. Useful and authoritative, but unfortunately not recently revised and so not up to date for recent topics and literature.

First published 1894-96. The 1910 edition is a reprint, not a new edition, differing from the original edition only in having an appendix of new material, v. 3, p. 693-803. Libraries having the original edition can obtain the appendix, which is issued separately by the London house at 2s 6d. The first volume of a 1915 edition has been issued which contains the same supplement as the 1910, but differs from that edition by having cross references to the supplement incorporated in the main alphabet.

ten, hrsg. von J. Conrad, L. Elster, W. Lexis, E. Loening. 3. gänzlich umgearb. Aufl. Jena, Fischer, 1909-11. 7 v. 27^{cm}. 175 m. 320.3

The most comprehensive German work, and in some respects the finest encyclopedia of political science in any language. Long signed articles by specialists, bibliographies. Many biographies, excluding those of living men.

Elster, Ludwig. Wörterbuch der volkswirtschaft. 3. völlig umgearb. Aufl. Jena, Fischer, 1911. 2 v. 27^{cm}. 50 m. 320.3

Supplements the preceding work for subjects in economics.

Staatslexikon. 4. Aufl. unveränderter abdruck der 3., neubearb. Aufl. Unter mitwirkung von fachmännern hrsg. im auftrag der Görres-gesellschaft zur pflege der wissenschaft im katholischen Deutschland, von dr. Julius Bachem. Freiburg im Breisgau, St. Louis, Mo. Herder, 1911-12. 5 v. 25^{cm}. 18 m. per vol. 320.3

A standard German work, though not equal to Conrad's Handwörterbuch. Signed articles, bibliographies. From the Catholic standpoint.

The preceding works are all fairly general in scope. The following titles deal especially with the economics and politics of special countries:

Block, Maurice. Dictionnaire de l'administration française. 5. éd. refondue et considérablement augm. sous la direction de Édouard Maguéro. Paris, Berger-Levrault, 1905. 2 v. 25^{cm}. 42.50 fr. 320.944

The Statesman's year book is the most reliable and useful handbook for certain kinds of current information about the governments of the world. For description see p. 70.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

The Cyclopedia of American government, described on p. 66 gives the most up to date treatment of various subjects in this field. The following small handbooks are occasionally useful, especially for minor political parties, terms, etc., not given separate treatment in the larger work.

Brown, Everit, and Strauss, Albert. A dictionary of American politics: comprising accounts of political parties, measures and men, and explanations of the Constitution, divisions and practical workings of the government, together with political phrases, familiar names of persons and places, noteworthy sayings, party platforms, etc. N. Y. Burt, [1907]. 592 p. front. ports. 20^{cm}. $1. 320.973

First published 1888.

Based upon an earlier compilation by the same author entitled "U. S., an index to the United States of America," but does not entirely duplicate it.

For current information about government machinery, committees, work of various bureaus, personnel of the government, etc., consult the Congressional directory noted below under Government officials.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS

U. S. Bureau of the census. Official register of the United States, 1816-1915. Washington, Govt. print. off. 1816-1915. 32^{cm}, biennial. 351.2

Before 1861 pub. by the Dept. of state; 1861-1905 by the Dept. of the interior; 1907-15 by the Bureau of the census.

1907, 1909, 1911, issued in two volumes, respectively: v. 1, Directory; v. 2, Postal service. 1913-, issued in one volume, Directory.

The official register, known also as the Blue book, is the official list of government employees. In two main parts: (1) a classified list, arranged by departments, bureaus, offices, etc., in Washington, giving names of the principal officials and assistants, and (2) a complete alphabetical list of the whole federal service throughout the country including all employees except those in the postal service. This alphabetical list gives, for each person listed, his name, department, bureau, or service, official title, compensation, state, territory or country of birth, congressional district, state and county from which appointed, and place of present employment. Appendices give (1) rates of pay in army, navy, marine corps, coast guard and public health service and (2) legislation relating to the Official register 1816-1913.

Issues of the register before 1913 included the postal service also.

U. S. Congress. Biographical congressional directory, with an outline history of the national Congress, 1774-1911. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1913. 1136 p. 27^{cm}. (61st Cong. 2d sess. Senate doc. 654) 923.27

The above are official lists. Earlier unofficial publications which are occasionally useful are Lanman's Biographical annals of the civil government of the United States, Poore's Political register, which contain also some names of officials not members of Congress.

Mosher, Robert Brent. Executive register of the United States, 1789-1902. Balt. Friedenwald co. 1903. 351 p. 23^{cm}. $2. 923.27

FOREIGN

Almanach de Gotha; annuaire généalogique, diplomatique et statistique. Gotha. 1818-1915.* v. 1-153. 15^{cm}. 8m. per vol. 354

Gives genealogies of the royal and princely houses of Europe and very full lists of executive, legislative, diplomatic, consular and other officials of the different countries and minor political divisions of the world. There is also some statistical information, but this is of less importance, generally, than the full lists of officials.

FRENCH

Almanach national; annuaire officiel de la République française 1724-1914. Paris, Berger-Levrault, 1724-1914.* v. 1-216. 22^{cm}. 16.50 fr. per vol. 354.44

Title varies.

GERMAN

Germany. Reichsamt des innern. Handbuch für das Deutsche Reich, 1876-1913. Reichsamt des innern, Berlin, 1876-1913.* v. 1-38. 21^{cm}. 7.50m. per vol. 354.43

Similar lists of officials are published by other governments. In some cases lists of officials are included in the national statistical annuals. For example of this type of combination list see Handbook of Jamaica.

POLITICAL PARTIES

McKee, Thomas Hudson. National conventions and platforms of all political parties, 1789 to 1905; convention, popular, and electoral vote. Also the political complexion of both houses of Congress at each biennial period. 6th ed., rev. and enl. Baltimore, Md. Friedenwald co. 1906. 418 p. 33 p. incl. tables. 19^{cm}. $1. 329

Political and election statistics, accounts of national conventions, texts of party platforms were also given freely in the Tribune almanac, to 1914. Platforms are also given in the World almanac.

STATISTICS

Reference questions calling for statistics are frequent in any library, and reference books which furnish reliable and up to date statistics are of great importance in any reference collection though their use is greatest in libraries where original research on social, political, economic, or industrial questions is done. Statistical reference books fall into four main classes: (1) general dictionaries or compends (2) almanacs or annuals of miscellaneous statistics and general information (3) census reports or bulletins (4) national year books and statistical annuals limited to the figures of some particular country. Of these four classes the first and second are of easiest and most frequent use for popular questions and are very useful within their own field, but they are usually neither detailed or authoritative enough for important questions. The third class is always official (i. e. prepared by a government), and the fourth class is usually official also, and both are generally reliable for important questions. The fourth class is expensive to keep up if anything like a complete collection is attempted and its principal use is therefore in the library of some size.

DICTIONARIES

ALMANACS AND GENERAL YEARBOOKS

AMERICAN

American Whitaker almanac and encyclopedia for 1915-16. C. W. Whitaker, editor; 9000 indexed facts concerning the trade, production, population, government, and general statistics of every state in the United States, together with comprehensive statistics on every country in the world. N. Y. Doubleday, 1914-15.* v. 1-2. incl. maps, tables. 19^{cm}. $1. per vol. 317.3

American year book; a record of events and progress, 1910-15. N. Y. Appleton, 1911-16.* v. 1-6. 20^{cm}. v. 1-3. $3.50 ea., v. 4-6, $3. ea. 032

v. 1 ed. by S. N. D. North, v. 2-6 by F. G. Wickware, under the general direction of a supervisory board representing some 38 learned societies.

An excellent yearbook, made up of long signed articles by specialists. The articles give good narrative accounts, including bibliographies and statistics, of the events of the year grouped by large subjects. Each volume has also a chronology and a necrology and a general index to all the classes except the chronology and necrology. Each article covers its subjects in all countries, but aims especially to record progress in the United States.

Tribune almanac and political register, 1838-1914. N. Y. 1838-1914. 76 v. 20^{cm}. annual. 25 cts. per vol. 317.3

Title varies: 1838, Whig almanac and politician's register; 1839-41, Politician's register; 1843-55, Whig almanac and United States register; 1856-1914, Tribune almanac and political register.

A reliable and useful almanac for American statistics especially for political statistics, election returns, etc. Includes full texts of party platforms. Discontinued after 1914.

World almanac, 1868-1916. N. Y. The World, 1868-1916.* 20^{cm}. 25 cts. pap.; 50 cts. cloth, per vol. 317.3

The most comprehensive and most frequently useful of the American almanacs of miscellaneous information. Contains a great many statistics on social, industrial, political, financial, religious, educational and other subjects, political organizations, societies, historical lists of famous events, etc. The figures and lists are well up to date and in general reliable; sources for many of the statistics are given, so the information can often be verified for important points. A very useful handbook, and one with which the reference worker should familiarize himself thoroughly. Alphabetical index at the front of each volume. Each issue before 1915 had also a short index of notable articles in preceding volumes, but in the 1915 and 1916 issues this information is incorporated in the regular index.

BRITISH

British almanac and companion, 1828-1914. Lond. [1828]-[1914.] 87 v. illus. 19^{cm}. 2s. 6d.; 1s. pap. per vol. 314.2

Title varies.

From 1828 to 1888 each volume includes the "Companion to the almanac; or, Year-book of general information" (with special title-page and separate paging).

Annual until 1914; discontinued at the outbreak of the European war.

Great Britain. Board of trade. Statistical abstract for the principal and other foreign countries. Lond. Eyre, 1874-1916. 24^{cm}. 2s. 6d. per vol. 310

International Whitaker, a statistical, historical, geographical and commercial hand-book for all nations, 1913-14. Lond. Whitaker, 1912-13.* 18^{cm}. 2s. per vol.

An excellent, inexpensive compendium of general governmental and statistical information about the principal countries of the world.

Discontinued at the outbreak of the European war.

Statesman's year-book, 1864-1916. Lond. and N. Y. Macmillan. 1864-1916.* v. 1-53. 18^{cm}. 10s. 6d. $3.50 per vol.

Edited by J. S. Keltie.

Not an almanac of miscellaneous statistics but a concise and reliable manual of descriptive and statistical information about the governments of the world. Arranged (1) Great Britain (a) the United Kingdom (b) Dominions, colonies, and dependencies; (2) United States; (3) Other countries, arranged alphabetically; (4) Hague tribunal. For each country gives information about its ruler, constitution and government, area, population, religion, instruction, justice and crime, pauperism, state finance, defence, production and industry, agriculture, commerce, navigation, communications, money and credit, money, weights and measures, diplomatic representatives, etc. A valuable feature is the selected bibliography of statistical and other books of reference given for each country.

Whitaker, Joseph. Almanack; 1869-1916. Lond. Whitaker, 1869-1916.* v. 1-48. 18^{cm}. 2s. 6d.; 1s. pap. per vol.

— Abstract of the census, with statistics of population, agriculture, manufactures, and mining for the U. S., the states, and the principal cities. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1913. 569 p. diagrs. 30^{cm}. $1.

"The volumes numbered I—XI, constituting the complete reports of the census, are being issued in a very limited edition, intended chiefly for libraries, institutions and special students of statistics.

"A condensed report, entitled Abstract of the census, has been printed in a much larger edition, intended for more general distribution and prepared in such a way as to meet the needs of most persons. . . It contains in tabular form all important census statistics for the U. S. as a whole and for each state and principal city, together with a brief text explaining their meaning. The Abstract therefore, is a condensation of the complete census reports, both tables and text, and not merely a compilation of tables.

"The Abstract is issued in special editions for each of the several states, each edition containing a supplement giving the detailed statistics for counties, cities, and other civil divisions of the state to which it relates, designed to meet the needs of persons resident in that state or especially interested in it. The supplement contains also both tables and text.

"As a compact reference book . . . the Abstract is more convenient for most persons than the voluminous final reports." Announcement, 13th Census, v. 11.

Each library should secure the Abstract in the special edition for its own state. The supplements of state statistics are also issued separately in pamphlet form. The large library will find it convenient to secure all of these and bind them up alphabetically, thus securing an arrangement of the complete statistics by states, as well as the arrangement by large subjects given in v. 1-11 of the Reports. Supplements omit occupation statistics.

— Statistical atlas of the United States. Prepared under the supervision of Charles S. Sloane, geographer of the census. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1914. 99 p. 503 pl. on 264 l. (maps, diagrs.) 30^{cm}. $2.50.

Contains the maps and diagrams to illustrate the statistical tables of the Thirteenth census, with explanatory text. There are also included a number of illustrations which have been prepared and pub. in the special and annual reports of the Bureau of the census.

STATISTICAL ABSTRACTS AND NATIONAL YEAR BOOKS

U. S. Bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Statistical abstract of the United States. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1879-1915.* v. 1-38. tables. 23^{cm}. 50 cts. per vol. 317.3

LAW

Few general libraries can buy many law reference books, as such books are very expensive and are often so technical in character that they can be used intelligently only by lawyers or law students. State and legislative research libraries and some university libraries will naturally include special law collections but most general libraries should buy only such law books as are needed for the less technical legal topics, referring all other questions to the nearest law library. A few law reference books must however be included in the reference collection of any general library of fair size as they are needed not only for the more general law questions but also for many questions in the field of history and the various social sciences. The minimum equipment for such reference work should include: (1) a good law dictionary; (2) a set of the United States statutes either (a) the "Revised statutes" with supplements, and subsequent volumes of the "Statutes at large" and "Pamphlet laws," or (b) the "Compiled statutes, or (c) "Federal Statutes Annotated"; (3) the latest revision or compilation of the laws of the home state, with subsequent session laws; (4) the charter and ordinances of the home city; (5) the latest compilation of the United States "Treaties in force," and Moore's Digest of international law.

To this minimum the library would add, as public demand and library funds justified, one of the large law encyclopedias and, if the library contains many legal periodicals, the indexes of legal periodicals described on p. 12-13.

—Supplements, 1909, 1912, 1914. Northport, N. Y. Thompson, 1909-14. 4 v. 26^{cm}.

Contents: 1909, Congress 59-60, Congress 61, special session; 1912, Congress 61, sess. 2-3, Congress 62, to Jan. 1, 1912; Congress 62, sess. 2-3, sess. 1-2, to Jan. 1, 1914.

U. S. Laws, statutes. Revised statutes of the United States, passed at the first session of the Forty-third Congress, 1873-74; embracing the statutes of the United States, general and permanent in their nature, in force Dec. 1, 1873. 2d ed. Wash. Govt. print off. 1878. 1394 p. 30^{cm}. $2.90. 345 —Supplement, v. 1-2, 1874-1901. Wash.

Govt. print. off. 1891-1901. 2 v. 30^{cm}. $4.85.

v. 1, 1874-91; v. 2, 1892-1901.

"In 1867 a commission was appointed to revise the laws, by discarding all of merely private interest and all which had become obsolete, and arranging the general and permanent laws under headings by which related subjects were brought together. The Commission reported a revision which was accepted and published, and is known as the Revised statutes of 1875. Soon after its publication it was discovered that the revisers had taken liberties with the text. In consequence, Congress appointed a new Commission to revise the work by striking out the substituted words of the first commission and restoring the original text. When this work was completed it was published as Revised statutes, 2d edition, 1878. This remains the standard. Supplementary revisions were made and published in 1891 and 1901." Supt. of documents. Price list no. 10.

U. S. Laws, statutes. The statutes at large of the United States, concurrent resolutions, recent treaties, conventions and executive proclamations. Bost. Little, Brown, 1845-1873; Wash. Govt. print. off., 1875-1915. v. 1-38. 25-29^{cm}. 345

Price per vol. varies. See Price list no. 10, issued by Superintendent of documents.

Each volume contains the acts and joint resolutions, public and private, permanent and temporary, and the concurrent resolutions, treaties, conventions, and presidential proclamations published during the two-years term of one Congress. Arrangement is chronological by the date of the passage of the act under the divisions, Public acts, Private acts, Treaties, etc.

Each volume of the Statutes at large covers the laws of one Congress, i. e., two years. The "session" or "pamphlet" laws are preliminary compilations, each volume covering one session of a Congress, to be used until superseded by a new volume of the Statutes. For description see Price list No. 10.

A complete set of laws covering no duplicated material would include the Revised statutes, the two Supplements, and Statutes at large, v. 32 to 38. Set, $48.50.

CONSTITUTIONS

Dareste de la Chavanne, François Rodolphe. Les constitutions modernes; recueil des constitutions en vigueur dans les divers états d'Europe, d'Amérique et du monde civilisé; traduites sur les textes et accompagnées de notices historiques et de notes explicatives. 3. éd., rev., cor. et mise au courant des modifications les plus récentes. Paris, Challamel, 1910. 2 v. 23^{cm}. 25 fr. 342

The most comprehensive collection containing many more texts than Dodd. Gives for each country or state (1) Historical notes, (2) Text, in French, of the constitution in force, with explanatory notes; in case of a few minor countries, full text is omitted and a reference given to place where text can be found; (3) Bibliographies.

Subject index in v. 2.

Dodd, Walter Fairleigh. Modern constitutions; a collection of the fundamental laws of twenty-two of the most important countries of the world, with historical and bibliographical notes. Chic. University of Chicago press, 1909. 2 v. 23^{cm}. $5. Lond. Unwin, 21s. 6d. 342

Texts in English of constitutions of 22 important countries, including the U. S. but omitting Great Britain, arranged alphabetically by the name of the country. The constitutions included are those in force at the end of 1906 and wherever possible amendments of 1907 are noted. Some historical notes and a brief selected bibliography accompany each constitution.

International bureau of the American republics. American constitutions; a compilation of the political constitutions of the independent nations of the New world, with short historical notes and various appendixes. By José Ignacio Rodriguez. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1906-07. 2 v. 26^{cm}. 342

v. 1, pt. 1. Federal unions: The United States of America; the United Mexican States; the Argentine nation; the United States of Brazil; the United States of Venezuela; pt. 2, The republics of Central America: Guatemala; Salvador; Nicaragua; Costa Rica; Honduras; Panama.

v. 2, pt. 3, The republics of the Caribbean Sea; The Dominican Republic, the republic of Haiti, the republic of Cuba; Treaty of relations between the United States of America and the republic of Cuba; pt. 4, The republics of South America: Uruguay, Chile, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, Paraguay, Bolivia.

Gives for each country full text of constitution in both Spanish and English, except in case of Brazil where it is given in Portuguese, Spanish and English, and Haiti where it is given in French, Spanish and English. Historical notes and brief bibliographies accompany text. Useful but not well up to date.

For new constitutions and amendments refer to Pan American bulletin which notes adoption of such and usually tells where text can be found.

United States

Thorpe, Francis Newton. The federal and state constitutions, colonial charters, and other organic laws of the states, territories, and colonies now or heretofore forming the United States of America. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1909. 7 v. 24^{cm}. (U. S. 59th Cong. 2d sess. House doc. 357.)

342.73

Arranged: (1) U. S. (2) States, alphabetically. Supersedes the earlier collection by Poore, correcting Poore's more obvious errors and adding the new material since 1876. The work is useful as being the only up-to-date collection, but enough errors and omissions have been pointed out to show that it should be used with caution. For example omits text of the 15th amendment to the constitution of the United States.

Columbia university. Legislative drafting research fund. Index digest of state constitutions, prepared for the New York state constitutional convention commission, by the Legislative drafting research fund of Columbia university. [Albany?] N. Y. state const. convent. commission, 1915. 1546 p. 23^{cm}.

Arranged alphabetically by subjects; under each subject is a digest of provisions from different constitutions which contain provisions on that subject. Digest follows as far as possible the original wording. Covers constitutions and amendments to January 1914.

The text of the constitution of the United States is given in many general reference books, e. g. New international encyclopaedia, Cyclopaedia of American government, World almanac, American Whitaker, etc. and is included also in the House and Senate Manuals and the various state or legislative manuals. A good edition to keep on hand for reference purposes is that in the House manual which is indexed and contains full notes of all ratifications. The Declaration of independence is also given in these same books. State constitutions are given in the various state manuals and these should be used when the latest revisions or amendments are wanted.

For many questions about various labor topics the best information will be found in publications of the national government, especially the bulletins and reports of the United States Bureau of labor statistics, and in bulletins and reports of various state labor bureaus, factory inspection bureaus, etc. For indexes to such bulletins and reports see under Public documents, p. 171. While the publications of the Bureau of labor deal primarily with American subjects they contain also a considerable amount of information about foreign aspects of the subject.

ETHNOLOGY

U. S. Immigration commission, 1907. Dictionary of races or peoples. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1911. 150 p. incl. maps. 23^{cm}. (Reports of the Immigration commission, v. 5) 20 cts. 572

"While this dictionary treats of more than 600 subjects covering all the important and many of the obscure branches of the human family, it is intended primarily as a discussion of the various races and the peoples indigenous to the countries furnishing the present immigration movement to the U. S. or which may become sources of future immigration," Preface.

Popular rather than scientific, but useful because it is the only dictionary of the subject in English and because the foreign dictionaries are not up to date. Short articles; general bibliography p. 8-12, but no bibliographies in the text; maps, good cross-references.

Museum handbooks of ethnographical collections are often useful reference aids both for their reliable descriptive matter and their many excellent illustrations. Important examples of such handbooks are:

British museum. Guide to the antiquities of the stone age in the department of British and mediæval antiquities. 2d ed. London, 1911. 145 p. illus. pl. 22^{cm}. 1s.

AMERICAN INDIANS

Hodge, Frederick Webb. Handbook of American Indians north of Mexico. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1907-10. 2v. illus. 23^{cm}. (U. S. Bureau of American ethnology. Bulletin 30) $3.

"Contains a descriptive list of the stocks, confederacies, tribes, tribal divisions and settlements north of Mexico, accompanied with the various names by which these have been known, together with biographies of Indians of note, sketches of their history, archeology, manners, arts, customs and institutions, and the aboriginal words incorporated in the English language....Accompanying each synonym (the earliest known date always being given) a reference to the authority is noted, and these references form practically a bibliography of the tribe for those who wish to pursue the subject further." Preface.

Other publications of the Bureau of American ethnology contain much valuable reference material on the manners, customs, arts, language, etc. of the native races of North America, and should be used freely for such questions. For catalogs and indexes see under Public documents, p. 171.

NATURAL HISTORY

The Nature library. N. Y. Doubleday, 1905-12. 17v. illus. pl. (some col.) 508

Contents: American animals, by Witmer Stone and W. E. Cram; American food and game fishes, by D. S. Jordan and B. W. Evermann; Bird neighbors, by Neltje Blanchan; Birds that hunt and are hunted, by Neltje Blanchan; Bird homes, by A. R. Dugmore; Book of grasses, by M. E. Francis; The butterfly book, by W. J. Marshall; Nature's garden, by Neltje Blanchan; The reptile book, by R. L. Ditmars; The shell book, by J. E. Rogers; The spider book, by J. H. Comstock; The tree book, by J. E. Rogers.

Useful for a reference department because there is no English encyclopedia of the subject. Good illustrations.

Sold separately, the three bird books $2.50 ea.; the others $4. ea.

BOTANY

Gerth van Wijk, H. L. Dictionary of plant names. Published by the Dutch society of sciences at Haarlem. The Hague, Nijhoff, 1911. v. 1. 1444 p. 29^{cm}. 18 fl. 580.3

Contents: v. 1, Latin names A-Z. Later volumes will contain the English, French, Dutch and German lists.

A dictionary of names and terms only, arranged alphabetically by the Latin names and giving under each Latin name all the equivalent popular and literary names in the English, Dutch, French, and German languages. Aims to include names of all wild and cultivated plants, flowers and fruits, varieties and subvarieties and parts of plants now or formerly used in medicine or industry. The first volume containing the Latin forms is of use principally in a scientific library but the later volumes which will form a dictionary of popular and literary names should be very useful in the larger public libraries. The only work of its kind and very accurate.

ATLAS

Bartholomew, J. G. Atlas of zoögeography. A series of maps illustrating the distribution of over 700 families, genera and species of existing animals, prepared by J. G. Bartholomew, W. Eagle Clarke and Percy H. Grimshaw. Under the patronage of the Royal geographical society. Edin. Bartholomew, 1911. 67 p. 36 double maps. 46^{cm}. 52s. 6d. 912

Forms v. 5 of Bartholomew's physical atlas.

An entirely new work, not based, except plate 36, on any previous work. Includes all families of mammals, birds, reptiles and amphibians together with several of the more important genera and species, most of the families of fishes and a selection of families and genera of molluscs and insects. Text furnishes concise information about the groups whose distribution is shown on the plates. About 200 maps all together, as most of the 36 plates contain 6 maps each. Contains also a bibliography of about 1,000 titles arranged by regions subdivided by animals.

Ein nachschlagewerk des allgemeinen wissens unter besonderer berücksichtigung der landwirtschaft, forstwirtschaft, gärtnerci, der ländlichen industrien und der ländlichen justiz- und verwaltungspraxis. Hrsg. von Konrad zu Putlitz und dr. Lothar Meyer. Stuttgart, Deutsche verlags-anstalt, 1911-14. 6 v. illus., plates (part col.) maps. 26^{cm}. 20 m. per vol. 620.3

A comprehensive work, covering not only agriculture but also many other subjects of importance to the farmer; practically an encyclopedia of rural life.

For extended reference work in agriculture and horticulture the publications of the Department of agriculture at Washington and the reports, bulletins, etc., of the various state experiment stations are of first importance. These may be used through the Experiment station record (see under Special indexes, p. 10), and through the general and special catalogs of public documents described in the section on Public documents, p. 170. In libraries specializing in reference work in agriculture the card index of experiment station publications prepared by the Office of experiment stations is very useful, but this is too expensive for the general library which does not specialize in the subject.

MEDICINE

Medical reference books often present a difficult problem in the general library because (1) they are expensive, (2) they are often so technical that they can be used intelligently only by the physician or medical student, and (3) in a miscellaneous library they are sometimes misused by certain types of readers. It is therefore important to buy only the books which are actually needed, and unless the library is maintaining a special medical reference collection it is usually best not to place such books upon the open shelves. This latter restriction applies especially to the large medical encyclopedias, not to the biographical, bibliographical or historical reference books on this subject.

Reference handbook of the medical sciences, embracing the entire range of scientific and practical medicine and allied science, by various writers. 3d ed. compl. rev. and rewritten, ed. by Thomas Lathrop Stedman. N. Y. Wood, 1913-16. v. 1-6 illus., plates (part col.) diagrs. 28^{cm}. $7. per vol. 610.3

Presents an outline of the material facts,—foundation, organization, officers, activities and publications—about every settlement in the U. S., including non-residential neighborhood centers. Contains: (1) List of 413 American settlements, arranged alphabetically by states; (2) supplementary lists for Hawaii, Canada, England and Scotland; (3) a list of Continental European addresses from which information can be obtained; and (4) a list of discontinued settlements (Amer.). Continues the Bibliography of social settlements, published, up to 1905, by the College settlements association.

The handbooks of the various charity organization societies, such as the New York charities directory, should also be used. Information about denominational charities can often be found in the denominational year books.

EDUCATION

Arranged alphabetically by states. Gives under name of town the name of the club with the president's name and the number of members. The officers of each state federation with their addresses are also given.

COSTUMES

Planché, James Robinson. Cyclopædia of costume; or, Dictionary of dress. Lond. Chatto, 1876. 2 v. illus. pl. sq. 28^{cm}. $20. 391

The above is the only English dictionary of the subject and is useful as far as it goes. For many reference questions, however, the large illustrated works such as Racinet's Le costume historique, or the various books on national costumes, are more useful. A good list of such works is the following:

SCIENCE

In both science and technology, subjects change and develop so rapidly and the importance of having the most up to date information is so great that reference work has to be done largely through the periodicals of the subjects, and the relative importance of encyclopedic reference books is much less than in other subjects. The supply of such reference books, too, is limited. A scientific encyclopedia is out of date for some subjects as soon as it is printed, and needs to be revised so frequently, if it is to be of real service, that publishers hesitate to undertake many such books. In scientific subjects for which there is no reliable encyclopedia, recent treatises, college textbooks, etc., often furnish good substitutes and these as well as the periodical indexes should be used freely.

An authoritative work for scholars and specialists, covering all the natural sciences, botany, zoology, physiology, mineralogy and geology, physics and chemistry. Long signed articles on large subjects, good illustrations, bibliographies, biographies of men not now living. Does not give separate articles on species or other small subjects and does not include definitions of terms or derivations of scientific words. Detailed index of small subjects, v. 10, p. 1043-1402.

MATHEMATICS

Encyclopédie des sciences mathématiques pures et appliquées publiée sous les auspices des Académies des sciences de Göttingue, de Leipzig, de Munich, et de Vienne avec la collaboration de nombreux savants. Édition française rédigée et publiée d'après l'édition allemande sous la direction de Jules Molk. Paris, Gauthier-Villars, 1904-14. v. 1-7. 25^{cm}. incomplete; ea. vol. issued in fascicles, about 5 fr. per fasc. 510.3

Not alphabetically arranged.

The most important encyclopedia of the subject containing long articles by specialists, with full bibliographic notes. For the special student and teacher, not for the untrained reader. Issued in two editions, the French edition noted above, and a German edition begun in 1898 (Lpz. Teubner). The German edition is more nearly completed, but the French edition is better in some ways, some of its sections having been considerably improved and expanded from the German edition. For full description see Miller's Historical introduction to mathematical literature, p. 63-64.

Miller, G. A. Historical introduction to mathematical literature. N. Y. Macmillan, 1916. 302 p. 19^{cm}. $1.60. 510

A useful handbook for the reference librarian, especially chapter 2 which covers mathematical societies, congresses, periodicals, bibliographies, encyclopedias, tables, etc., chapter 8, which gives biographies of prominent deceased mathematicians and the appendix which gives a brief selected bibliography with critical annotations.

A revised and much enlarged edition of the author's Nomenclature of color, 1886, including: (1) a dictionary list of 1115 named colors, and (2) mounted colored samples of 1431 different shades. The best color dictionary, including somewhat fewer colors than the French work by René Oberthur (Paris 1905) but showing more even gradations between colors. Prepared especially for the ornithologist but useful also to botanists, florists, merchants, chemists, dyers, artists, etc. Author is curator of Division of birds, U. S. National Museum.

ETHNOLOGY

U. S. Immigration commission, 1907. Dictionary of races or peoples. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1911. 150 p. incl. maps. 23^{cm}. (Reports of the Immigration commission, v. 5) 20 cts. 572

"While this dictionary treats of more than 600 subjects covering all the important and many of the obscure branches of the human family, it is intended primarily as a discussion of the various races and the peoples indigenous to the countries furnishing the present immigration movement to the U. S. or which may become sources of future immigration." Preface.

Popular rather than scientific, but useful because it is the only dictionary of the subject in English and because the foreign dictionaries are not up to date. Short articles; general bibliography p. 8-12, but no bibliographies in the text; maps, good cross-references.

Museum handbooks of ethnographical collections are often useful reference aids both for their reliable descriptive matter and their many excellent illustrations. Important examples of such handbooks are:

British museum. Guide to the antiquities of the stone age in the department of British and mediaeval antiquities. 2d ed. London, 1911. 145 p. illus. pl. 22^{cm}. 1s.

— Handbook to the ethnographical collections. London, 1910. 304 p. illus. pl. maps. 22^{cm}. 2s. 571

AMERICAN INDIANS

Hodge, Frederick Webb. Handbook of American Indians north of Mexico. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1907-10. 2v. illus. 23^{cm}. (U. S. Bureau of American ethnology. Bulletin 30) $3.

"Contains a descriptive list of the stocks, confederacies, tribes, tribal divisions and settlements north of Mexico, accompanied with the various names by which these have been known, together with biographies of Indians of note, sketches of their history, archeology, manners, arts, customs and institutions, and the aboriginal words incorporated in the English language....Accompanying each synonym (the earliest known date always being given) a reference to the authority is noted, and these references form practically a bibliography of the tribe for those who wish to pursue the subject further." Preface.

Other publications of the Bureau of

NATURAL HISTORY

The Nature library. N. Y. Doubleday, 1905-12. 17v. illus. pl. (some col.) 508

Contents: American animals, by Witmer Stone and W. E. Cram; American food and game fishes, by D. S. Jordan and B. W. Evermann; Bird neighbors, by Neltje Blanchan; Birds that hunt and are hunted, by Neltje Blanchan; Bird homes, by A. R. Dugmore; Book of grasses, by M. E. Francis; The butterfly book, by W. J. Holland; The frog book, by M. C. Dickerson; The insect book, by L. O. Howard; Mosses and lichens, by N. L. Marshall; The moth book, by J. G. Holland; The mushroom book, by N. L. Marshall; Nature's garden, by Neltje Blanchan; The reptile book, by R. L. Ditmars; The shell book, by J. E. Rogers; The spider book, by J. H. Comstock; The tree book, by J. E. Rogers.

Useful for a reference department because there is no English encyclopedia of the subject. Good illustrations.

Sold separately, the three bird books $2.50 ea.; the others $4. ea.

BOTANY

Gerth van Wijk, H. L. Dictionary of plant names. Published by the Dutch society of sciences at Haarlem. The Hague, Nijhoff, 1911. v. 1. 1444 p. 29^{cm}. 18 fl. 580.3

Contents: v. 1, Latin names A-Z. Later volumes will contain the English, French, Dutch and German lists.

A dictionary of names and terms only, arranged alphabetically by the Latin names and giving under each Latin name all the equivalent popular and literary names in the English, Dutch, French, and German languages. Aims to include names of all wild and cultivated plants, flowers and fruits, varieties and subvarieties and parts of plants now or formerly used in medicine or industry. The first volume containing the Latin forms is of use principally in a scientific library but the later volumes which will form a dictionary of popular and literary names should be very useful in the larger public libraries. The only work of its kind and very accurate.

Contents: (1) Manual; (2) Classes, cohorts, orders and chief genera of the flowering plants and ferns alphabetically arranged under their Latin names; (3) Glossarial index of English names, economic products, technical terms, specific names, abbreviations.

TREES

U. S. Forest service. Forest atlas, geographical distribution of North American trees, pt. 1. [Wash.] printed by U. S. Geol. survey, 1913. 36 maps. 75x45^{cm}. 581.91

Pt. 1, Pines, by B. B. Sudworth.

Contains 36 maps showing the distribution of 36 species of pines. The completed atlas will show the distribution of all North American trees now known, exclusive of those occurring wholly in Mexico.

ZOOLOGY

Ziegler, Heinrich Ernst. Zoologisches wörterbuch; erklärung der zoologischen fachausdrücke. Zum gebrauch beim studium zoologischer, anatomischer, entwicklungsgeschichtlicher und naturphilosophischer werke. 2. verm. und verb. aufl. Jena, Fischer, 1912. 737 p. illus. 19 m. 590.3

An excellent dictionary of terms, with good illustrations. Gives concise definitions, in German.

Champlin, John Denison, jr. The young folks' cyclopædia of natural history, with editorial co-operation and an introduction by F. A. Lucas. N. Y. Holt, 1905. 725 p. illus. pl. 21^{cm}. $3. 590

Uniform with the other Champlin "Young folks' cyclopædias." Covers the entire animal kingdom (including extinct animals) in an elementary manner, the articles being put under the popular nomenclature.

BIRDS

Newton, Alfred. Dictionary of birds. Lond. Black, 1893-96. 1088 p. illus. 23^{cm}. cheaper issue 1899, 16s. 598.2

"Covers the whole field of ornithology, including, in addition to the birds named, the anatomy of birds, their classification, their geographical distribution, their geological history, and much matter that is purely biographical." Nation, 57:416.

Swann, H. Kirke. Dictionary of English and folk-names of British birds; with their history, meaning and first usage; and the folk-lore, weather-lore, legends, etc., relating to the more familiar species. Lond. Witherby, 1913. 266 p. 22^{cm}. 10s. 598.2

Bartholomew, J. G. Atlas of zoögeography. A series of maps illustrating the distribution of over 700 families, genera and species of existing animals, prepared by J. G. Bartholomew, W. Eagle Clarke and Percy H. Grimshaw. Under the patronage of the Royal geographical society. Edin. Bartholomew, 1911. 67 p. 36 double maps. 46^{cm}. 52s. 6d. 912

Forms v. 5 of Bartholomew's physical atlas.

An entirely new work, not based, except plate 36, on any previous work. Includes all families of mammals, birds, reptiles and amphibians together with several of the more important genera and species, most of the families of fishes and a selection of families and genera of molluscs and insects. Text furnishes concise information about the groups whose distribution is shown on the plates. About 200 maps all together, as most of the 36 plates contain 6 maps each. Contains also a bibliography of about 1,000 titles arranged by regions subdivided by animals.

An excellent dictionary, much used by translators. As far as it is completed it is the best and most comprehensive work of the kind.

For terms in subjects not yet covered by the above, some of the older works must still be used. Among such works are: Tolhausen's Dictionnaire technologique dans les langues française, anglaise et allemande. 5th ed. (N. Y. Macmillan, 1908. 3 v. $2.75 ea.); Rohrig's Technological dictionary (Wiesbaden, Bergmann, 1891. 3 v. $14.50); Eger's Technological dictionary in the English and German languages (N. Y. Lemcke 1886. 2 v. $9.80); and Webber's Technisches wörterbuch in vier sprachen (Berl. Springer, 1897-99. 4 v. $4.40) which includes also Italian.

AGRICULTURE AND HORTICULTURE

Bailey, Liberty Hyde. Cyclopedia of American agriculture; a popular survey of agricultural conditions, practices, and ideals in the United States and Canada. N. Y. Macmillan, 1908-09. 4 v. illus. pl. maps. 27^{cm}. $5 per vol. 630.3

v. 1, Farms; v. 2, Crops; v. 3, Animals; v. 4,

The farm and the community; Biographies.

Contains signed articles by specialists, with bibliographies. Not alphabetically arranged.

—The standard cyclopedia of horticulture; a discussion, for the amateur, and the professional and commercial grower, of the kinds, characteristics and methods of cultivation of the species of plants grown in the regions of the United States and Canada, for ornament, for fancy, for fruit and for vegetables; with keys to the natural families and genera, descriptions of the horticultural capabilities of the states and provinces and dependent islands, and sketches of eminent horticulturists. N. Y. Macmillan, 1914-17. 6 v. col. front., illus. (incl. maps) pl. (part col.) 27^{cm}. $6 per vol. 630.3

Founded upon his Cyclopedia of American horticulture, 4 v. 1902-04, but so revised and enlarged as to be practically a new work. Aims to cover completely the horticultural floras of the continental United States and Canada and to include the more outstanding species grown in a horticultural way in Porto Rico, Hawaii and the other islands. The last volume includes also supplementary articles, a finding list of binomials, and a general index.

Encyclopædia of agriculture, by the most eminent agricultural authorities ... Edin. and Lond. Green, 1907-09. 4 v. illus. (incl. plans) plates. 26^{cm}. 630.3

Contents: v. 1-3, A-Z; v. 4, Calendar of operations, tables, statutes, general index.

Landlexikon. Ein nachschlagewerk des allgemeinen wissens unter besonderer berücksichtigung der landwirtschaft, forstwirtschaft, gärtnerie, der ländlichen industrien und der ländlichen justiz- und verwaltungspraxis. Hrsg. von Konrad zu Putlitz und dr. Lothar Meyer. Stuttgart, Deutsche verlags-anstalt, 1911-14. 6 v. illus., plates (part col.) maps. 26^{cm}. 20 m. per vol. 620.3

A comprehensive work, covering not only agriculture but also many other subjects of importance to the farmer; practically an encyclopedia of rural life.

For extended reference work in agriculture and horticulture the publications of the Department of agriculture at Washington and the reports, bulletins, etc., of the various state experiment stations are of first importance. These may be used through the Experiment station record (see under Special indexes, p. 10), and through the general and special catalogs of public documents described in the section on Public documents, p. 170. In libraries specializing in reference work in agriculture the card index of experiment station publications prepared by the Office of experiment stations is very useful, but this is too expensive for the general library which does not specialize in the subject.

MEDICINE

Medical reference books often present a difficult problem in the general library because (1) they are expensive, (2) they are often so technical that they can be used intelligently only by the physician or medical student, and (3) in a miscellaneous library they are sometimes misused by certain types of readers. It is therefore important to buy only the books which are actually needed, and unless the library is maintaining a special medical reference collection it is usually best not to place such books upon the open shelves. This latter restriction applies especially to the large medical encyclopedias, not to the biographical, bibliographical or historical reference books on this subject.

Reference handbook of the medical sciences, embracing the entire range of scientific and practical medicine and allied science, by various writers. 3d ed. compl. rev. and rewritten, ed. by Thomas Lathrop Stedman. N. Y. Wood, 1913-16. v. 1-6 illus., plates (part col.) diagrs. 28^{cm}. $7. per vol. 610.3

For scientific; not popular use.

TERMS

Cattell, Henry Ware. Lippincott's new medical dictionary, a vocabulary of the terms used in medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine and the allied sciences, with their pronunciation, etymology and signification, including much collateral information of a descriptive and encyclopedic character. 3d ed. A thoroughly revised edition, of an earlier work in 5 volumes, with the material rearranged in one alphabet instead of the old arrangement of a separate alphabet for each volume.

MECHANIC ARTS

Goodchild, G. F. and Tweney, C. F. Technological and scientific dictionary. Lond. Newnes, Phil. Lippincott, 1906. 875 p. 25^{cm}. $6. 603

An English work which aims to give the modern meaning of technical terms used in the arts and sciences. The articles are brief. "Much space is devoted to chemistry, a fair amount to mechanical and electrical engineering, and relatively little to civil engineering. Music and heraldry are among the main topics. . . . Thoroughly British point of view." Engineering news.

Hopkins, Albert Allis. Scientific American reference book. Ed. of 1913, comp. and ed. by A. A. Hopkins for part 1, Statistical information, and A. R. Bond for part 2, Scientific information, with 1000 illustrations. N. Y. Munn, 1913 [c1912] 597 p. illus. 20^{cm}. $1.50. 600

Dated 1913 but published October 1912. A thorough revision of the edition of 1904. Arranged by chapters with alphabetical index. The index is not absolutely complete. The edition of 1914, published 1913, is printed from the same plates, but with some changes and new material, especially in the record of discoveries and events.

Contents: pt. 1, Statistical information: Population and social statistics, Farms, foods and forests, Mines and quarries, Manufactures, Commerce, Mercantile marine, Railroads, Panama canal, Telegraphs and cables, Wireless telegraphy, Telephone statistics of the world, Post office affairs, Patents, trademarks and copyrights, Armies of the world, Navies of the world, Aviation; pt. 2, Scientific information: Chemistry, Astronomy and time, Meteorology, Machine elements and mechanical movements, Geometrical constructions, Weights and measures.

Towers, John. Dictionary-catalogue of operas and operettas which have been performed on the public stage, comp. by John Towers. Morgantown, W. Va., Acme pub co, [c 1910] 1045 p. 24^{cm}. $7. 782

Contents: pt. 1, Dictionary of operas and operettas; pt. 2, Composers and their operas in alphabetical order; pt. 3, Libretti, with the number of times they have been set to music for the public lyric stage.

A title-a-line list of 28,015 operas, giving for each, the title, composer's name and dates, and whether ever publicly performed. The most comprehensive list in any language, containing more titles than the corresponding French work by Clément, the German work by Riemann, or the Italian list by Dassori, but lacking the descriptive and critical material included by Clément and Riemann. Principally useful for ready reference for ascertaining without delay the name of the composer of any given opera.

ENGLISH AND AMERICAN

Allibone, Samuel Austin. Critical dictionary of English literature and British and American authors, living and deceased, from the earliest accounts to the latter half of the nineteenth century. Containing over forty-three thousand articles (authors), with forty indexes of subjects. Phil. Lippincott, 1870-91. 5 v. 26^{cm}. $17.50. 928.2

v. 1-3, A-Z; v. 4-5, suppl. by J. F. Kirk, A-Z.

A standard work very useful in spite of the fact that it is not entirely accurate and so must often be checked, for important points, by reference to some other authority. Based in part upon Watt's Bibliotheca Britannica (see under Bibliography) and reflects Watt's inaccuracies. Arranged alphabetically by authors, giving for each brief biographical sketch, full list of works with dates, and references to critical comments or reviews.

Moulton, Charles Wells. Library of literary criticism of English and American authors. Buffalo, Moulton pub. co. 1901-05. 8 v. ports. 26^{cm}. $5 per vol. 928.2

Contents: v. 1, 680-1638; v. 2, 1639-1729; v. 3, 1730-1784; v. 4, 1785-1824; v. 5, 1825-1854; v. 6, 1855-1874; v. 7, 1875-1890; v. 8, 1891-1904.

v. 8 has two general indexes (1) authors criticized (2) authors of criticisms.

Primarily a compilation of quoted material not an encyclopedia of original articles. For each author treated gives brief biographical data and then selected quotations from criticisms of his work grouped as (1) personal (2) individual works (3) general. Extracts are of some length and are given with exact reference, so that the work serves both as an encyclopedia of critical comment and an index of literary criticisms. Very useful to the reference librarian, and in general public library work. In school and college work must sometimes be used with care, as instructors often prefer not to have their students use criticisms of any work until after they have read the work itself.

"The design is to afford the reader a general view of the course of American literature from the outset. ...It is made for popular use and enjoyment..." Preface.

Select and characteristic examples from American literature are given without any critical notes, and the work is not confined to masterpieces. The arrangement is chronological, with a general index in the last volume, which is useful in finding selections on special subjects. In the index, poems are indexed by title under Poetry. Short biographies of the authors are given in volume 11, which also contains a list of noted sayings of Americans. Portraits.

Chambers's cyclopædia of English literature. New ed. by David Patrick. Lond. Chambers, Phil. Lippincott, 1901. 3 v. illus. 27^{cm}. $12. 820.3

The first edition was published in 1842-44, a revision was made in 1876, and again in 1888. This new edition is thoroughly revised by well-known writers, and brought up to date, including also English literature in the British dominions beyond the sea and American literature. The arrangement of the work is chronological.

Garnett, Richard, and Gosse, Edmund. English literature; an illustrated record. Lond. Heinemann, N. Y. Macmillan, 1903. 4 v. fronts., illus., plates (part col.) ports., facsim. (part col.) 27^{cm}. £3. $20. 820.9

Gives literary history, biographical and critical sketches of authors, account and criticism of various works of literature, some illustrative extracts and quotations and many illustrations, in both black and white and colors, largely from contemporary prints, illuminations, portraits, etc. The special reference value of the work is in these illustrations.

McCarthy, Justin, and others. Irish literature. Phil. Morris [c 1904] 10 v. pl.

(part col.) maps, facsim. 24^{cm}. Subscription. 820.8

Representative selections from the works of Irish writers ancient and modern in prose and in verse, with brief biographic sketches. Alphabetically arranged. Volume 10 contains Gaelic authors, and a general index.

Ryland, Frederick. Chronological outlines of English literature. Lond. Macmillan, 1890. 351 p. 19^{cm}. 6s. $1.50. 820.2

The author designed this work to occupy "the same position which an ordinary date book does with regard to our political history." It gives in tables the dates of literary works, biographic dates, foreign literature, history and annotations. Part 2 is a list of authors and their works. A very useful outline.

Frequently reprinted but without any extension of the tables beyond the original date 1889. For somewhat similar tables, more to date, see appendix to Century cyclopedia of names, described p. 110.

Wells, John Edwin. Manual of the writings in Middle English, 1050-1400, pub. under the auspices of the Connecticut academy of arts and sciences. New Haven, Yale univ. press, 1916. 941 p. 23^{cm}. $5. 820.2

"This manual makes the first attempt to treat all the extant writings in print, from single lines to the most extensive pieces, composed in English between 1050 and 1400. At times, as with the Romances, the Legends, and the Drama, a desire for greater completeness has led to the inclusion of pieces later than 1400.

"The work is not a history, but a handbook. It seeks to record the generally accepted views of scholars on pertinent matters, and does not pretend to offer new theories or investigations." Preface.

Gives for each piece listed, its probable date, MS or MSS, form and extent, dialect in which first composed, source or sources when known, bibliography, and comment and abstract also in case of the longer works.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

For most purposes the bibliographies given in the Cambridge history of English literature will be found satisfactory. For many questions the English national bibliographies described in the section Bibliography, p. 180-83, will have to be used, especially those dealing with the earlier periods. The following manual is a useful bibliographic handbook for university students or other advanced workers.

ALLUSIONS

The small reference books called handbooks of information, or books of allusions, are constantly needed for minor reference questions about the various biographical, literary, mythological, geographical and other allusions made by writers. They are also needed by readers who are participating in "puzzle" or "prize question" contests. Books of this type usually give only brief information, are not always accurate, and seldom give authorities. They are useful as first aids, but must be checked by other authorities for important questions. No one book covers the whole field so it is well to keep many books of this type at hand.

Title varies.

Weekly since 1849; divided into series, each containing 12 volumes; the present series, the 11th, was begun in 1910. There is an index to each volume and a general index to each series. If it is not convenient to keep the whole set in the reference room the 10 general indexes should be kept there.

Contains a large amount of interesting and often very valuable information on out of the way questions, usually small points in general and local history and literature, bibliography, manners, customs, folklore, local observances, quotations, proverbs, etc. Much of the information is in the form of answers to questions from readers, articles are signed and sources of information are given. Indexes are well made and detailed and should be used constantly as supplements to the handbooks of allusions, quotations, proverbs, etc. A similar publication in French is the following:

Intermédiaire des chercheurs et curieux, correspondance littéraire, historique et artistique, questions et réponses, lettres et documents inédits, communications diverses à l'usage de tous, 1864-1916. Paris, 1864-1916. v. 1-74. illus., plates, ports., facsims. 25^{cm}. 18 fr. per year. 805

ENGLISH AND AMERICAN

Allibone, Samuel Austin. Critical dictionary of English literature and British and American authors, living and deceased, from the earliest accounts to the latter half of the nineteenth century. Containing over forty-three thousand articles (authors), with forty indexes of subjects. Phil. Lippincott, 1870-91. 5 v. 26^{cm}. $17.50. 928.2

v. 1-3, A-Z; v. 4-5, suppl. by J. F. Kirk, A-Z.

A standard work very useful in spite of the fact that it is not entirely accurate and so must often be checked, for important points, by reference to some other authority. Based in part upon Watt's Bibliotheca Britannica (see under Bibliography) and reflects Watt's inaccuracies. Arranged alphabetically by authors, giving for each brief biographical sketch, full list of works with dates, and references to critical comments or reviews.

Moulton, Charles Wells. Library of literary criticism of English and American authors. Buffalo, Moulton pub. co. 1901-05. 8 v. ports. 26^{cm}. $5 per vol. 928.2

Contents: v. 1, 680-1638; v. 2, 1639-1729; v. 3, 1730-1784; v. 4, 1785-1824; v. 5, 1825-1854; v. 6, 1855-1874; v. 7, 1875-1890; v. 8, 1891-1904.

v. 8 has two general indexes (1) authors criticized (2) authors of criticisms.

Primarily a compilation of quoted material not an encyclopedia of original articles. For each author treated gives brief biographical data and then selected quotations from criticisms of his work grouped as (1) personal (2) individual works (3) general. Extracts are of some length and are given with exact reference, so that the work serves both as an encyclopedia of critical comment and an index of literary criticisms. Very useful to the reference librarian, and in general public library work. In school and college work must sometimes be used with care, as instructors often prefer not to have their students use criticisms of any work until after they have read the work itself.

Stedman, Edmund Clarence, and Hutchinson, E. M. Library of American literature. N. Y. Webster, 1891 [1897-90] 11 v. ports. 24^{cm}. $33. 810.8

"The design is to afford the reader a general view of the course of American literature from the outset. ...It is made for popular use and enjoyment..." Preface.

Select and characteristic examples from American literature are given without any critical notes, and the work is not confined to masterpieces. The arrangement is chronological, with a general index in the last volume, which is useful in finding selections on special subjects. In the index, poems are indexed by title under Poetry. Short biographies of the authors are given in volume 11, which also contains a list of noted sayings of Americans. Portraits.

Adams, William Davenport. Dictionary of English literature; a comprehensive guide to English authors and their works. N. Y. Cassell, 1884. 776 p. 20^{cm}. 7s. 6d.

820.3

Includes in one alphabet authors, names, literary subjects, titles of literary works, famous sayings or passages, first lines, pseudonyms, fictitious characters, etc. Concise articles with a few bibliographical notes. Especially useful for its indications of where poems, plays, etc., which are not published separately, can be found.

Cambridge history of English literature, ed. by A. W. Ward and A. R. Waller, Cambridge [Eng.] Univ. press, N. Y. Putnam, 1907-16. v. 1-12. 25^{cm}. 9s. per vol. $2.50 per vol. 820.9

To be completed in 14 vols. and 2 suppl. vols.

Contents: v. 1, Beginnings to Cycles of romance; v. 2, End of the middle ages; v. 3, Renaissance and Reformation; v. 4, From Sir Thomas North to Michael Drayton; v. 5-6, Drama to 1642; v. 7, Cavalier and Puritan; v. 8, Age of Dryden; v. 9, Steele and Addison to Pope and Swift; v. 10, Rise of the novel; Johnson and his circle; v. 11, Period of the French Revolution; v. 12, The 19th century, pt. 1.

The most important general history of the literature; each chapter is by a specialist on that part of the subject and there are extended and very useful bibliographies.

Chambers's cyclopædia of English literature. New ed. by David Patrick. Lond. Chambers, Phil. Lippincott, 1901. 3 v. illus. 27^{cm}. $12. 820.3

The first edition was published in 1842-44, a revision was made in 1876, and again in 1888. This new edition is thoroughly revised by well-known writers, and brought up to date, including also English literature in the British dominions beyond the sea and American literature. The arrangement of the work is chronological.

Garnett, Richard, and Gosse, Edmund. English literature; an illustrated record. Lond. Heinemann, N. Y. Macmillan, 1903. 4 v. fronts., illus., plates (part col.) ports., facsim. (part col.) 27^{cm}. £3. $20. 820.9

Contents: v. 1, From the beginnings to the age of Henry VIII; v. 2, From the age of Henry VIII to the age of Milton; v. 3, From Milton to Johnson; v. 4, From the age of Johnson to the age of Tennyson, by E. Gosse.

Gives literary history, biographical and critical sketches of authors, account and criticism of various works of literature, some illustrative extracts and quotations and many illustrations, in both black and white and colors, largely from contemporary prints, illuminations, portraits, etc. The special reference value of the work is in these illustrations.

McCarthy, Justin, and others. Irish literature. Phil. Morris [c 1904] 10 v. pl.

(part col.) maps, facsim. 24^{cm}. Subscription. 820.8

Representative selections from the works of Irish writers ancient and modern in prose and in verse, with brief biographic sketches. Alphabetically arranged. Volume 10 contains Gaelic authors, and a general index.

Ryland, Frederick. Chronological outlines of English literature. Lond. Macmillan, 1890. 351 p. 19^{cm}. 6s. $1.50. 820.2

The author designed this work to occupy "the same position which an ordinary date book does with regard to our political history." It gives in tables the dates of literary works, biographic dates, foreign literature, history and annotations. Part 2 is a list of authors and their works. A very useful outline.

Frequently reprinted but without any extension of the tables beyond the original date 1889. For somewhat similar tables, more to date, see appendix to Century cyclopedia of names, described p. 110.

Wells, John Edwin. Manual of the writings in Middle English, 1050-1400, pub. under the auspices of the Connecticut academy of arts and sciences. New Haven, Yale univ. press, 1916. 941 p. 23^{cm}. $5. 820.2

"This manual makes the first attempt to treat all the extant writings in print, from single lines to the most extensive pieces, composed in English between 1050 and 1400. At times, as with the Romances, the Legends, and the Drama, a desire for greater completeness has led to the inclusion of pieces later than 1400.

"The work is not a history, but a handbook. It seeks to record the generally accepted views of scholars on pertinent matters, and does not pretend to offer new theories or investigations." Preface.

Gives for each piece listed, its probable date, MS or MSS, form and extent, dialect in which first composed, source or sources when known, bibliography, and comment and abstract also in case of the longer works.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

For most purposes the bibliographies given in the Cambridge history of English literature will be found satisfactory. For many questions the English national bibliographies described in the section Bibliography, p. 180-83, will have to be used, especially those dealing with the earlier periods. The following manual is a useful bibliographic handbook for university students or other advanced workers.

Körting, Gustav. Grundriss der geschichte der englischen literatur von ihren anfangen bis zur gegenwart. 5. verm. und verb. aufl. Münster i. W., Schöningh, 1910.

ALLUSIONS

The small reference books called handbooks of information, or books of allusions, are constantly needed for minor reference questions about the various biographical, literary, mythological, geographical and other allusions made by writers. They are also needed by readers who are participating in "puzzle" or "prize question" contests. Books of this type usually give only brief information, are not always accurate, and seldom give authorities. They are useful as first aids, but must be checked by other authorities for important questions. No one book covers the whole field so it is well to keep many books of this type at hand.

Ackermann, Alfred Seabold Eli. Popular fallacies. Phil. Lippincott, Lond. Cassell, 1908. 312 p. pl. $1.50 803

A new ed. rev. throughout and greatly enl. Lond. Chatto, Phil. Lippincott, 1898. 1501 p. 19^{cm}. 7s. 6d. $3.50. 803

One of the best of these handbooks. Appendices p. 1245-1501 contain (1) List of English authors and their works, (2) Title list of dramas and operas, giving authors and dates.

A cheaper edition, without the appendices, is also published: Chatto, 3s. 6d. Lippincott $2.

Century cyclopedia of names, a pronouncing and etymological dictionary of names in geography, biography, mythology, history, ethnology, art, architecture, fiction, etc. Rev. and enl. N. Y. Century co. [1911] 1085. 156 p. 31^{cm}. $7. 803
Also issued as v. 11 of the Century dictionary.

A useful and reliable reference book for names. Gives brief articles and indicates pronunciation. This edition contains two alphabets, the first of which is reprint of the original list of names in the first edition, with some revisions and changes, especially in statistics, population figures, etc., while the second is a reprint from the supplementary list of 3,000 new names and new matter about older names, which was appended to volume 2 of the 1909 supplement to the Century dictionary. Stars in the main alphabet refer to additional information about the same name in the supplementary alphabet and vice versa. Contains appendices: (1) Chronological table of the chief events of history; (2) List of rulers; (3) Genealogical charts; (4) Chronological outlines of European and American literature.

Title varies.

Weekly since 1849; divided into series, each containing 12 volumes; the present series, the 11th, was begun in 1910. There is an index to each volume and a general index to each series. If it is not convenient to keep the whole set in the reference room the 10 general indexes should be kept there.

Contains a large amount of interesting and often very valuable information on out of the way questions, usually small points in general and local history and literature, bibliography, manners, customs, folklore, local observances, quotations, proverbs, etc. Much of the information is in the form of answers to questions from readers, articles are signed and sources of information are given. Indexes are well made and detailed and should be used constantly as supplements to the handbooks of allusions, quotations, proverbs, etc. A similar publication in French is the following:

Intermédiaire des chercheurs et curieux, correspondance littéraire, historique et artistique, questions et réponses, lettres et documents inédits, communications diverses à l'usage de tous, 1864–1916. Paris, 1864–1916. v. 1–74. illus., plates, ports., facsims. 25^{cm}. 18 fr. per year. 805

ANTHOLOGIES

Anthologies, or compilations of poetical selections, form an important element in any reference collection. Their principal reference use is as aids in finding quickly some one poem, and they are most useful in the case of poems by authors whose collected works are not in the library, or in cases where the reader knows only the title or first line of a poem, and not the author's name. Many anthologies have biographical or bibliographical notes which are often useful. The value of an anthology for reference purposes depends upon the care with which the selection has been made, the number of authors represented, the character of the notes, and the completeness of the indexes which should be such that any poem included can be found if either its author, title, or first line is known. There are so many good anthologies that it is impossible to list all, but the following are among the most useful:

Arber, Edward. British anthologies. Lond. Frowde, 1900-01. 10 v. 19^{cm}. 2s. 6d. per vol. 821.08

Contents: v. 1, Dunbar anthology, 1401-1508; v. 2, Surrey and Wyatt anthology, 1509-47; v. 3, Spenser anthology, 1548-91; v. 4, Shakespeare anthology, 1592-1616; v. 5, Jonson anthology, 1617-37; v. 6, Milton anthology, 1638-74; v. 7, Dryden anthology, 1675-1700; v. 8, Pope anthology, 1701-44; v. 9, Goldsmith anthology, 1745-74; v. 10, Cowper anthology, 1775-1800.

Includes about 2500 entire poems, by about 300 authors. Each volume has an author index, an index of first lines with notes, and a glossary; v. 10 has also a general index of first lines for the 10 volumes.

Braithwaite, William Stanley Beaumont. Book of Elizabethan verse. 2d ed. Bost. Turner, 1907. 823 p. 17^{cm}. $2. 821.08

Forms the first in a series of four volumes to cover British poetry from the publication of Tottel's miscellany, 1557; the other volumes being The book of Restoration verse, The book of Georgian verse, and The book of Victorian verse (not yet published).

Each volume has notes, and indexes of authors, titles and first lines.

— Book of Georgian verse. N. Y. Brentano, 1909. 1313 p. 17^{cm}. $2.50. 821.08

Bronson, Walter Cochrane. English poems; selected and edited with illustrative and explanatory notes and bibliographies. Chic., Univ. of Chicago press, 1907-10. 4 v. 20^{cm}. $1 per vol. 821.08

Contents: v. 1, Old English and Middle English periods, 450-1550; v. 2, Elizabethan age and the Puritan period (1550-1660); v. 3, The restoration and the eighteenth century (1660-1800); v. 4, The nineteenth century.

No general indexes, but each volume has indexes of authors, titles and first lines. Useful bibliographies.

Popular compilations, not without errors and omissions, but useful as bringing together a considerable amount of material on subjects which are often in demand.

RECITATIONS

Granger, Edith. Index to poetry and recitations; being a practical reference manual for the librarian, teacher, bookseller, elocutionist, etc. including over thirty thousand titles. Chic. McClurg, 1904. 970 p. 27^{cm}. $5. 808.8

Indexes 369 volumes, comprising standard and popular collections of poetry, recitations (both prose and verse), orations, drills, dialogs, selections from dramas, etc., by (1) titles; (2) authors; and (3) first lines.

Appendices contain: (1) Suggested lists for Arbor day, Bird day, Christmas, Decoration day, Easter, Flag day, Fourth of July, Halloween, Labor day, Lincoln's birthday, May day, New Year's, Thanksgiving, Washington's birthday; (2) Charades, dialogs, drills, pantomimes, parodies, tableaux; (3) Noted persons about whom poems have been written; Temperance selections.

A new edition is in preparation.

QUOTATIONS

Books of quotations are important in any reference collection for (1) supplying quotable passages from the writings of a given author, (2) suggesting quotations suitable for a given occasion or use, (3) identifying a given quotation. This last is the most frequent and important of the three uses. As every book of quotations is necessarily selective and as each includes something not given in the others, the large library will need all such books which are of any value at all. The small library, however, can get along with a much more limited supply. If it has two, (1) Bartlett, as the best chronological-author list, and (2) Hoyt, as the most useful subject list, it is well equipped for ordinary reference work with English quotations.

The reference value of a book of quotations depends upon three things: (1) the comprehensiveness of the collection and the care and judgment with which the quotations have been chosen; (2) the exactness of reference with which the quotations are given, i. e. reference should be not merely to the author, but to the special work, and its chapter, section, stanza, etc.; and (3) the completeness of the index. As the most frequent use of such books is for the purpose of locating a given quotation, the index should include every word in each quotation listed which a reader is at all likely to remember.

Bartlett, John. Familiar quotations; a collection of passages, phrases, and proverbs traced to their sources in ancient and modern literature. 10th ed., rev. and enl. by Nathan Haskell Dole. Bost. Little, 1914. 1454 p. 22^{cm}. $3. 808.8

A standard collection, comprehensive, well selected. Arranged by authors chronologically, with exact references; very full index. One of the best books of quotations.

The 9th edition 1891 is still usable, but this latest edition is to be preferred as it incorporates quotations from recent authors, since 1891.

CONCORDANCES

Concordances are useful (1) for a study of an author's use of words, (2) as an index (verbal only) to the subject matter of his writings and (3) for locating quotations. For this third use they are an important supplement to the collection of dictionaries of quotations. The most useful concordances are those that are complete i. e. cover not only all of an author's writings but all words used by him, except articles and certain minor words, and all occurrences of each word.

Verbal indexes resemble concordances and may be used for the same purpose but are less easy to use for quick reference because they merely refer to the place where a word occurs and do not quote context. Certain author dictionaries i. e. those which are dictionaries of language not of subject matter, may also be made to serve as concordances. Examples of dictionaries which may be used in this way are the dictionaries included in the French Grands écrivains series.

Information about new concordances projected or finished is given from time to time in the Circulars of the Concordance society.

Based upon the text of the Forman edition, 1880. A full concordance but not complete according to the standard established by Strong.

Spenser

Osgood, Charles Grosvenor. Concordance to the poems of Edmund Spenser. Wash. Carnegie institution, 1915. xiii, 997 p. front. (port.) 29^{cm}. $20. 821

Complete, except in the case of 174 very common words for which only selected references are given; based upon the text of Morris's edition (Globe edition, 1869) corrected by the text of R. E. Neil Dodge's edition (Cambridge edition, 1908) with record of all variants in the Oxford edition, 1909-10.

Tennyson

Baker, Arthur Ernest. Concordance to the poetical and dramatic works of Alfred, lord Tennyson. Lond. Kegan Paul, N. Y. Macmillan, 1914. 1212 p. 23^{cm}. 25s. $7. 821

Complete except for about 250 common words; in four alphabets. Based upon the Macmillan ed. (6 v.) but covers also the poems included in the life of Tennyson by his son, and in the Suppressed poems edited by J. C. Thomson.

Thomas à Kempis

Storr, Rayner. Concordance to the Latin original of the four books known as De imitatione Christi given to the world A. D. 1441 by Thomas à Kempis, comp. with full contextual quotations. Lond. and N. Y. Frowde, 1910. 599 p. 23^{cm}. 10s. 6d. $4.20. 242.1

Vedas

Bloomfield, Maurice. Vedic concordance, being an alphabetic index to every line of every stanza of the published Vedic literature and to the liturgical formulas thereof, that is, an index to the Vedic mantras; together with an account of their variations in the different Vedic books. Cambridge, Mass. Harvard univ. 1906. 1078 p. 32^{cm}. (Harvard Oriental series v. 10.) $6. 891.2

Vergil

univ. press, 1911. 554 p. 25^{cm}. $4. 873.1

A complete word index to the Eclogues, the Georgics and the Aeneid and to the poems usually included in the Appendix Vergiliana. Based upon Ribbeck's text edition of Vergil 1895, but contains also the variants in Ribbeck's critical edition, 1894, and in the editions of Ladewig-Schaper-Dentike, 1902-07, of Conington-Nettlehip-Haverfield 1883-1898, of Thilo 1886, of Benoist, 1876-1880 and of Gossrau 1876, and gives also the readings from the edition of the Appendix Vergiliana by Ellis, 1907, and that of the Culex by Leo 1891.

Wordsworth

Cooper, Lane. Concordance to the poems of William Wordsworth, ed. for the Concordance society by Lane Cooper. Lond. Smith, Elder, N. Y. Dutton, 1911. 1136 p. 28^{cm}. 42s. $12.50. 821

Based upon the text of the Oxford Wordsworth ed. by Hutchinson, 1907. Gives complete list of references for all words used by Wordsworth, except that all references for 52 of the most common words are omitted, following the precedent of Strong's Bible concordance, and a selection is given for 195 other very common words.

AUTHOR DICTIONARIES

There are three main types of author dictionaries: (1) dictionary of an author's language, giving definitions and explanations of his use of words; (2) dictionary of characters, places, allusions, etc.; and (3) dictionary, or index, of the subject matter of an author's work. The reference value of a dictionary of any of these types depends upon (1) the completeness, accuracy and information with which the work has been done, and (2) the exactness of the references, which should be made, in every case, to the particular chapter, stanza, scene, etc., in which a given word, character, or subject, is to be found, not merely to the title of the work.

Balzac

Cerfberr, Anatole, and Christophe, Jules. Répertoire de la Comédie humaine de H. de Balzac. Paris, Lévy, 1887. 563 p. 24^{cm}. 7.50 fr. 843

A dictionary of characters; gives for each character a brief description, indicates its connection with the plot of the story and refers to title of the novel or story in which the character appears; does not refer to chapters.

This work was crowned by the French Academy. Two English translations have been published, as follows:

— Repertory of the Comédie humaine, tr. by J. W. McSpadden. Phil. Avil pub. co. 1902. 522 p. 21^{cm}. (Balzac. Works. Popular libr. ed. v. 36). o. p. 843

— Compendium, H. de Balzac's Comédie humaine, tr. and ed. by J. Rudd. Phil. Gebbie pub. co. 1899. 583 p. o. p. 843

Gillette, Fredericka B. Title index to the works of Honoré de Balzac. Bost. Boston book co. 1909. 24 p. 22^{cm}. (Bulletin of bibliography pamphlets, no. 19) 25 cts. 843

Reprinted from the Bulletin of bibliography, v. 5, nos. 6-8, July, October, 1908, January, 1909.

An index of all the titles to be found in two French editions and four English translations of Balzac's complete works. French and English titles are given in one alphabet and all references to any one story are given under each form of the title.

Another useful title index which indexes more French editions, but no translations, is given at the head of the Balzac entries in the Catalogue général of the Bibliothèque nationale.

Browning

Berdoo, Edward. Browning cyclopædia, 8th ed. Lond. Allen, N. Y. Macmillan, 1916. 577 p. 20^{cm}. 10s. 6d. $3.25. 821

First edition, 1892. The 8th edition has appendix of 5 p.

Cooke, George Willis. Guide-book to the poetic and dramatic works of Robert Browning. Bost. Houghton, 1896 [° 91] 451 p. 20^{cm}. $2. 821

Orr, Alexandra (Leighton). Handbook to the works of Robert Browning. 6th ed., rev. Lond. and N. Y. Bell, 1892. 420 p. 18^{cm}. 6s. $1.60. 821

Burns

Cuthbertson, John. Complete glossary to the poetry and prose of Robert Burns. With upwards of three thousand illustrations from English authors. Paisley and Lond. Gardner, 1886. 464 p. 20^{cm}. 6s. 821

Corneille

Marty-Laveaux, Charles Joseph. Lexique de la langue de Pierre Corneille. Paris, Hachette, 1868. 2 v. 23^{cm}. 15 fr. 842
v. 11-12 of the Grands écrivains edition of Corneille.

Dante

Snell, Frederick John. Handbook to the works of Dante. Lond. Bell, N. Y. Macmillan, 1909. 378 p. 17^{cm}. 6s. $1.50 851

A handbook, not a dictionary; useful for the more popular questions.

Scartazzini, Giovanni Andrea. Enciclopedia Dantesca; dizionario critico e ragionato di quanto concerne la vita e le opere di Dante Alighieri. Milano, Hoepli, 1896-1905. 3 v. 19^{cm}. 37.50 L 851

v. 1-2, A-Z. v. 3, Vocabolario-concordanza delle opere latine e italiane di Dante Alighieri, preceduto dalla biografia di G. A. Scartazzini.

Toynbee, Paget. Dictionary of proper names and notable matters in the works of Dante. Ox. Clarendon press, 1898. 616 p. 25^{cm}. 25s. o. p. 851

— Concise dictionary of proper names and notable matters in the works of Dante. Ox. Clarendon press, 1914. 568 p. fold. geneal. tab. 20^{cm}. 7s. 6d. 851

Based upon his larger work, 1898, but not a mere abridgment, as it includes some names and material not included in the earlier work, omits names in one poem now known not to have been written by Dante and brings other matter in line with more recent information. Conciseness is attained by judicious condensation rather than by omission of anything vital.

Dickens

Fyfe, Thomas Alexander. Who's who in Dickens. A complete Dickens repertory in Dickens' own words. Lond. Hodder, N. Y. Doran [1912] 355 p. 23^{cm}. 6s. $2. 823

Gives for each character included an illustrative quotation and the title of the story in which the character figures. No chapter references, full descriptions or analyses of characters, or synopses of plots. List of characters is selected, not complete.

Philip, Alexander J. Dickens dictionary; the characters and scenes of the novels and miscellaneous works alphabetically arranged. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton, 1909. 408 p. 23^{cm}. 8s. 6d. $3. 823

Contains (1) Synopses of plots, (2) alphabetical list of characters and places, (3) Index of originals. Includes names from all Dickens' works except the Child's history of England. Differs from Pierce's Dickens dictionary in having all names in one alphabetical list, instead of separate lists for each novel; in referring only to the first chapter in which a character appears, not to all chapters; in omitting quotations and in giving no authorities for originals.

Pierce, Gilbert Ashville. Dickens dictionary; with additions by W. A. Wheeler. Bost. Houghton [c 1872, 1900] 573 p. pl. port. 20^{cm}. $2. 823

Arranged by books, not in one alphabet; an older work, but not superseded by more recent works. Gives description of each character, indicates its connection with the plot, gives quotations, and exact chapter references for all chapters in which character appears.

McSpadden, Joseph Walker. Synopses of Dickens's novels. N. Y. Crowell, 1904. 208 p. 15^{cm}. 35 cts. 823
Good outlines of plots.

Hardy

Saxelby, F. Outwin. A Thomas Hardy dictionary; the characters and scenes of the novels and poems alphabetically arranged and described. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton, 1911. lxxviii, 238 p. map. 23^{cm}. 8s. 6d. $3. 823

Contains: Biographical sketch, List of first editions, Bibliography of the novels, Short list of books about Hardy and Wessex, Map of the "Heart of Wessex," List of fictitious place-names followed by real names, Synopses of the novels, and Dictionary of characters and places. The dictionary gives brief account of each character and some illustrative quotations, and refers to all chapters in which the character appears.

Hawthorne

O'Connor, Evangeline M. Analytical index to the works of Nathaniel Hawthorne. Bost. Houghton [c 1882] 294 p. 19^{cm}. $1. 813

Jefferson

Foley, John P. The Jeffersonian cyclopedia; a comprehensive collection of the views of Thomas Jefferson. N. Y. Funk, 1900. 1009 p. il. por. 25^{cm}. $7.50. 818
Arranged by subjects.

Kipling

Macmillan, pub. Kipling index, being a guide to the uniform and pocket editions of Rudyard Kipling's works and the verses by Rudyard Kipling in J. L. Kipling's Beast and Man in India, published by Macmillan and co., to the editions of the author's poems published by Methuen and co., and to the verses in Fletcher and Kipling's History of England, published by the Clarendon press. Lond. Macmillan, 1914. 40p. 20^{cm}. Free on receipt of postage, (in England 1d.). 823

Contents: (1) List of books and contents; (2) Index of stories and poems; (3) Index of first lines. More complete for indexing of first lines than Saxton's Kipling index. Can be used in part with American editions.

Saxton, Eugene F. Kipling index, being a guide to authorized American trade editions of Rudyard Kipling's works. N. Y. Doubleday, 1911. 44 p. Free on receipt of postage, 5 cents. 823

Compiled from the Authorized American trade edition, published by Doubleday, and from the editions of the first and second Jungle books and Captains courageous published by the Century co. A publishers' list but useful for reference purposes because it tells in what books or collections the various short stories, poems, introductory or appended poems, rhymed chapter headings, etc., may be found. Gives contents of collections and also enters each title in the collection in its proper alphabetical place. Verses which have no title are indexed under first lines. Can be used in part with the Outward bound ed.

Young, W. Arthur. Dictionary of the characters and scenes in the stories and poems of Rudyard Kipling, 1886-1911. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton [1911] 231 p. 23^{cm}. 8s. 6d. $3. 823

Contains: Summary of the books (giving synopses of plots), and Dictionary proper, which gives names of the characters and titles of books, stories and poems in one alphabet. Accounts of characters are brief, do not include illustrative quotations and do not refer exactly to all chapters in which characters occur.

La Bruyère

Scott

Husband, M. F. A. Dictionary of the characters in the Waverley novels of Sir Walter Scott. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton, 1910. 304 p. 8s. 6d. $3. 823

Gives the characters and scenes of all the novels in one alphabetical list, but contains no outlines of plots. Differs from Rogers' Waverley dictionary in having the one list instead of a separate list for each novel and in referring only to the title of the story in which a character appears, not to specific chapters. In this latter respect less useful than Rogers, but lists more characters than the latter.

McSpadden, Joseph Walker. Waverley synopses; a guide to the plots and characters of Scott's "Waverley novels," by J. Walker McSpadden. N. Y. Crowell [c 1909] 280 p. 15^{cm}. 35 cts. 823

Arranges the novels in historical sequence and gives for each novel the date of the first edition, time and scene of plot, cast of main characters and synopsis of plot. There is a general index of characters at the end. Useful in the small library which cannot afford the larger works by Rogers and Husband, and in a larger library as a supplement to these two works, neither of which gives plots.

Rogers, May. Waverley dictionary. 2d ed. Chic. Griggs, 1885 [c 78] 357 p. 19^{cm}. o. p. 823

Gives exact chapter references.

Sévigné

Fitzgerald, Edward. Dictionary of Madame de Sévigné, ed. and annotated by Mary Eleanor Fitzgerald Kerrich. Lond. and N. Y. Macmillan, 1914. 2 v. plates. 19^{cm}. 8s. $3. 846

Gives an alphabetical list of all characters mentioned in the "Letters," with brief biography of each, notes and references to the text, and quotations.

Sommer, Jean Édouard. Lexique de la langue de Madame de Sévigné. Paris, Hachette, 1866. 2 v. 23^{cm}. 15 fr. 846

v. 13-14 of the Grands écrivains edition of Madame de Sévigné's works.

Shakespeare

Cunliffe, Richard John. New Shakespearean dictionary. Lond. Glasgow & Bombay, Blackie, 1910. 342 p. 23^{cm}. 9s. Scribner, $2.50. 822.33

Includes all words and senses not now in good usage and for each gives definition, quotation and reference to the text (Globe ed.). Excludes Latin and foreign words, blunders and perversions of illiterate characters and most proper names, but includes some geographic names, especially for London.

Dyce, Alexander. Glossary to the works of William Shakespeare, by the Rev. Alexander Dyce. The references made applicable to any edition of Shakespeare, the explanations revised and new notes added by Harold Littledale. Lond. Sonnenschein, N. Y. Dutton, 1902. 570 p. 22^{cm}. 7s. 6d. $3. 822.33

Foster, John. A Shakespeare word-book, being a glossary of archaic forms and various usages of words employed by Shakespeare. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton, 1908. 735 p. 23^{cm}. 7s. 6d. $3. 822.33

Gollancz, Israel. Pocket lexicon and concordance to the Temple Shakespeare. N. Y. Macmillan, 1909. 273 p. illus. 15^{cm}. 60 cts. 822.33

Lond. Dent, 1s. 6d.

A useful little work for the small library or for the individual.

Luce, Morton. Handbook to the works of William Shakespeare. Lond. Bell, N. Y. Macmillan, 1906. 463 p. 17^{cm}. 6s. $1.75. 822.33

Onions, Charles Talbot. Shakespeare glossary. Ox. Univ. press, 1911. 259 p. 19^{cm}. 2s. 6d. 85 cts. 822.33

An excellent small dictionary, by a man who has been for fifteen years on the staff of the New English dictionary. The aim of the glossary is to supply (1) definitions or illustrations of words or senses now obsolete or surviving only in archaic or provincial use, (2) explanations of other words involving allusions not generally familiar, (3) explanations of proper names carrying with them some connotative significance or offering special interest or difficulty, and of idioms, or colloquial phrases, specialized uses of pronouns and particles and the relation of the poet's vocabulary to the midland area, especially Warwickshire. Includes also obsolete and technical terms which occur only in the stage directions.

Schmidt, Alexander. Shakespeare-lexicon; a complete dictionary of all the English words, phrases, and constructions in the works of the poet. 3d ed. rev. and enl. by Gregor Sarrazin. N. Y. Lemcke, 1902. 2 v. 24^{cm}. $8. 822.33

PLOTS.

— Stories of Shakespeare's English history plays. N. Y. Dodd, 1912. 315 p. 19^{cm}. $1.25. 822.33

Three companion volumes, inferior in literary form to Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare, but useful for reference purposes because they give simple, clear outlines, act by act, of the fourteen comedies, the twelve tragedies and the eight English history plays.

Tennyson

Baker, Arthur Ernest. Tennyson dictionary, the characters and place-names contained in the poetical and dramatic works of the poet alphabetically arranged and described. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton [1916]. 296 p. 23^{cm}. 8s. 6d. $3. 821

Contents: (1) Brief synopses of poems and plays; (2) Dictionary of characters and places, and of names referred to. Dictionary gives brief description of characters, occasional illustrative quotations and a general reference to work in which character or name appears; no specific references to line, stanza, etc.

Luce, Morton. Handbook to the works of Alfred, lord Tennyson. Lond. Bell, N. Y. Macmillan, 1908. 454 p. 17^{cm}. 6s. $1.75. 821

Thackeray

Mudge, Isadore Gilbert, and Sears, Minnie Earl. A Thackeray dictionary; the characters and scenes of the novels and short stories alphabetically arranged. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton, 1910. xlv, 304 p. 23^{cm}. 8s. 6d. $3. 823

Contains: (1) "Synopsis" giving time and scene of the novels and short stories and outlines of the plots, (2) main alphabetical list of historical and fictitious characters and place names, and (3) index of originals. Refers to all chapters in which a character appears, differentiates historical and fictitious names and gives authorities for originals.

Vedas

Macdonell, Arthur Anthony, and Keith, A. B. Vedic index of names and subjects. Lond. Murray, pub. for the govt. of India, 1912. 2 v. 23^{cm}. 24s. 891.2

Wordsworth

Tutin, J. R. Wordsworth dictionary. Hull [Eng.] Tutin, 1891. 216 p. 21^{cm}. 821

Contents: (1) Dictionary of persons with indication of the poems in which they are mentioned; (2) Dictionary of places; (3) Familiar quotations; 4, Chronological list of best poems; 5, Birds, trees and flowers of Wordsworth.

The section of quotations is now superseded by Cooper's Wordsworth concordance but the other sections are still useful.

—Index to the animal and vegetable kingdoms of Wordsworth. Hull, Tutin, 1892. 20 p. 21^{cm}.

A supplement to his Wordsworth dictionary, and usually bound with it.

Zola

Patterson, J. G. Zola dictionary; the characters of the Rougon-Macquart novels of Emile Zola, with a biographical and critical introduction, synopses of the plots, bibliographical note, map, genealogy, etc. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton, 1912. 232 p. map. 23^{cm}. 8s. 6d. $3. 843

Contains note on the French editions and the English translations, short synopses of plots, the dictionary of characters, and an alphabetical list of principal scenes. The dictionary gives brief descriptions of each character but no illustrative quotations, and refers only to the title of the story in which a character appears, not to specific chapters.

FICTION

Reference books on fiction are needed for finding many things e. g. author's name when only title of book is known, lists of novels dealing with special subjects, localities or historical periods, descriptive or critical notes and outlines of plots, the title of the work in which a certain fictitious character appears, the collection or other work in which a story not published separately may be found, etc. The following books will help on most of these points, but the handbooks of allusions and the various author dictionaries must also be used. Printed library catalogs which contain many title and analytic entries are useful, and the indexes of periodicals must often be used for stories and novels printed in periodicals.

Baker, Ernest Albert. Guide to the best fiction in English. New ed. enl. and thoroughly rev. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Macmillan, 1913. 813 p. 24^{cm}. 21s. $6. 016.8

A thorough revision of the first edition, 1903, differing from the first edition by the addition of much new material, the combination of the English, Irish,

Scotch and colonial lists under one heading, the extension of the foreign lists, the omission of the historical appendix and the combination of the indexes. There are separate national lists for English, American, Belgian (including Dutch and Flemish), Celtic, French, German, Greek (ancient and modern), Hungarian, Latin, Scandinavian, Slavonic, Spanish, Yiddish, and non-European fiction. Each important list is divided into periods and the authors of each period listed alphabetically. The foreign books included are in English translations, whenever possible. Good annotations, and an excellent index of authors, titles, subjects, historical names, allusions, places, characters, etc.

—'Guide to historical fiction. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Macmillan, 1914. 566 p. 23^{cm}. 21s. $6. 016.8

Practically a new work, although based upon the author's History in fiction, 1907. Lists about 5,000 novels which in any way portray the life of the past, including mediaeval romances and novels of manners, as well as avowedly historical novels. Arrangement is first by country and then chronologically by the historical period illustrated and descriptive notes indicate briefly the plot and scene of each story, its historical characters, etc. Full index (148p.) of authors, titles, historical names, places, events, allusions, etc. Best and most comprehensive list yet published.

Bethléem, Louis, abbé, Romans à lire et romans à proscrire. Essai de classification au point de vue moral des principaux romans et romanciers de notre époque, 1800-1911, avec notes et indications pratiques. 5. éd. Sin-le-Noble, Romans-revue, 1911. 414 p. 19^{cm}. 3.50 fr. 016.8

First edition, 1905. An interesting selection of the principal works of about 1,200 authors, mostly French but including the best known names of other nationalities, with brief comment on subject and tone of each novel, and an indication as to whether it is allowed or proscribed, and why. Contains six alphabetical lists: (1) books forbidden because on the Index; (2) books forbidden on moral grounds; (3) books for mature readers; (4) safe novels; (5) stories for younger readers; (6) juveniles. From the French Catholic point of view, but not limited to Catholic authors. Not of frequent use in the average American public library, but occasionally useful for the point of view and for the comments on the subjects and tone of the French authors included.

6th edition, including titles to 1914. Lille. "Romans-Revue," 1914. 3.50 fr.

Brown, Stephen James. Ireland in fiction; a guide to Irish novels, tales, romances and folk-lore. Dublin, Maunsel, 1916. 304 p. 22^{cm}. 7s. 6d. 016.8

"Includes all works of fiction published in volume form, and dealing with Ireland or with the Irish abroad, and such works only." Preface.

An author list with descriptive annotations. Appendices are: Some useful works of reference; Publishers and series; Irish fiction in periodicals; Classified lists: Historical fiction, Gaelic epic and romantic literature, Folk-lore and legend, Fairy tales for children, Catholic clerical life, Humorous books, Index of titles and subjects. Practically supersedes his Readers' guide to Irish fiction, 1910.

Buckley, J. A. and Williams, W. T. Guide to British historical fiction. Lond. Harrap, 1912. 182 p. 2s. 6d. 016.823

A selected list of novels arranged chronologically by the historical period, with author and subject indexes. Compilers are English teachers, and list was prepared to serve teachers in secondary and elementary schools. Less useful for general library purposes than Baker's Guide to historical fiction.

Dixon, Mrs. Zella Allen. Comprehensive subject index to universal prose fiction. N. Y. Dodd, 1897. 421 p. 19^{cm}. $2. 016.823

Subjects are arranged alphabetically. Full of inaccuracies, but occasionally useful.

Esdaile, Arundell. List of English tales and prose romances printed before 1740. Lond. Bibliog. soc. 1912. 329 p. 32^{cm}. 10s. 6d. 016.823

Sold only to members of the society.

Pt. 1, 1475-1642; pt. 2, 1643-1739. Each part is arranged alphabetically by author and title with plentiful cross references. Gives full titles and imprint, list of editions, libraries in which the copies included were seen, and bibliographies in which the work is described. Scope of list includes both English tales and English translations of foreign works. Notes are bibliographical, not critical. Of value to the specialist, the bibliographer and the cataloger.

Griswold, William Maccrillis. Descriptive lists of novels. Camb. [Mass.] Griswold, 1891. 617 p. 22^{cm}. o. p. 016.823

Includes in separate parts: American, International, Romantic, and British novels, with an index to authors of works described. The compiler's object was "to direct the reader to good novels usually considered out of date and not read as often as the newer." Each part is arranged alphabetically under the titles, with a criticism of each novel quoted from some well-known literary review.

Nield, Jonathan. Guide to the best historical novels and tales. 4th ed. Lond. Mathews, N. Y. Putnam, 1911. 519 p. 20^{cm}. 8s. $2.25. 016.823

Contains: Chronological lists for pre-Christian era and 1st-19th centuries; Supplementary list of notable novels (semi-historical); 50 representative historical novels; English history since the Conquest (Juvenile); Bibliography of books and articles about historical fiction; Author index and title index; Supplement (4th edition), arranged like main part, p. 239-434; Indexes, author and title, to supplement.

A comprehensive list including nearly 3,000 titles of which about 1,700 are not included in earlier editions. Additions include both new works and older novels omitted from the preceding editions.

Wegelin, Oscar. Early American fiction 1774-1830, a compilation of the titles of works of fiction written by writers born or residing in North America and printed previous to 1831. Rev. and enl. ed. N. Y. Wegelin, 1913. 37 p. 25^{cm}. $3. 016.813

Contains three lists: (1) Anonymous titles, (2) Author list, (3) Index to anonymous titles. Omits juveniles and narratives only partly fictitious. Differs from first edition (1902) by correction of some errors, addition of about 80 titles, extension of bibliographical notes and omission of the bibliographical notes.

SHORT STORIES

Firkins, Ina Ten Eyck. Index to short stories. White Plains, N. Y., Wilson, 1915. 374 p. 26^{cm}. $6. 016.8

An index of authors and titles in one alphabet with full information under author and cross references from title. Indexes the short stories of 472 writers and indicates where these may be found in collected works, separate volumes, periodicals, or composite collections. All material indexed is in English, but of the 472 authors included, 120 are foreign writers whose works are accessible in English translations. The cross references from title to author serve to answer questions of authorship also.

Eastman, Mary Huse. Index to fairy tales, myths and legends. Bost. Boston book co. 1915. 311 p. 22^{cm}. (Useful reference series, no. 15.) $2.25. 016.398

A title index, with entry under best known title and cross references from variant titles, to the fairy tales and legends included in a large number of collections; stories suitable for very young readers are starred. Principally useful in public libraries and as a help to the children's librarian, but of some value also to the special student of folk lore and popular tales.

ROMANCES AND EPICS

British museum. Catalogue of romances in the Department of manuscripts in the British museum. Lond. Pr. by order of the trustees, 1883-1910. v. 1-3. 26^{cm}. v. 1-2, o. p. v. 3, 10s. 016.8

v. 1-2, by H. L. D. Ward; v. 3, by J. A. Herbert.

"In the present catalogue it is proposed to give a precise account of the MS. sources of Romance in the British Museum. Its scope is not limited to a description of those works which by their connection with the various cycles or by their own construction can claim the title of Romances, but it also embraces a larger class of literature which more or less directly has to do with the subject. . . .

"Taking into account also the bibliographical and literary information with which the descriptions are accompanied, and the critical analysis to which the different texts have been submitted, it is hoped that the Catalogue may serve not only as a guide to the Museum collection, but also, to some extent, as a handbook to the subject." Preface.

The most important reference book in English on the subject. For each romance it gives, in addition to the description of the manuscript in the British Museum, some account of the tale, its outlines, different versions, other manuscripts, authorship, history, etc., and important bibliographic references both to printed texts and to critical comment.

To be completed in four volumes; the fourth will contain additional romances and a general index.

Spence, Lewis. Dictionary of mediaeval romance and romance writers. Lond. Routledge, N. Y. Dutton [1913] 395 p. 23^{cm}. 8s. 6d. $3. 803

A list, in one alphabet, of the titles and characters of the principal British, Celtic, French, Italian, Scandinavian, Spanish and Teutonic romances of the period from the eleventh to the fourteenth century, giving under title a fairly detailed synopsis of the story of the romance with some bibliographic references but no full list of editions, and under name of character a brief description of the character and the title of the romance in which it occurs.

Langlois, Ernest. Table des noms propres de toute nature compris dans les chansons de geste imprimées. Paris, Bouillon, 1904. 674 p. 25^{cm}. 25 fr. 803

Gautier, Léon. Les épopées françaises. Étude sur les origines et l'histoire de la littérature nationale. 2. éd., entièrement refondue. Paris, 1878-97. 5 v. 24^{cm}. 20 fr. per vol. 841.03

Guerber, Hélène Adeline. Book of the epic; the world's great epics told in story. Phil. Lippincott, 1913. 493 p. pl. $2. 808.8

Gives synopses of the stories of the great Dutch, English, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Italian, Latin Portuguese, Scandinavian, and Spanish epics.

DRAMA

Reference books on the drama are needed for finding (1) biographies of dramatists or actors; (2) the author's name when only the title of a play is known; (3) outline of the plot, list of characters, date and place of production, etc., of a given play; (4) information as to where text of plays not separately published may be found; (5) dramatic criticisms, etc.

In addition to the special reference books noted below, certain sections in some of the more general reference books are useful. The subject-index volumes of Lorenz, Catalogue général (see under Bibliography, p. 184) give, under the heading Théâtre-Pièces isolées, title lists of all French plays separately published since 1840. The index volumes of Kayser's Bücher-lexikon give similar lists of German plays under the heading Theaterstücke; earlier German lists are given as supplements, under the heading Schauspiele, in each volume of Heinsius' Bücher-lexikon, 1700-1827. These lists answer questions both of authorship and of publication. Printed library catalogs which contain many title and analytic entries are useful. The catalogue of the Milwaukee public library enters plays under title as well as author and indexes many sets and collections. The Library of the Peabody institute in both its first and second catalogs gives under the heading Drama an author and also a title list of single plays with references to collections in which they may be found.

Clarence, Reginald. "The Stage" cyclopædia; a bibliography of plays. An alphabetical list of plays and other stage pieces of which any record can be found since the commencement of the English stage, together with descriptions, authors' names, dates and places of production, and other useful information comprising in all nearly 50,000 plays and extending over a period of upwards of 500 years. Lond. "The Stage," 1909. 503 p. 22^{cm}. 10s. 6d. 808.2

A title list with some subject entries (e. g. Greek plays, French plays, etc.) aiming to be complete for English drama and selective for the better known foreign plays.

"The object of the present work has been to complete an alphabetical list of plays, operas, oratorios, sketches and other stage pieces of which any record can be found since the commencement of the English stage, giving authors' names, dates of production, and recording important revivals."—Preface.

Clark, Barrett Harper. Continental drama of today; outlines for its study, suggestions, questions, biographies, and bibliographies for use in connection with the study of the more important plays. N. Y. Holt, 1914. 252 p. 19^{cm}. $1.35. 808.2

— British and American drama of today; outlines for their study; suggestions, questions, biographies, and bibliographies for use in connection with the study of the more important plays. N. Y. Holt, 1915. 315 p. 19^{cm}. $1.60. 808.2

Two companion volumes which between them cover selected portions of the whole field of modern drama. For each dramatist included, these books give (1) some general biographical and critical material, (2) a list of his plays, with dates of publication and production, (3) selected bibliography, (4) outlines of selected plays, with comments and suggestions for study. Special reference value of both books is for the lists of performances, which, while not complete, bring together a good deal of information which is often difficult to find.

Brief selected bibliography.

CLASSICS

The various classical dictionaries described under History, p. 161, are important reference books for many questions about topics and names in Greek and Latin literature. Sandys' Companion to Latin studies, and Whibley's Companion to Greek studies should also be used. For description of both of these see under History, p. 162. The following bibliographies are important:

BIBLIOGRAPHY

v. 1, Greek; v. 2, Latin.

The standard bibliography, very useful for information about editions of both collected works and separate works, translations, and works about. Of first importance in the large reference or college library but not needed in the small public library. Continued for material since 1878 by the following:

Sold only to members of the society.

A list of the translations to be found in the British museum, Bodleian and Cambridge university libraries, arranged alphabetically by authors, with references to descriptions in Copinger, Lowndes and other catalogs. Some titles not located in any library are included. Of value to the student of classical literature and of English literature of the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries.

BIOGRAPHY

Dictionaries of biography are among the most important and most used reference books in any collection, and even a small library will need several books of this class. There are three main types of biographical dictionaries: (1) general, (2) national or regional, (3) special classes, e. g. artists, musicians, etc. Each of these classes may, in turn, be divided as (1) general or retrospective, i. e. not limited to any period, and (2) contemporary.

In examining biographical dictionaries, test them for the points enumerated in the general instructions for examining reference books (see Introduction p. xii), and in addition note carefully whether there is any evidence of what is called the "commercial" character about the book. Unscrupulous publishers will sometimes include padded or unduly eulogistic articles on comparatively unknown persons, with the expectation, or on condition, that persons thus written up will subscribe for the book. The inclusion of such articles puts the book in the "commercial" class and casts doubt upon the authority of all articles. Such books are not necessarily to be rejected if they happen to be the only ones in their particular field, but they must always be used with caution, and they have no critical value.

GENERAL

Thomas, Joseph. Universal pronouncing dictionary of biography and mythology. 4th ed. rev. Phil. Lippincott, 1915. [c 1870-1915] 2550 p. 27^{cm}. $10. 920.01

The most frequently useful of the general biographical dictionaries in English. Comprehensive, includes men and women of all nations and periods, including many still living; names from the Greek, Roman, Teutonic, Sanskrit and other mythologies are also included. Articles in general are brief, though there are some long articles, pronunciation is marked and there is some bibliography, though this feature is not important. Appendices: (1) Vocabulary of Christian (or first) names, with pronunciation, and equivalents in the principal foreign languages; (2) Disputed or doubtful pronunciations.

The 4th edition though revised so as to include considerable new material is not reset but is printed from the plates of the 3d edition (1901) with alterations in some of the older articles to bring them to date, omission of some minor articles, and inclusion of new names.

A dictionary of the "title a line" type; gives brief information, i. e. only full name, characterizing phrase and dates of birth and death. Includes no names of personages still living.

Morris, Charles. Handy dictionary of biography. Phil. Coates, 1901. 607 p. $2. 920.01

Garollo, Gottardo. Dizionario biografico universale. Milano, Hoepli, 1907. 2 v. 16^{cm}. 18 L. 920.01

Gives only brief information but useful because it includes a larger proportion of Italian names than other general biographical dictionaries.

Hoefer, Ferdinand. Nouvelle biographie universelle. Paris, Didot, 1852-66. 46 v. 23^{cm}. o. p. 920.01

Second-hand, about $30.

Michaud, Joseph François, and Michaud, L. G. Biographie universelle, ancienne et moderne. Paris. Desplaces, 1842-65. 45 v. 27^{cm}. o. p. 920.01

Second-hand, about $45.

An older work, but still important as the most extended of the general biographical dictionaries. Covers much the same ground as Hoefer, noted above. For account of the relation between the two works, the law suit involved and the points of similarity and difference see Quarterly review, 157:204-26.

Oettinger, Eduard Marie. Moniteur des dates; biographisch - genealogisch - historisches welt-register enthaltend die personal akten der menschheit von mehr als 100,000 geschichtlichen personen aller zeiten und nationen. Lpz. Denicke, 1869-73. 6 v. in 1. 32^{cm}. o. p. 920.01

Articles are brief, but work is very comprehensive and includes some names not easily findable elsewhere.

— Moniteur des dates, contenant un million de renseignements biographiques, généalogiques et historiques. Supplément, commencé par Édouard-Marie Oettinger, considérablement augmenté et continué jusqu'à nos jours, rédigé et édité par dr. Hugo Schramm. Lpz. Hermann, 1873-82. 3 v. in 1. 32^{cm}. o. p. 920.01

A supplement to the above, volumed as v. 7-9 of whole work and v. 1-3 of supplement.

INDEXES

Chevalier, Ulysse. Répertoire des sources historiques du moyen âge: bibliographique. Nouv. éd. refondue, corr. et augm. Paris, Picard, 1905-07. 2 v. 28^{cm}. 90 fr. 016.92

Arranged alphabetically, giving under each name (1) brief biographical data, i. e. characterizing phrase and dates of birth and death, and (2) references to books, periodicals, society transactions, etc., where some account of the personage may be found. The most complete and important work in this field, very useful for out of the way names, or for complete lists of references on more familiar names; less useful for quick reference work on more familiar names, because too much material is given for the ordinary reader. For the large and university library.

Phillips, Lawrence Barnett. Dictionary of biographical reference. New ed. enl. by Frank Weitenkampf. Phil. Gebbie, 1889. 1038 p. 25^{cm}. $5. 016.92

Not a biographical dictionary, but an index to biographical reference books. Arranged alphabetically, giving under each name brief characterizing phrase, dates of birth and death and reference to biographical dictionaries, etc., in which fuller accounts are to be found. Indexes 40 works of reference.

NATIONAL AMERICAN

There is, unfortunately, no American dictionary of national biography of the first rank. The nearest approach is Appleton's Cyclopædia of American biography, but this, though a reliable and serviceable work as far as it went, was never from the point of view of either authority and length of articles or amount of bibliography, in the same class as the English Dictionary of national biography.

Appleton's cyclopædia of American biography; ed. by J. G. Wilson and John Fiske. N. Y. Appleton, 1888-1900. 7 v. illus. ports. 28^{cm}. $36. 920.07

Contents: v. 1-6, A-Z, suppl. A-Z, analytical index; v. 7, suppl. A-Z; Pen-names, nicknames, surnames; List of deaths in v. 1-6; Signers of the Declaration of Independence. Presidents of the Continental congress, Presidents, vice-presidents, unsuccessful candidates for those offices, cabinets, 1789-1897; analytical index to v. 7.

"Includes names of native and adopted citizens of the U. S., including living persons, from the earliest settlement. Also eminent citizens of Canada, Mexico, and all other countries of North and South America. Also names of men of foreign birth who are closely identified with American history." Preface.

On the whole, the best of the general American biographical dictionaries. Contains generally accurate and fairly long articles, little bibliography, many portraits, principally small but clear cuts in the text, and many facsimiles of autographs. A peculiarity of arrangement to be remembered is that under each family name arrangement is not alphabetical, but by seniority in the family. The analytical index is useful for subjects and for names not treated separately.

National cyclopædia of American biography. N. Y. White, 1892-1916. v. 1-15 in 16. illus. ports. 27^{cm}. $10 per vol.

Articles are not of a very high order but the entire work includes a great many names and is therefore useful, especially for names not given in Appleton. Includes living personages. Not arranged alphabetically, so must be used through the index; v. 14-15 are supplementary volumes published 1910 and 1914-16; not indexed in the Conspectus noted below.

Issued in several editions, or printings, which vary somewhat, later issues showing some additions and rearrangements. Numbering of volumes is somewhat irregular, i. e. in some sets 14 is suppl. v. 1, and in others v. 14, and two different volumes numbered as v. 15 have been issued, one in 1914 and the other 1916. The first v. 15 is not found in all sets.

— A conspectus of American biography; being an analytical summary of American history and biography, containing also the complete indexes of the National cyclopædia of American biography; comp. by George Derby. N. Y. White, 1906. 752 p. 27^{cm}. $10.

920.073

Contains both a personal and a topical index to v. 1-13 of the above, and in addition the following chronological lists: Delegates to the colonial congresses, Presidents and vice-presidents, Cabinets, Candidates for presidency, Senators, Congressmen, Ambassadors, Heads of government departments, Judiciary, Presidents of religious organizations, College presidents, Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church, Roman Catholic hierarchy, Bishops of other denominations, Presidents of scientific societies, Directors of astronomical observatories, Commanders of army and navy in war, of G. A. R., U. S. Commissioners, Founders of religious sects. Public statues in the U. S. Pseudonyms and sobriquets, Notable sayings, etc.

The personal index is not absolutely complete and accurate, and must sometimes be supplemented by indexes in the separate volumes.

Lamb's biographical dictionary of the United States; ed. by J. H. Brown. Bost. Federal book co. 1900-03 [c 1897-1903] 7 v. il. port. 27^{cm}. $7 per vol. 920.073

Volume 1 was issued in 1897, with title Cyclopedia of American biographies. The later edition was revised but not sufficiently to make it necessary to have both. Published also as The twentieth century biographical dictionary of notable Americans; ed. by Rossiter Johnson (Bost. Biographical society, 1904, 10 v. $40) with some corrections.

Alphabetically arranged. Includes some of the recent and minor names not given in Appleton.

CONTEMPORARY

Who's who in America, a biographical dictionary of notable living men and women of the United States, v. 9, 1916-17. Chic. Marquis, 1916. 2900 p. 20^{cm}. $5. 920.073

Issued biennially; first ed. 1899.

An excellent dictionary of contemporary biography containing concise biographical data, with addresses and, in case of authors, lists of works. Additional sections are, (1) Lists of pronunciation of difficult names; (2) Educational statistics; (3) Geographical index. The present volume contains 21,922 biographies with cross references to names omitted there but included in v. 7-8; v. 7 has similar cross references to names in v. 1-6. The total of different names given in the set and easily accessible, either from the latest volume or through these cross references, is 33,724.

— Second supplement, index and epitome, ed. by Sir Sidney Lee. Lond. Smith, Elder, N. Y. Macmillan, 1913. 129 p. 24^{cm}. 3s. 6d. $1.25.

The most important reference work for English biography, containing signed articles by specialists, and excellent bibliographies. Articles are adequate,

i. e. important names treated at great length, minor names more briefly, and are generally reliable and scholarly. Scope includes all noteworthy inhabitants of the British Isles and the Colonies, exclusive of living persons; includes noteworthy Americans of the colonial period. The first supplement includes biographies of those omitted from the main part and of those who died before Jan. 22, 1901; the second supplement carries the record to December 31, 1911; the entire work includes 30,935 biographies. The index and epitome serves a double purpose i. e. it is both an index to the main work and the first supplement, and also an independent biographical dictionary, as it gives abstracts, each about one-fourteenth of the length of the original article.

The main work and first supplement are published in two editions, the original edition in 66 volumes, and a re-issue, 1908, on slightly thinner paper, compressed into 22 volumes. This reprint incorporates in the articles the corrections noted in the volume of Errata and is, to that extent, to be preferred to the original edition. Libraries buying the work now are recommended to purchase the reprint, but libraries having the original edition and the volume of Errata do not need the reprint. Price of re-issue, Smith, Elder & co. 15s. per vol., Macmillan $4.25 per vol.

Boase, Frederick. Modern English biography, containing many thousand concise memoirs of persons who have died since 1850. Truro, Netherton, 1892-1912. v. 1-5. 29^{cm}. 30s. per vol. 920.042
v. 1-3, A-Z; Index; v. 4-5, (suppl. v. 1-2) A-K.

A useful work, particularly for minor 19th century names not included in the Dictionary of national biography. Good subject index, including lists of pseudonyms, fancy names, class lists, e. g. actors, poets, pugilists, masters of hounds, suicides, etc.

Gillow, Joseph. Literary and biographical history, or, Bibliographical dictionary of the English Catholics from the breach with Rome in 1534 to the present time. Lond. Burns, N. Y. Catholic pub. soc. [1885-92] 5 v. 23^{cm}. £3 15s. $22. 920.042

Gives 2,000 biographies. Useful for names not given in the Dictionary of national biography, and for fuller information about some names included there. Especially useful for the bibliographies which are very full.

FRENCH

There is unfortunately no French dictionary of national biography as yet. A Paris firm, Letouzey et Compagnie, has announced the preparation of such a dictionary and this, if it is of the same grade and on the same scale as the religious encyclopedias issued by the same firm, (see Baudrillart, Cabrol, etc., under Religion, p. 56) will be of the first importance. No parts of the projected work have yet been published. For French biography, then, recourse must be had to the general French encyclopedias, to the general biographical dictionaries of French origin, such as Hoefer and Michaud, and to the French local biographical dictionaries which, fortunately, are numerous although not all up to date. Lists of these local or regional dictionaries are given in La grande encyclopédie 6: 894-95, and in Stein's Manuel de bibliographie p. 501-07. The following more special works are also of importance:

Haag, Eugène. La France protestante: ou, Vies des protestants français qui se sont fait un nom dans l'histoire depuis les premiers temps de la réformation jusqu'à la reconnaissance du principe de la liberté des cultes par l'Assemblée nationale. Paris, Genève, Cherbuliez, 1846-59. 10 v. 24^{cm}. o. p. 920.044

There is a later edition of which only v. 1-6 were ever published.

Robert, Adolphe. Dictionnaire des parlementaires français, comprenant tous les membres des assemblées françaises et tous les ministres français depuis le 1^{er} mai 1789 jusqu'au 1^{er} mai 1889. Publié sous la direction de MM. Adolphe Robert, Edgar Bourloton & Gaston Cougny. Paris, Bourloton, 1891. 5 v. illus. 25^{cm}. 60 fr. 920.044

COLLEGE GRADUATES

A type of biographical dictionary of considerable importance for names either omitted altogether from the more general works, or included there with only brief information, is the biographical catalogue, general catalogue, or alumni list, of the graduates of a given college or other institution. Famous examples of this type are the Oxford and Cambridge lists noted below. The Yale series is perhaps the best American example. For other American titles consult "A check list of biographical directories and general catalogues of American colleges and universities" compiled by Eva Alice Cole and printed in the New York Genealogical and biographical record for January, 1915.

GEOGRAPHY

There are four principal types of reference books which are useful in answering questions in geography: (1) gazetteers, both general and special, which serve to tell where a given place is and furnish descriptive information about it; (2) dictionaries of place names, which indicate the origin and meaning of such names and the different forms which have been in use at different times; (3) atlases, which supply maps and through their indexes aid in the location of places; (4) guide books which supply a different type of descriptive material from that given in the gazetteers and contain many maps, especially local maps and town plans, not given in the general atlases.

ANNUAL

Geographen-kalender, herausg. von Hermann Haack, 1903-14. Gotha, Perthes, 1904-14*. v. 1-12. maps. 14^{cm}. 8 m. per vol. 910

Contains for each year a calendar, geographic chronicle, discoveries, geographic literature and address lists as follows: A, persons prominent in geographic work or in allied subjects; B, geographical, geological, anthropological and ethnological societies, museums, etc.; C, periodicals; D, publishers. In later volumes, all address lists are not repeated each year, e. g. list A is given in v. 11, B-D in v. 12; for full information, therefore, the two latest volumes must be used together.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Annales de géographie. Bibliographie géographique annuelle, 1891-1914. Paris, 1894-1915*. v. 1-24. 23^{cm}. 10 fr. per vol. 016.91

A useful classified bibliography, with alphabetical author index. Very full annotations, each signed.

Bibliotheca geographica; hrsg. von der Gesellschaft für erdkunde zu Berlin, 1891/1892-1909/1910. Berl. Kuhl, 1895-1914*. v. 1-18. 33^{cm}. 8 m. per vol. 016.91

Important annual bibliography of books and periodical articles, more complete than the French list noted above, but without any annotations. Classified, with author index.

Mill, Hugh Robert. Guide to geographical books and appliances; the 2d ed. of "Hints to teachers and students on the choice of geographical books for reference and reading," rev. by J. Herbertson. J. F. Unsted and N. E. Macmunn. Lond. Philip, 1910. 207 p. 21^{cm}. 5s. 016.91

A good annotated guide to the most useful books in English and to some foreign material, arranged by large subjects, as Atlases and maps, Geographical reference books, Geographical text-books, Geographical novels, etc.; much enlarged from the earlier work, 1897.

GAZETTEERS

Lippincott's new gazetteer; a complete pronouncing gazetteer or geographical dictionary of the world, containing the most recent and authentic information respecting the countries, cities, towns, resorts, islands, rivers, mountains, seas, lakes, etc., in every portion of the globe; ed. by Angelo Heilprin and Louis Heilprin. Phil. Lippincott, 1906. 2053 p. 28^{cm}. $10 sh. 910.3

The most complete and useful of the American gazetteers. Includes in one alphabet names of cities, towns, rivers, mountains, lakes and other geographical features, and gives for each the pronunciation of its name, information about other names by which the place was known, location, altitude, etc., and, in the case of towns, population figures, and brief information about local industries, finances, history, educational and other institutions, etc. Entry is under the present form of the place name (in English), with cross references from ancient, mediaeval or other early forms or foreign forms.

This work is usually sufficient for all ordinary gazetteer questions. For out-of-the-way places omitted from this work or for fuller information than that given here, the large foreign works or the special local gazetteers must often be consulted.

Chisholm, George Goudie. Longmans' gazetteer of the world. New impression (1899) Lond. Longmans, 1902. 1788 p. 28^{cm}. 18s. 910.3

"First published, 1895; re-issued by 'The Times,' 1899; reprinted for 'The Times,' March 1899; re-issued by Longmans & co., July, 1902."

Ritters geographisch-statistisches lexikon. 9. umgearb. auf. Lpz. Wigand, 1905-06. 2 v. 27^{cm}. 53 m. 910.3

Vivien de Saint Martin, Louis, and Roussellet, Louis. Nouveau dictionnaire de géographie universelle. Paris, Hachette. 1879-95. 7 v. 32^{cm}. 240 fr. 910.3

—Supplément. Paris, Hachette. 1895-1900. 19 pts. 32^{cm}. 2.50 fr. per pt. 910.3

The most complete and important of the general gazetteers. The longer articles are by specialists and are of a high grade, information is much fuller than that given in either Lippincott or Chisholm and many names are included, especially minor European or Asiatic names, which are not given in the American and English works. Not now up to date and so less useful for ordinary questions than Lippincott, but more useful than that work when very detailed or out-of-the-way information is needed.

SPECIAL

Smith, Sir William. Dictionary of Greek and Roman geography. Lond. Murray, Bost. Little, 1873-78. 2 v. illus. maps. 23^{cm}. 56s. $12. 910.3

Beaunier, Maurice. Lexique de géographie ancienne. Paris, Klincksieck. 1914. 893 p. 18^{cm}. 12 fr. 910.3

A small compact hand book; gives only brief information about each place, but is very full in its references to ancient writers in whose works the place is mentioned. Very useful on account of these many references.

Also issued as v. 9 of Brunet's Manuel du libraire.

Arranged alphabetically by the mediaeval name (Latin or Greek); gives under each, an indication of the modern name and brief information about the place with special emphasis about the history of printing in that place, establishment of presses, etc. Index of modern names.

Grässe, Johann Georg Theodor. Orbis latinus; oder, Verzeichnis der wichtigsten lateinischen orts- und ländernamen. Ein supplement zu jedem lateinischen und geographischen wörterbuch. 2. aufl., mit besonderer berücksichtigung der mittelalterlichen und neueren latinität neu bearb. von Friedrich Benedict. Berl. Schmidt, N. Y. Stieger, 1909. 348 p. 25^{cm}. 10 m. 910.3

names; (2) modern names. The new edition includes only part 1; where part 2 is needed the first edition must still be used.

Belgium

Jourdain, Alfred, and Stalle, L. C. F. van. Includes 51 plans of cities, etc.

Great Britain

Bartholomew, J. G. Survey gazetteer of the British isles, topographical, statistical and commercial; compiled from the 1911 census and the latest official returns. Edinburgh, Bartholomew, 1914. 756 p. 48 col. maps. 26^{cm}. 15s. 914.2

Gives in one alphabetical list brief accounts not only of all towns, villages and hamlets, but also of seats, shooting lodges, deer forests, fishing lochs, streams, grouse moors, etc., which have special names, but which would not be included in ordinary general gazetteers.

India

Imperial gazetteer of India. New ed., pub. under the authority of His Majesty's secretary of state for India in council. Ox. Clarendon press, 1907-09. 26 v. fronts. fold. maps, tables. 22^{cm}. £5. 915.4

1st ed., 9 v., 1881, and 2d ed., 14 v., 1885-87, edited by Sir William Wilson Hunter. The present may be considered as a new work, rather than a new edition. cf. General preface.

Editor for India, 1901-04, William Stevenson Meyer; 1905-09, Richard Burn; editor in England, James Sutherland Cotton.

Contents: v. 1-4, The Indian empire—v. 1, Descriptive, v. 2 Historical, v. 3, Economic, v. 4, Administrative; v. 5-24, Gazetteer; v. 25, General index; v. 26, Atlas.

Scotland

Groome, Francis Hindes. Ordnance gazetteer of Scotland; a graphic and accurate description of every place in Scotland. New ed., with census appendix 1901. Edinburgh, Jack, 1901. 1762 p. illus., fold. map. 27^{cm}. 10s. 6d. 914.1

This edition contains all the printed matter of the large 6 vol. edition, the revisions made in 1895 and subsequent partial revisions.—cf. Publishers' note.

Switzerland

Knapp, Charles. Dictionnaire géographique de la Suisse; publié sous les auspices de la Société neuchâteloise de géographie, et sous la direction de Charles Knapp, Maurice Borel, cartographe, et de V. Attinger, éditeur, avec des collaborateurs de tous les cantons. Neuchâtel, Attinger, 1902-10. 5 v. illus., maps (partly fold.) 27^{cm}. 200 fr. 914.94

One of the finest regional dictionaries, with authoritative articles and excellent illustrations. Articles contain more scientific geographical and geological information than is usual in local gazetteers.

United States

Baker, Marcus. Geographic dictionary of Alaska. 2d ed. prepared by James McCormick. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1906. 690 p. 23^{cm}. (U. S. Geological survey. Bulletin 299.) 917.3

The bulletins of the Geological survey contain, also, geographical dictionaries of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Jersey, and gazetteers of Kansas, Utah, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Indian Territory, Porto Rico and Cuba.

Gannett, Henry. Boundaries of the United States and of the several states and territories. 3d ed. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1904. 145 p. 23^{cm}. (U. S. Geological survey. Bulletin 226.) 917.3

—Dictionary of altitudes in the United States. 4th ed. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1906. 1072 p. 23^{cm}. (U. S. Geological survey. Bulletin 274.)

Arranged alphabetically by states and under states by cities; gives altitude and refers to authority.

France

Dictionnaire topographique de la France comprenant les noms de lieu anciens et modernes, publié par ordre du Ministre de l'instruction publique et sous la direction du Comité des travaux historiques et scientifiques. Paris, Impr. nationale, 1861-1912. v. 1-27. 28^{cm}. 287.50 fr. 910

In process of publication, one volume for each département. A monumental work, the most complete study yet made of the place names of any country. Each volume lists all place names of its département, even names of farms, giving for each its location, derivation, variations in form from the earliest period to the present with date when each form was used and exact references to manuscripts or printed authorities, and, in the case of important names, a brief history and description of the place. Entry in the dictionary proper is under the modern form of name and cross references from old forms are given in a table of ancient forms at the end of the volume.

Volumes so far published are: Ain, by E. Philipon, 1911; Aisne, by A. Matton, 1871; Alpes (Hautes), by J. Roman, 1884; Aube, by Th. Boutiot and E. Socard, 1874; Aude, by the Abbé Sabarthès, 1912; Calvados, by C. Hippeau, 1883; Cantal, by E. Amé, 1897; Dordogne, by the Vicomte de Gorgues, 1873; Drôme, by J. Ireland

Joyce, Patrick W. Origin and history of Irish names of places. Lond. & N. Y. Longmans, 1898-1913. 3 v. 18^{cm}. 15s. 910

The best dictionary of Irish place names, giving for each name its location, derivation, meaning, and an explanation of the meaning where necessary. Vols. 1-2, originally published 1869-71, are treatises, arranged in chapters with alphabetical indexes, but v. 3 is a regular dictionary list. As v. 3 does not duplicate many of the names in v. 1-2, use must still be made of the earlier volumes.

ATLASES

Rand, McNally & co., pub. Library atlas of the world, containing over 200 maps and a complete index. Chic. Rand[1912] 2 v. 53^{cm}. cloth $25. half mor. $30. 912
v. 1, United States; v. 2, Foreign countries.

A revised edition of their Indexed atlas of the world. For each territorial division included there is a topographical and a relief map. In the U. S. volume an index accompanies each map, giving population figures, and in the volume for foreign countries there is a general alphabetical index. Special features are the list of all electric lines in the U. S. and the similar lists for each state. The maps are not very good and inaccuracies have been pointed out, but the atlas is useful because of the large scale of the maps.

Rand, McNally & co., pub. Commercial atlas of America. 5th ed. Chic. Rand., 1915. 442 p. incl. 121 col. maps. 52^{cm}. $15. 912

Issued annually.

Century atlas of the world, revised and enlarged. N. Y. Century co. 1914. 431 p. 118 maps. 30^{cm}. $9. 912

Also published as v. 12 of the Century dictionary and encyclopedia.

Originally published in 1897 and revised several times, especially in 1899, 1901 and 1911. New maps in the 1911 edition are: Alaska; Canada (3 maps); Oklahoma; South Polar regions, with exploration routes, and two maps showing development of inter-urban electric lines in the U. S. Other maps have been corrected, new place names added, and the index entirely reset and supplied with the 1910 census figures. Except when a large scale map is needed the Century atlas is generally more satisfactory than the Rand, McNally atlas. General index contains 185,000 names.

Cram, George F. Cram's modern new census atlas of the United States and world. Thirteenth census edition. A complete series of maps, of the United States and possessions, foreign countries, world, polar regions and hemispheres. A carefully prepared index of over 70,000 place names in the United States, ed., comp. and pub. by George F. Cram. N. Y., Chic. Cram, 1911. 638 p. incl. illus., 144 col. maps. 39^{cm}. $12.50. 912

Text and many maps same as in Cram's unrivaled atlas of the world. 1911.

Hammond, C. S., & co. Hammond's commercial and library atlas of the world, based upon official surveys, with ready reference marginal indices together with a new postal and shipping guide of the United States, a new descriptive gazetteer of the cities of the world, and a new atlas of cities. N. Y. Hammond, 1911. 496 p. 134 maps. 34^{cm}. $10. 912

Useful because the maps of the states show the congressional districts; otherwise inferior to the Rand, McNally atlas and the Century atlas. Contains some maps of cities not included in the other atlases.

Hammond, C. S., & co. Hammond's standard atlas of the world, based upon official surveys including individual maps of each state of the United States, Alaska, each province of the Dominion of Canada and of Mexico and Cuba, showing each railroad and railroad system, all interurban electric lines and all inland and coastwise water routes. Also new maps of all foreign countries, together with a new postal and shipping guide of the United States and Canada. 1st ed. N. Y. Hammond, 1914. 212 p. incl. 113 col. maps. 54^{cm}. $20. 912

Each map is accompanied by explanatory text. Its special feature is a series of 17 maps illustrating the historical geography of the British Isles.

"The characteristics of the English Atlas, in short, are very notably clearness and fullness, the maps are fortunately of a size not to need folding, and each is preceded by an explanatory note giving authorities, with a running commentary which to the advanced student will prove often of more importance than the accompanying maps." G. Le Strange, in the English historical review.

The main part, v. 1-2, is a catalogue, arranged by locality, of 3,265 atlases, giving for each full descriptions and contents. Volume 2 contains an author list and a minute analytical index which, as it refers to single maps listed in the contents notes, is of great reference value for ascertaining in what atlases unusual or early maps are to be found. Volume 3 (1914) is a supplementary volume which lists the titles added to the collection since 1909 and contains also a minute alphabetical index and an author list, this latter including references to volumes 1-2, also, and forming a complete checklist to the whole collection of some 4,000 atlases. This author list is also printed separately.

GUIDE BOOKS

The "guide-books" prepared for the use of travelers are very useful in a reference department as they are fuller for certain kinds of local information than either the general or the special gazetteers and give more local maps, plans of cities, etc., than are given in the ordinary atlases. They are especially useful for information about the art museums, collections, etc., of any given place, its architectural and historical monuments, scenic features, railroad and other communications, etc. Good guide books are (1) the Baedeker series published in both English, French and German editions (English, Lond. Unwin, N. Y. Scribner); (2) the Murray series (Lond. Murray, N. Y. Scribner); (3) the Guides Madrolle (Paris, Hachette) a French series including only a few titles but covering some subjects not included by Baedeker or Murray; (4) the Terry guide books, a new series recently started (Bost. Houghton), including so far only two titles, Mexico and Japan; (5) an extended French series, the Guides Joanne which includes, especially, many local French guide-books (Paris, Joanne); (6) Official guide to eastern Asia, published by the Imperial Japanese government railways, a new series in four volumes covering Manchuria and Chosön, Japan (2 v.) and China, and supplying both detailed information and many interesting illustrations (v. 1-4, 1913-15).

HISTORY

Larned, Josephus Nelson. History for ready reference from the best historians and specialists. Rev. and enl. ed. Sprgf. [Mass.] Nichols, 1901-10. [c 1895-1910] 7 v. illus. maps. 28^{cm}. $35. 903
v. 1-5, A-Z; v. 6, recent history 1894-1900; v. 7, recent history 1901-10.

A dictionary of universal history arranged alphabetically with many cross references. Under each subject is given not an original article but a quoted article or extract from the work of some recognized historical authority. Extracts are given with exact reference, and the work thus serves the double purpose of encyclopedia and index. In volumes 1-5 the quotations are taken principally from standard authorities, but in the supplementary volumes periodical articles and other current material are included more freely.

— Companion volume. Springfield, Nichols, 1913. 264 p. 27^{cm}.

Cambridge modern history, planned by the late Lord Acton, ed. by A. W. Ward, G. W. Prothero, Stanley Leathes. N. Y. and Lond. Macmillan, 1902-12. 13 v. and atlas. 25^{cm}. $59. 909

Bibliographies at end of each vol.

Contents: v. 1. Renaissance; v. 2, Reformation; v. 3, Wars of religion; v. 4, Thirty years' war; v. 5, Age of Louis XIV; v. 6, Eighteenth century; v. 7, United States; v. 8, French revolution; v. 9, Napoleon; v. 10, Restoration; v. 11, Growth of nationalities; v. 12; Latest age; v. 13, Genealogical tables and lists and general index. Atlas, ed. by A. W. Ward, G. W. Prothero, Stanley Leathes, assisted by E. A. Benians, 1912.

Contents of v. 13: I. pt. 1, Genealogical tables of ruling and royal houses—British Empire, France, The Empire and Austria, Netherlands, Italy, Spain, Portugal and Brazil, Sweden and Norway, Denmark, Poland, Hungary and Transylvania, Russia, Turkey and the Balkan states, The East; pt. 2, List of spiritual princes, elected sovereigns, etc.; pt. 3, List of Parliaments, presidents, governors of colonies and the rulers, General councils. Secularized bishoprics, Leagues, alliances, Universities since 1450, etc.; II. General index, p. 207-642.

The most important general modern history useful for reference purposes because of its high authority, bibliographies, its very detailed general index and the various miscellaneous tables included in the index volume.

ANNUALS

Annual register; a review of public events at home and abroad, 1758-1915. Lond. 1761-1916.* 158 v. maps, tab. 20½-23^{cm}. 16s. per vol. 905

The volumes for the years 1758-90 were printed for J. Dodsley; 1791-1813, for W. Otridge and son etc.; 1814-36, for Baldwin, Cradock, and Joy etc.; 1837-89, for J. G. & F. Rivington etc.; 1890-16, pub. by Longmans, Green and co.

Originated with Robert Dodsley, at the suggestion of Edmund Burke, who was for some years editor and principal contributor. Some time after the year 1791, the copyright and stock were purchased by Otridge and other booksellers. Messrs. Rivingtons published a rival continuation, which lasted from 1791 to 1812, and again from 1820 to 1824, when the two were merged into one. cf. Lowndes, Bibliographer's manual, v. 1.

Contents of each volume. English history. Foreign and colonial history, Chronicle of events, Retrospect of literature, science and art. Obituary, Index.

Includes some public documents, and many abstracts of political speeches. Gives English affairs with more fullness than those of other countries.

DATES

Dictionary of dates. Lond. & Edin. Nelson, 1912. 3 v. 3s. 903

A small popular compilation, alphabetically arranged on the same general lines as Haydn's Dictionary of dates but much less comprehensive. Brings information down to 1911 and 1912. Not a substitute for Haydn, but useful for later information.

Haydn, Joseph. Dictionary of dates and universal information relating to all ages and nations. 25th edition. Lond. Ward Locke & co. 1910. 1626 p. 23^{cm}. 21s. 903

First edition, 1841.

A dictionary of history and general information, alphabetically arranged, with the information under each heading given as far as possible in the form of chronological lists. Very convenient for the smaller facts of history and for lists, e. g. Lord mayors of London, famous fires, inundations, etc.

Little, Charles Eugene. Cyclopedia of classified dates. N. Y. Funk, 1900. 1454 p. 26^{cm}. $10. 903

Smith, Eric F. Dictionary of dates brought down to the present day. Lond. Dent, N. Y. Dutton, 1911. 302 p. 17½^{cm}. (Everyman's library) 1s. 40 cts.; lib. binding 1s. 6d. 50 cts. 903

A small, compact, admirably condensed handbook of general historical information, planned primarily for the private library but useful in the small public library that cannot afford Haydn's dictionary.

OUTLINES AND TABLES

George, Hereford Brooke. Genealogical tables illustrative of modern history. 5th ed., rev. and enl. Ox. Clarendon press, 1916. 55 tab. 25x41^{cm}. (Clarendon press series) 7s. 6d. 902

First ed. 1873. The 5th edition is revised and continued to 1915. Additions are: Belgium, Norway, Greece, Serbia, Montenegro, Roumania and Bulgaria.

Gooch, G. P. Annals of politics and culture, 1492-1899. Camb. [Eng.] University press, 1901. 530 p. 23^{cm}. 7s. 6d. 902

On the left-hand page are given political events in the history of the world, while the right-hand page deals with the record of culture for the same period; the whole arranged chronologically. Appendix contains tables of rulers, prime ministers, etc., of the various nations.

Hart, R. J. Chronos, a handbook of comparative chronology; chronological notes in history, art and literature from 8000 B. C. to 1700 A. D. for the use of travelers. Lond. Bell, 1912. 299 p. 21^{cm}. 6s. 902

A general list with special emphasis on the chronology of art and literature. For general historical chronology and outlines much less useful than Ploetz.

Morison, M. Time table of modern history, A. D. 400-1870. 2d ed. Westminster, Constable, 1908. 159 p. tab. maps, obl. 31x38^{cm}. 8s. 6d. 902

Parallel tables of the history of various countries, with genealogical tables of royal families, list of ruling monarchs, a general chart of ancient and modern history, and seven historical maps; also a full index. Not so comprehensive as Nichol's Tables.

Nichol, John. Tables of ancient literature and history, B. C. 1500-A. D. 200. Glasgow, Maclehose, 1877. unpag. 27x22^{cm}. o. p. $1.50. 902

Ploetz, Karl Julius. Handbook of universal history from the dawn of civilization to the outbreak of the great war of 1914; Ploetz's Epitome, tr. and enl. by William H. Tillinghast; with additions covering recent events. Bost. Houghton, [c 1915] 624 p., 63 p. 20^{cm}. $3. 902 Concise accurate outlines, not tables. The most useful of the outline handbooks.

Earlier editions had title Ploetz's Epitome. A 1914 edition had title Ploetz's Manual.

Putnam, George Palmer. Putnam's handbook of universal history; a series of chronological tables presenting, in parallel columns, a record of the more noteworthy events in the history of the world from the earliest times down to the present day; continued to date under the editorial supervision of George Haven Putnam. CLASSICAL ANTIQUITIES

DICTIONARIES

Peck, Harry Thurston. Harper's dictionary of classical literature and antiquities. N. Y. Harper, 1897. 1701 p. illus. maps. 26^{cm}. $6. 913.38

A popular work, most useful for purposes of ready reference because it gives articles on topics in classical antiquities, biography, mythology, geography, art, history, etc., in one alphabet. Concise articles, brief bibliographies, good illustrations.

Seyffert, Oskar. Dictionary of classical antiquities; from the German, rev. and ed. by Henry Nettleship and J. E. Sandys. 2d ed. Lond. Sonnenschein, 1891. 712 p. illus. 25^{cm}. 21s. 913.38

Smith, Sir William, Wayte, William, and Marindin, G. E. Dictionary of Greek and Roman antiquities. 3d ed. enl. Lond. Murray, Bost. Little, 1890-91. 2 v. illus. 24^{cm}. 63s. $14. 913.38

The 1st ed. appeared in 1842.

For many years an important standard work and still very useful although for important work it is inferior to the great French and German encyclopedias of the subject.

Smith, Sir William. Classical dictionary of Greek and Roman biography, mythology, and geography, based on the larger dictionaries, by the late Sir William Smith, revised throughout and in part rewritten by G. E. Marindin. N. Y. Appleton, 1894. 1018 p. illus., maps. 23^{cm}. $6. 913.38

— Concise dictionary of Greek and Roman antiquities; based on Sir William Smith's larger dictionary, and incorporating the results of modern research, ed. by F. Warre Cornish, with over 1100 illustrations taken from the best examples of ancient art. N. Y. Holt, 1898. 829 p. illus. 23^{cm}. $4. 913.38

— Smaller classical dictionary, ed. by E. H. Blakeney. Lond. Dent, N. Y. Dutton [1910] 616 p. illus., maps. 17^{cm}. (Everyman's library.) 1s. 40 cts. lib. binding. 1s 6d. 50 cts. 913.38

The dictionaries listed above are the best authorities in English and are satisfactory for ordinary questions. The best foreign classical dictionaries are, however, superior to anything in English and should be used for scholarly reference work, for very detailed information, for full bibliographies, especially for reference work for graduate students in university libraries. The best foreign works are the French dictionary of Daremberg and Saglio and the German Pauly-Wissowa, both listed below. These two differ in scope but are about equal in authority.

Daremberg, Charles, and Saglio, Édouard. Dictionnaire des antiquités grecques et romaines. Paris, Hachette, 1873-1915. v. 1-5. illus. 32^{cm}. in fascicles; 5 fr. per fasc. 913.38

v. 1-4, compl. A-S; v. 5, incompl. T-Vasa.

A work of the highest authority, with long signed articles by specialists and very detailed bibliographical references. Covers in general the field of public and private life, manners and customs, institutions, arts, sciences, industries, religion, costume, furniture, military affairs, money, weights and measures, etc. Does not include biography and literature.

Pauly, August Friedrich von. Pauly's real-encyclopädie der classischen altertumswissenschaft; neue bearbeitung, unter mitwirkung zahlreicher fachgenossen hrsg. von G. Wissowa. Stuttgart, Metzler, 1894-1914. v. 1-8 and 2 suppl. v. illus., maps, fold. tab. 24^{cm}. 34 m. per vol., suppl. 18 m. 913.38

v. 1-8, A-H.

Generally cited as Pauly-Wissowa.

The standard German work; covers the whole field of classical literature, history, antiquities, biography, etc. Long signed articles by specialists, bibliographies, good illustrations.

Lübker, Friedrich Heinrich Christian. Friedrich Lübkers Reallexikon des klassischen altertums. 8. vollständig umgearb. aufl., hrsg. von J. Geffcken und E. Ziebarth. Lpz. Teubner, 1914. 1152 p. illus. (plans) 26^{cm}. 28 m. 913.38

MANUALS AND SOURCE BOOKS

Sandys, Sir John Edwin. Companion to Latin studies. 2d ed. Cambridge [Eng.] Univ. press, 1913. 891 p. illus., 2 fold. maps. 23^{cm}. 18s. 937

Whibley, Leonard. Companion to Greek studies. 3d ed. rev. and enl. Cambridge

[Eng.] Univ. press, 1916. 787 p. illus. maps. 23^{cm}. 21s. 938

The two works by Sandys and Whibley are prepared on the same plan and similarly arranged. Each consists of a series of articles, by specialists, on topics of importance to the student of Greek and Roman history and literature, such as geography, ethnology, flora, science, chronology, coins, ships, buildings, population, slavery, etc. Articles are adequate, with useful bibliographies, and each volume has four indexes: (1) persons, deities and races, (2) places, rivers and mountains, (3) scholars and modern writers, (4) Latin (or Greek) words and phrases. Very useful as supplementing the various classical dictionaries.

Much important reference material is to be found in the reports, bulletins and other publications issued by the various national, state, and municipal governments. These publications which are generally known as "government publications" or "public documents" cover topics in nearly the whole field of knowledge, but are most important for subjects in the fields of social and political science, economics, finance, labor, industry, statistics, education, history, etc., and in certain sciences such as agriculture, ethnology, geology, meteorology, etc., to the study and promotion of which certain government bureaus or commissions are devoted. No extended reference work can be done in questions of labor conditions in America, or American geology, for example, without the use of some of the publications of the United States Bureau of labor or the United States Geological survey.

Public documents are popularly supposed to be difficult to use and understand, and reference workers often fail to make the best use of such material because its difficulty is overrated. The only difficulty is that documents are published in complicated forms and sets and must be used through the printed catalogs, bibliographies and indexes provided for the purpose, but so used the United States documents for the periods covered by modern indexes are no harder to use than periodical literature which has to be found through periodical indexes. The reference worker should, therefore, become thoroughly familiar with the important document indexes. State and municipal documents are somewhat harder to use because less well provided with indexes.

UNITED STATES PUBLIC DOCUMENTS

CATALOGS AND INDEXES

General

U. S. Superintendent of documents. Checklist of United States public documents, 1789-1909. 3d ed. rev. and enl. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1911. v. 1, 1707 p. 24^{cm}. 015.73

v. 1, Lists of Congressional and departmental publications.

"The first systematic attempt to include within the limits of one publication an approximately complete checklist of all public documents issued by the United States government during the first century and a quarter of its history."—Preface.

A checklist, not a catalog, covering Congressional documents through the 60th congress and department and bureau publications to the end of 1909. Lists: (1) American State papers, (2) Congressional documents, 15th-60th congresses; (3) Department publications arranged alphabetically by government author.

The list of departmental publications gives, for periodical publications, a statement of the volumes and dates which constitute a complete set and the serial numbers if the publication is contained also in the serial set; for separate publications the full title and date are given and the serial number if the document appears also in the serial set. The preface contains a list and description of previous indexes and catalogs of U. S. documents. This edition replaces the 2d ed. of the Checklist and the tables of the Tables and index, but does not yet supplant the index of the Tables and index. An index volume is to be published later.

— Tables of and annotated index to the congressional series of United States public documents. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1902. 769 p. 29^{cm}. free 015.73

In two parts: (1) Tables of the documents of the 15th to the 52d congress, inclusive, arranged by serial numbers; (2) Minute alphabetical subject index to these documents. The first part is now superseded by the more complete tables in the 3d edition of the checklist, noted above, but the subject index is still very useful as a key to the contents of the congressional set before 1893.

Greely, Adolphus Washington. Public documents of the first fourteen congresses, 1789-1817. Papers relating to early congressional documents. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1900. 903 p. 23^{cm}. (U. S. 56th Cong., 1st sess. Senate. Doc. no. 428) 015.73

—[Supplement.] Wash. Govt. print. off., 1904. 015.73

Reprinted from the Annual report of the American historical association, 1903, v. 1, p. 343-406.

Poore, Benjamin Perley. Descriptive catalogue of the government publications of the United States, September 5, 1774-March 4, 1881. Comp. by order of Congress. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1885. 1392 p. 30^{cm}. (U. S. 48th Cong., 2d sess. Senate. Misc. doc. no. 67) 015.73

Arranged chronologically, with general index. For each document gives full title, author, date, where the document may be found, and a brief abstract of the contents. Contains much valuable material but is difficult to use for quick reference because the index is not sufficiently complete, detailed or specific.

1881-1893

Ames, John Griffith. Comprehensive index to the publications of the United States government, 1881-1893. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1905. 2 v. 29^{cm}. (58th Cong., 2d sess. House. Doc. no. 754) 015.73

Paged continuously.

The Comprehensive index, 1889-93, by J. G. Ames, published in 1894, is superseded by this work. Bridges the gap between Poore's Descriptive catalogue, and the first volume of the Document catalogue.

Arranged in three columns. In the first is given the author of the document or department by which it is issued; in the second, an alphabetic list of documents arranged by subjects and titles; in the third, reference is made to the congress, session, the volume of the series in which each is embraced, and the number of the document. A personal index is added.

A good usable index, though less minute and detailed than the Document catalogue. Indicates the different editions in which a document was issued and gives serial numbers in a table under the heading Congressional documents.

015.73

v. 1, 53d congress; dept. publications, March 4, 1895-June 30, 1895; v. 2, 54th congress, 1st session; dept. publications, July, 1895-June, 1896; v. 3, 54th congress, 2d session; dept. publications, July, 1896-June, 1897; v. 4-11, 55th-62d congress, dept. publications, July, 1897-June, 1913, each volume covering one congress and the dept. publications of two years, July-June.

The "comprehensive index" provided for by the act approved Jan. 12, 1895.

This index, which is generally referred to by its binder's title as the "Document catalogue," forms the permanent and complete catalog of all government publications both congressional and departmental for the period covered. It is a dictionary catalog in form, listing all documents under author (government or personal), subject, and, when necessary, title also, and giving full catalog information for each book or pamphlet included. Includes a large amount of analysis, refers to all editions in which a document has appeared, and gives serial numbers for documents in the serial set, as follows: in v. 1-4, serial numbers are given only in the table under the entry "Congressional documents"; beginning with v. 5 serial numbers are given also throughout the list under the main (i. e. author) entry for each document, but not under the analytic entries. As far as issued supersedes the Document index and the Monthly catalogue (see below).

—Index to the subjects of the documents and reports, and to the committees, senators, and representatives presenting them (being the Consolidated index provided for by the act of Jan. 12, 1895), 54th cong. 1st sess.—63d cong. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1897-1916. v. 1-22. 23^{cm}. 015.73

An alphabetic author and subject index to the documents included in the serial set; does not cover bureau or department publications which are not included in the serial set. Each volume, as a general thing, covers one session of congress, but in a few cases one volume covers two sessions. Each volume contains: (1) alphabetical index, giving for each document indexed, brief title and a reference to its document number and to the volume of the congressional series in which it is included; (2) numerical lists, arranged by document numbers, of Senate reports, House reports, Senate documents, House documents, with indication of the serial number of each; and (3) schedule of volumes, giving the serial number of each volume. Only the later volumes are constantly used as the earlier volumes are superseded for ordinary reference purposes by the more complete Document catalogue.

— Monthly catalogue United States public documents, 1895–1916. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1895–1916. 23^{cm}. $1.10 per yr. 015.73

From 1895 to 1906 inclusive the title was Catalogue of United States public documents, issued monthly.

A current bibliography of all publications issued by all branches of the government, including both the congressional and the department and bureau publications. Each number contains (1) general instructions for ordering documents, (2) a preface calling attention to the more noteworthy documents of the month and (3) list of the documents published during the month arranged by departments, with indication, for each publication, of its full title, date, paging, price, Library of Congress card number, etc. There is a detailed author and subject index for each volume which makes it possible to use the list both as a bibliography and as an index to the subjects of the documents included. Volumes run July–June, and only the volumes since 1913 are needed for constant use, as the earlier volumes are superseded for most purposes by the Document catalogue.

"This index undertakes to deal only with the printed reports of administrative officers, legislative committees, and special commissions of the states and with governors' messages for the period since 1789. It does not refer to constitutions, laws, legislative proceedings or court decisions, except in so far as they happen to be found in the class of documents above mentioned. It attempts, on the other hand, to furnish a list, as complete as possible, of all the documents and messages which fall within its scope, in whatever form they have been published, whether separately, in collected documents, legislative journals or volumes of laws, and to indicate the volume in which they may be found. In addition to furnishing a list of reports and messages, the index undertakes to supply a reference by volume and page to all material of economic importance which they contain, with the exception of that contained in the reports of bureaus of labor before 1912. The reason for this exception is that these reports have already been indexed by the late Carroll D. Wright, when United States Commissioner of Labor, in a volume published by his department in 1902." Preface.

The word economic has been interpreted very liberally to include almost any aspect of American history. Indexing is by rather general headings and broad subjects.

U. S. Library of Congress. Division of documents. Monthly list of state publications. 1910-16. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1910-16. 016.3539

A current bibliography, arranged alphabetically by the names of states, of the publications of the states, territories and insular possessions of the U. S. Though limited to the publications received by the Library of Congress the list is approximately complete, as the Library of Congress aims to acquire all such material issued. Each title is given with full cataloging information, including very detailed contents in the case of composite reports. The full annual index includes references to these contents notes as well as to the main titles, so the list can be made to serve as a subject index as well as a bibliography.

The titles noted above represent the principal general bibliographies and indexes of state publications. There are, besides, many bibliographies of the publications of individual states, and of certain kinds of state publications, such as statutes, etc. These lists vary greatly in character, completeness and reference value, but are often useful, especially in the case of states not yet included in Miss Hasse's indexes. A list of such bibliographies is given in Reece's State documents for libraries, p. 112-28.

For a list of the bibliographies and indexes of American municipal documents see Kaiser's Law, legislative, and municipal reference libraries, p. 281-86.

ENGLISH DOCUMENTS

Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. General alphabetical index to the bills, reports, estimates, accounts, printed by order of the House of Commons and to the Papers presented by command, 1801-1909. Lond. Stationery off., 1853-1912. 5 v. 32^{cm}. v. 1-3 o.p. v. 4, 15s., v. 5, 4s. 328.424

The volumes are not numbered.

Contents: [v. 1] General index to the accounts and papers, reports of commissioners, etc., 1801-52; [v. 2] General index to bills, 1801-52; [v. 3] General index to reports of select committees, 1801-52; [v. 4] General index, 1853-99; [v. 5] General index, 1900-09.

An index to the English documents included in the Parliamentary papers of the House of Commons, not including the papers of the House of Lords except in so far as these are duplicated in the Commons papers and not including the "official" (i. e. the bureau or departmental) publications. Is arranged alphabetically by rather large subjects, and does not include many analytic entries, in both respects being much less detailed than the American indexes. Gives fairly full information about each paper, however, including its full title, date, and bill, document or command number, and a reference to the year and volume of the sessional papers in which it is to be found, and to the paging as made up for the House of Commons set. Some of the subject entries in the volumes before 1850 are rather blind but the later indexes are well made, accurate and usable, except where minute analysis is called for. Continued by the following:

— Lists of the bills, reports, estimates and accounts and papers printed by order of the House of Commons and of the Papers presented by command, sessions 1910-1914, with a general alphabetical index thereto. Lond. Stationery off., 1911-14.* 5 v. 32^{cm}. 2s. 1d. per vol. 328.424

Index for 1910 is v. 113 in the Parliamentary Papers for 1910; Index for 1911 is v. 114 in the Papers for 1911; Index for 1912/13 is v. 123 in the Papers for 1912/13; Index for 1913 is v. 82 in the Papers for 1913; Index for 1914 is v. 102 in the Papers for 1914.

Each volume contains: (1) a preliminary list showing the make-up of the set for that session, (2) numerical lists of (a) bills, (b) accounts and papers, (c) command papers; and (3) general alphabetical index. This last is the main list in each volume, is compiled on the same plan as the cumulated indexes, and forms the annual index which is to be used until superseded by a new cumulated volume.

Great Britain. Parliament. House of Lords. General index to sessional papers printed by order of the House of Lords or presented by special command. Lond. Eyre, 1860-86. 3 v. 33^{cm}. v. 1-2 o.p. v. 3, 5s. 328.424

v. 1, 1801-59; v. 2, 1859-70; v. 3, 1871-85.

After 1885 the annual indexes must be used. Price 2s. per volume.

Great Britain. Stationery office. Monthly [and Quarterly] list of parliamentary publications (with prices and postage affixed) issued by H. M. Stationery office. Lond. Pr. for H. M. Stationery off. by Harrison, 1915-16. 24^{cm}. 328.424

A current bibliography which taken together with the similar list of Official publications noted below corresponds in a general way to the U. S. Monthly catalogue. Cumulates quarterly, the cumulations having the title "Quarterly list," and the last cumulation of the year forming an annual list which as it has a fairly detailed alphabetical subject index furnishes a usable substitute for the regular annual index noted above, until the latter is published. Includes both House of Commons and House of Lords papers. Gives prices.

— Monthly [and Quarterly] list (with prices and postage affixed) of official publications issued by H. M. Stationery office. Lond. Pr. for H. M. Stationery off. by Harrison, 1915-16. 25^{cm}. 015.42

— Catalogue of parliamentary papers, 1901-1910, being a supplement to Catalogue of parliamentary papers, 1801-1900. Lond. King, 1912. 81 p. 30^{cm}. 5s. 328.424

Non-official selected lists including the more important papers, diplomatic correspondence and reports of commissions and select committees. Of use to those who wish to purchase separate documents, but not useful as an index to the Parliamentary Papers as volume numbers are omitted. Contains useful contents notes.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Bibliographies are important reference books in any library and are especially necessary in university and other research libraries. ateur de livres. Paris, Didot, 1870. 1592 col. 24^{cm}. 40 fr.

By P. Deschamps. A supplement to Brunet's Manuel, forming volume 9 of that work in some sets.

Brunet's Manuel is a general bibliography of rare, important, or noteworthy books not limited to those of any one period or language but especially strong for French and Latin titles and for publications before the 19th century. For each book listed it gives author, full title, place, publisher, date, size, number of volumes, but not generally paging, and, in the case of rare books, bibliographic and critical notes with mention of copies and prices at famous sales and occasional facsimiles of title pages, printers' marks, etc. The arrangement of the main work (v. 1-5) is alphabetic by authors and titles and there are two subject indexes, one in v. 6 to the main work and one in v. 8 to the supplement. Foot notes throughout v. 1-5 refer to titles omitted from the main author list but included in the subject volume (v. 6)

Covers much the same ground as Grässe's Trésor de livres but is generally known to contain a larger proportion of French books while Grässe lists more German titles. The two books must often be used together as each lists titles not given in the other.

Grässe, Johann Georg Theodor. Trésor de livres rares et précieux. Dresden, 1859-69. 7 v. 31^{cm}. o. p. about $60. 011

v. 7, Supplément.

"Covers much the same ground as Brunet, but includes also a large number of books that are intrinsically valuable without being rare, and for this reason is preferable if a choice must be made between them." Growell in his Bookseller's library.

It is based on Brunet, but contains more entries of German books; prices that books brought at sales are given.

o. p. 015.42

Described under English bibliography.

General bibliographies are never complete and must frequently be supplemented by more special works, especially by national bibliographies and by the printed catalogs of large libraries. Printed catalogs, such as the book catalogs of the British museum and the Bibliothèque Nationale (see p. 194), and the depository card catalog of the Library of Congress, are especially important, partly because they serve to locate copies of rare books and partly because, as their entries are made only upon examination of the books listed, they are more free from certain types of error than general bibliographies in which some entries have been transcribed from other records without actual examination of the books themselves. General bibliographies on the other hand, often give fuller descriptions and annotations.

British museum. Library. Catalogue of books printed in the 15th century now in the British museum. Lond. 1912-16. pt. 1-4. 35^{cm}. £5 13s. 011

Work supervised by A. W. Pollard.

Contents: pt. 1. Germany, Mainz, Strassburg, Bamberg, Cologne; pt. 2. Germany, Eltville-Trier; pt. 3. Germany, Leipzig-Pforzheim, German-speaking Switzerland and Austria-Hungary; pt. 4. Italy: Subiaco and Rome.

Arranged by places and under places by printers' names. Gives historical notes about printers, and full title, description, collation and date of purchase of each book. Pt. 3 contains also an introduction by A. W. Pollard, a typographical map, facsimiles, and indexes to pts. 1-3 by (1) Hain's numbers, (2) Concordance of Proctor's numbers, (3) Printers and towns. Covers the same ground as the first part of Proctor's Index to early printed books but with much fuller descriptions than the brief entries contained in Proctor.

Annmay Brown memorial. Catalogue of books mostly from the presses of the first printers showing the progress of printing with movable metal types through the second half of the fifteenth century. Collected by Rush C. Hawkins, catalogued by Alfred W. Pollard and deposited in the Annmay Brown memorial at Providence,

Rhode Island. Ox. printed at the University press at the cost of R. C. Hawkins. 1910. 339 p. 30^{cm}. North, $15. 011

A catalog of a choice collection of 540 incunabula especially selected to illustrate the history of printing in the 15th century. Full descriptions, with references to Hain, Copinger, etc. The historical notes on the rise of printing in the different localities and on the work of the individual printers are of great value.

Thacher, John Boyd. Catalogue of the John Boyd Thacher collection of incunabula. Comp. by Frederick W. Ashley. Wash. Govt. print. off., 1915. 329 p. incl. illus., facsim. in colors. front. (port). 26^{cm}. $1.50. 011

"The collection was on April 27, 1910, intrusted by Mrs. John Boyd Thacher to the custody of the Library of Congress as a deposit subject to her pleasure."—Introd.

Describes 840 works, including specimens of over 500 presses.

Gives full descriptions, with references to Hain Copinger, etc., of 683 incunabula arranged by places. Prices. The descriptive notes are in French. A dealer's catalog, but useful for bibliographic purposes because of the full notes and references.

— Supplementum 1-3, Frankfurt a. M. Baer, n. d. pts. 1-3. 25^{cm}. 011

The books listed above are the principal general bibliographies and catalogs of incunabula. There are also various important bibliographies of the incunabula of special countries, e. g., Haebler's Bibliografía ibérica del siglo XV, and catalogs of incunabula in special libraries. For a fuller list of these more special bibliographies see Catalogue of the John Boyd Thacher collection, p. 26-32, and Peddie's Fifteenth century books. A union list of incunabula in American libraries has been in preparation for some time by a committee of the Bibliographical society of America. This has not yet been printed, but the card list showing the results of the work to date is deposited with the Newberry library, Chicago, and may be consulted there.

Binder's title: Church catalogue. 150 copies printed.

A monumental work, the finest catalog of Americana yet published although less frequently useful than either Sabin or Evans because of the limited number of titles included. Includes 1385 entries of books about America, arranged chronologically from the earliest period to 1884 by date of publication with alphabetical author and title index. Gives for each book listed full title and collation, and very important historical and bibliographical annotations, with notes of differences in copies and location of copies in other libraries, referring in all to some 50 public and private libraries. Gives many facsimile reproductions of title-pages, colophons, etc. For extended review by W. N. C. Carlton see Bibliographical society of America, Papers, 7 : 41-46.

1st edition, 1900; 2d edition, 1903; supplement to 2d edition, covering years 1902-05, 1906. Edited by Marion E. Potter and others.

A thoroughly revised and much enlarged edition based upon information collected anew, not transferred from existing lists except for 1910-11 publications, the entries for which are transferred from the Cumulative book index 1910-11. Forms an approximately complete record of books published in the U. S. which were in print January 1, 1912, including books published in the regular book trade, privately printed books and publications of smaller publishers, importations of some firms, books issued by some Canadian publishers, university, society and state publications, and publications issued by the following U. S. departments, etc.:—Dept. of agriculture, Dept. of commerce and labor, Bureau of education, Geological survey, Public health and marine hospital service, Library of Congress, Smithsonian institution, National museum, Bureau of American ethnology, Pan American union, National monetary commission; and all U. S. publications included in the various bibliographies of the Supt. of documents published before 1911. Books listed in the Cumulative book index since 1906 but now out of print are also included but marked o. p. The information given about each book includes author's name, short title, edition, date, publisher, price and generally paging. The L. C. numbers are also given. The full subject cataloging and the many title entries are of decided reference value for the purpose of identifying a book when the author's name is not known. Directory of 3,000 publishers includes the principal American firms and some English firms with information as to their American agents. Very few inaccuracies in proportion to the extent of the work.

Annual

015.73

Price varies.

An annual supplement to the American catalogue, superseded for most purposes by the cumulated volumes of that work.

No annual was published in 1904 or 1907 as the material for those years was included in the American catalogue 1900-05 and 1905-07.

No more published.

Cumulative book index; annual cumulation; author, title and subject catalog of books in one alphabet, 1898-1916. White Plains, N. Y. Wilson, 1898-1916.* v. 1-18. 25^{cm}. $3.50 per vol. 015.73

For description see below under monthly.

Monthly

Cumulative book index. White Plains, N. Y., Wilson, 1898-1916. v. 1-18. 25^{cm}. $12 per yr.

At first a monthly covering practically the same ground as the monthly lists in the Publishers' weekly but in 1912 changed to a bi-monthly and in 1916 changed to a monthly issued nine times a year, with no issues in February, July or December; cumulates throughout the year the last number for each year covering all the publications of the year and forming an annual supplement to the United States catalog. An author, subject and title list, on the same plan as the United States catalog.

Publishers' weekly. Reference list of new publications. 015.73

Records of books entered in the Publishers' weekly during the month under author, title, subject, and series, in one alphabet. This record is to be found in the first number of the following month.

Weekly

Publishers' weekly; the American book trade journal, Jan. 1872-1916. N. Y. Publishers' weekly, 1872-1916. v. 1-90. $4 per year. 015.73

A list of books published in America, giving full titles, imprint information, price, descriptive notes. It consists of a weekly record of books arranged alphabetically by authors; a list of books announced for future publication; notes, editorials, advertisements of books wanted, etc. There is also a monthly cumulated list in the first number of each month. The following are special features: Spring announcement number in March, Summer number in May, Educational number in July, Fall announcement number in September, Christmas number in December.

Auction

American book-prices current, a record of books, manuscripts and autographs sold at auction in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, 1895-1915. N. Y. R. H. Dodd, 1895-1915.* v. 1-21. 22^{cm}. $10 per vol. (early volumes are scarce and higher in price). 018.3

v. 1 arranged chronologically by date of sales, v. 2-21, alphabetically by authors and some titles, in two lists, (1) printed books, periodicals etc., (2) manuscripts and autographs; volumes 1-10 have subject indexes.

Information given varies somewhat, but from v. 11 on includes author, title, edition, place, date, size, binding, condition, sale, name of auctioneer, date of sale, lot number in original auction catalog, price. Includes books of all periods and languages and is of importance in reference work not only as a record of market prices of second-hand books but also as a supplement to the general and national bibliographies, as it not infrequently includes titles or editions not listed in such bibliographies. In case of rare books location of the copies sold can sometimes be traced by applying to the auctioneer and the giving of the lot number in the original sales catalog furnishes a clue to a fuller and sometimes important description.

Livingston, Luther Samuel. Auction prices of books; a representative record arranged in alphabetical order from the commencement of the English Book-prices current in 1886 and the American book-prices current in 1894, to 1904, and including some thousands of important auction quotations of earlier date. N. Y. Dodd, 1905. 4 v. 26^{cm}. $40. 018.3

Aims to include every important book selling above $5 or £1 at English and American sales. States binding, special features, name of sale, owner or auctioneer, date of sale, number in original sale catalog, price.

First editions

Foley, P. K. American authors, 1795-1895; a bibliography of first and notable editions. Bost. 1897. 350 p. 27^{cm}. $5. 015.73

Compiled from the point of view of the collector. It is arranged alphabetically by authors whose works are sub-arranged chronologically. Brief notes are given. No prices. There is a list of initials, pseudonyms, and anonymous books appended.

Stone, Herbert Stuart. First editions of American authors; a manual for book-lovers. Camb. [Mass.] Stone, 1893. 223 p. 17^{cm}. $1.25. 015.73

Gives dates of first editions; no prices.

The above are serviceable general lists. For important questions special bibliographies of individual authors should always be consulted, if possible, as they are usually more detailed and accurate than the general lists.

— Index to the English catalogue of books. Lond. Low, 1858-93. 4 v. 24^{cm}. 015.42

Forms a subject index to v. 1-4 of the author catalog. No more published as from v. 5 on the English catalogue includes authors and subjects in one alphabet.

Annual

English catalogue of books, giving in one alphabet, under author and title, the size, price, month of publication and publisher of books issued in the United Kingdom, 1835-1915. Lond. Low, 1837-1916.* v. 1-77. 24^{cm}. 7s. 6d. per vol. 015.42

On the same plan as the permanent English catalogue. The later volumes contain, in addition to the main list of publications, a directory of English publishers, also one for some American and Canadian publishers, and an appendix giving publications of learned societies, printing clubs, etc., with lists of their publications for the year.

The 1907 volume in the preface traces concisely the history of the Catalogue from the earliest times through the London catalogue of 1700 to 1773 to the beginnings of the English catalogue.

Monthly

The Bookseller; a newspaper of British and foreign literature, published monthly since 1858. Lond. Whitaker, 1858-1916. 5s. per yr. 015.42

Includes both a classified and an alphabetical list of the publications of the month. There is also a quarterly index.

Publishers' circular and booksellers' record.

Contains a monthly list of new publications. For description see below under Weekly.

Weekly

Publishers' circular and booksellers' record of British and foreign literature, 1837-1916. Lond. Low, 1837-1916. v. 1-96. 29^{cm}. 8s. 6d. per year. 015.42

A weekly trade journal, including a list of publications of the week, announcements, some book reviews, general trade news, etc. A combined monthly list of new publications is given generally in the last number for the month but sometimes in the first number of the next month. Follows the same plan and gives the same kind of information as the English catalogue, for the annual volumes of which it forms the basis.

Publishers

Reference catalogue of current literature, containing the full titles of books now in print and on sale with the prices at which they may be obtained of all book sellers and an index containing over 200,000 references, 1913. Lond. Whitaker, N. Y. Publishers' weekly, 1913. 3 v. 22^{cm} 21s. $5. 015.42

A collection of publishers' catalogs bound together alphabetically by name of firm, with a minute alphabetical index in a separate volume. First issue 1874; since then revised and reissued about every fourth year.

Auction

Book-prices current, Dec. 1886-1915. Lond. Stock, 1888-1915.* v. 1-29. 22^{cm}. 27s. per year, (about $150 for complete set). 018.3

v. 1-27, 1886-1913 arranged chronologically by dates of sales, v. 28-29, 1914-1915, arranged alphabetically by authors and some titles; indexes in each volume as follows: v. 1-9, 1886-95, author index only; v. 10-18, 1896-1904, subject index at front and author index at back of each volume; v. 19-27, 1905-13, general index of authors, subject and titles in one alphabet; v. 28- , no index, as volumes are arranged alphabetically. Earlier indexes are superseded for most purposes by the two general indexes noted below.

Useful both as a record of market prices of second-hand books, and as a supplement to the various general and national bibliographies for titles and editions not noted in such bibliographies.

— Index to the first ten volumes, 1887 to 1896, constituting a reference list of subjects and incidentally a key to anonymous and pseudonymous literature. Lond. Stock, 1901. 472 p. 22^{cm}. 21 s. 018.3

— Index for the 2d decade, 1897-1906, forming a key to the 10 volumes, and incidentally to anonymous, pseudonymous and suppressed literature, with a supplement of bibliophiles and bibliopoles, by William Jaggard. Lond. Stock, 1909. 1056 p. 22^{cm}. 42 s. 018.3

Book-auction records (formerly known as 'Sale records') a priced and annotated record of London book auctions, June, 1902-1915. Lond. Karslake, 1903-1915.* v. 1-12, pl. por. 22^{cm}. £1 1s. per year. 018.3 v. 1, ed. by Frederick Marchmont, v. 2-12 by Frank Karslake.

Issued quarterly. Each number is arranged alphabetically by authors, with an index in each volume. The numbers contain besides the record of sales general information regarding the book market.

Book sales; record of the most important books sold at auction and the prices realized. Lond. Bell, 1896-99. 4 v. 15s. per vol. 018.3

Edited by Temple Scott.

The titles and notes are fuller than in Book-prices current. Discontinued.

First editions

Slater, John Herbert. Early editions; a bibliographical survey of the works of some popular modern authors. Lond. Paul, 1894. 339 p. 12^{cm}. o. p. 015.42
Gives the prices of books.

Privately printed

Dobell, Bertram. Catalogue of books printed for private circulation, collected by Bertram Dobell and now described and annotated by him. Lond. Dobell, 1906. 238 p. 22^{cm}. 4s. 6d. 015.42

Printed in parts, 1891-1906.

An author list, with full descriptions, including author's name, full title, size, paging, date and price, and size of edition when known, and very full bibliographical and historical notes with occasional quotations from the books themselves. Includes some of the books listed by Martin but does not supersede Martin's list which gives many titles not mentioned by Dobell.

Some 939 titles from this list are now in the Library of Congress, having been acquired in the Dobell collection of privately printed books, 1,611 volumes, purchased by that library in 1914.

Martin, John. Bibliographical catalogue of books privately printed; including those of the Bannatyne, Maitland and Roxburghe clubs, and of the private presses at Darlington, Auchinleck, Lee priory, Newcastle, Middle Hill, and Strawberry Hill. Lond. J. and A. Arch, 1834. 563 p. front. illus. 23^{cm}. o. p. 015.42

In two parts: 1, List of privately printed books, omitting pamphlets, arranged chronologically 1672-1833, giving author's name, title, place and printer when known, date, size and paging, with many bibliographical and historical notes and occasional references to authorities and copies; 2, List of books printed at private presses and for distribution among members of literary clubs, arranged by presses. General index of authors and titles.

For the first part this edition is superseded by the 2d edition, 1854, but must still be used for the part on private presses which contains some material not found in the appendix volume of Lowndes.

— Bibliographical catalogue of privately printed books. 2d ed. Lond. 1854. 593 p. front., illus. 22^{cm}. o. p. 015.42

A revision and extension of the first part only of the first edition, 1834. Corrects some errors, adds some previously omitted titles and extends the list from 1834 to 1853. Does not contain the section on private presses which was included in the earlier edition.

A continuation of Quérard's "La France littéraire," on the same general plan.

Vol. 1 to v. 2, p. 282, by Quérard; the remainder by L. F. Bourquelot (v. 2, p. 282-v. 4, p. 35 with the assistance of C. Louandre; v. 4, p. 369-v. 5, p. 496 with F. A. Maury).

Catalogue général de la librairie française, 1840-1912. Paris, Jordell, 1867-1916. v. 1-25. 25^{cm}. 1000 fr. 015.44

v. 1-11, edited by Otto Lorenz; v. 12-25, by D. Jordell.

v. 1-19 published by Nilsson.

The standard French list for the 19th and 20th centuries and one of the most important of modern national bibliographies. Covers French publications by periods ranging from three years to 25 years, the volumes for each period consisting of (1) a main author and title list containing full information, i. e. author's full name, full title of book, edition, place (if other than Paris) date, publisher, paging, size, price, and occasional brief notes and (2) a subject list arranged by broad subjects, with brief information i. e. title, author, size, date and price only. Includes books, pamphlets, some theses and annuals but not periodicals, and lists some Belgian publications, i. e. books in French published in Belgium but handled regularly by some French firm also. Special features are: (1) the inclusion of brief biographical notes about the authors whose works are listed, (2) the linking together of all entries for the same author by cross-references from the later to the earlier volumes, (3) the occasional brief notes which tell whether a book has been crowned by the French Academy, refer in case of reissues or later editions to date of first edition and in case of books or pamphlets reprinted from periodicals, give reference to volume or date of the periodical, etc. The information about original publication in periodicals is often very useful.

Vicaire, Georges. Manuel de l'amateur de livres du 19^e siècle, 1801-1893. Paris. Rouquette, 1894-1900. 7 v. 25^{cm}. 252 fr. 015.44

v. 1-7, A-Z, 1801-1893; a supplement 1894-1900, and a subject index are still to be published.

Crowned by the French academy.

An attempt to do for 19th century French literature what Brunet's Manuel does for general literature of an earlier period. Covers in large part the same period as Lorenz, but with a selection of material, listing fewer titles than Lorenz but giving fuller information and annotations for those listed. Gives full titles and bibliographic notes, original price, and, often, prices realized at various auction sales.

Bibliographie française; 2. série, paraissant par périodes quinquennales, comprenant les ouvrages parus depuis le 1^{er} janvier 1900 en un seul alphabet. Paris, Le Soudier, 1908-1911. v. 1-2 in 3. 25^{cm}. 140 fr. 015.44

v. 1, 1900-04; v. 2 (in 2 pts.) 1905-09.

A dictionary catalog, authors, titles and subjects in one alphabet, with full information given under the authors' names and cross references from subjects and titles. Includes books and annuals, but not periodicals. Continued by the annual indexes of the Mémorial de la librairie française.

Stechert, $3 bound.

A general list of French publications in print in 1911, selective rather than complete, for books in philosophy, theology, literature and art, geography, archaeology, biography and social, economic and political history. Author's name and dates, title of book, volumes, number of editions, size, date of original and of latest edition, gross and net price, publisher, series, and code word for ordering by telegraph are given for each book listed. Subject and title indexes. Contains also a title list of French series, a directory of publishers, and a list of booksellers arranged alphabetically by their specialties.

Chéron, Paul. Catalogue général de la librairie française au xix^e siècle, indiquant, par ordre alphabétique de noms d'auteurs les ouvrages publiés en France du 1^{er} janvier 1800 au 31 décembre 1855. Paris, Courrier de la librairie, 1856-59. 3 v. 26^{cm}. o.p. 015.44

Gives brief biographical data.

Issued as premium (forming one vol. per year) to subscribers of the Courrier de la librairie, which was discontinued in 1859, the work extending to Dubuisson only.

A very full list, as far as issued, including books not given in Quérard or Lorenz. Unfortunately discontinued after the letter D.

Annual

Catalogue mensuel de la librairie française.

The annual volume consists of the monthly numbers bound together with indexes of authors, titles, subjects.

v. 1-2 lists the bibliographies published before 1905; v. 3 is a supplement containing about 10,000 additional references principally to bibliographies published since 1905.

An important and useful handbook. Arranged alphabetically by the subject of the bibliographies listed; refers not only to bibliographies in book form, but also to lists in periodicals and to other analytic material, including occasionally even articles which contain bibliographic information but are not formal bibliographies.

Langlois, Charles Victor. Manuel de bibliographie historique. Paris, Hachette. 1901-04. 2 v. 19^{cm}. 6 fr. per vol. 016.9

Pt. 1. Instruments bibliographiques, is most useful to librarians. Pt. 2. Histoire et organisation des études historiques, is "of more interest and importance to the historical student than to the bibliographer."

"It has since [its first appearance, 1896] been universally recognized as one of the most useful bibliographical contributions of recent years, and as such indispensable to every library. Perhaps the most important result of the book is that it will promote the systematic study of bibliography in connection with university instruction, and it is greatly to the credit of M. Langlois that he has clearly pointed out the lines upon which this study should be conducted." F. J. Teggart in Lib. j. 26:407.

— Index to reference lists published by libraries, 1907-08, 1909, 1910-date. (See Bulletin of bibliography, 5:125-26, 149-52, Oct. 1908-Jan. 1909, 6:74-77, April 1910, and each January number beginning with January 1911).

Monthly reference lists compiled by the Providence public library were also printed in the A. L. A. booklist Dec. 1905-Jan. 1908. Quarterly lists compiled by the same library were printed in the Bulletin of bibliography Oct. 1899-Oct. 1906. Most of these quarterly lists were superseded by the Bulletin of bibliography pamphlet noted above but the earlier numbers must still be used to bridge part of the gap between that pamphlet and Mrs. Nachtmann's list.

American library annual, 1911/12-15/16. N. Y. Publishers' weekly. 1912-16.* v. 1-5. $5. per vol. 020.5

Each volume contains a section "Bibliographies of the year" arranged alphabetically by subjects, which serves as an annual bibliography of bibliographies. This section, which was a feature also of the two earlier publications Annual literary index and Annual library index, includes both separately published bibliographies and analytic material.

Another annual which records new bibliographies is the Bibliographie des bibliotheks- und buchwesens, which is especially useful for its notes of new foreign bibliographies. For description see under Periodicals—Special indexes, p. 13.

CHOICE OF BOOKS

For a discussion of the principles of book selection and of the importance of the right selection of books consult E. L. Bascom's Book selection. Chicago, A. L. A. pub. board, 1915; preprint of A. L. A. Manual of library economy, chapter 16. This is an excellent discussion from the point of view of the librarian. Various lists of "the world's greatest books" chosen by teachers, writers, etc. are printed from time to time. The value of these depends upon the judgment and literary taste of the compiler. Certain lists which have been given wide circulation should be kept at hand for ready reference. One of the most frequently quoted of these short lists is President Charles W. Eliot's "Five foot book shelf." This has been often printed, and may be found for example in the Outlook, 92: 426,* and in the pamphlet "Harvard classics" issued by Collier's weekly. The following bibliographies are among the most useful of the longer lists of good books.

Sonnenschein, William Swan. Best books; a reader's guide to the choice of the best available books (about 100,000) in every department of science, art and literature, with the dates of the first and last editions, and the price, size and publisher's name (both English and American) of each book, a contribution towards systematic bibliography. 3d ed. (entirely rewritten) N. Y. Putnam, 1910. pt. 1-2. 24^{cm}. $3.50 each. 019

Eng. ed. Routledge, 14s. each.

Pt. 1, classes A, Theology; B, Mythology and folklore; C, Philosophy; Pt. 2, classes D, Society; E, Geography, ethnology, travel and topography. To be completed in three parts.

1st edition 1887; 2d edition 1891; supplement to 2d edition, entitled Readers' guide, 1895.

The standard long list.

A. L. A. Catalog, 8,000 volumes for a popular library, with notes, 1904; prepared by the New York state library and the Library of Congress, under the auspices of the American library association publishing board. Editor Melvil Dewey. Wash. Govt. print. off. 1904. 403 p., 485 p. 25^{cm}. $1. pap. 019

To be obtained from the Superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C. Pt. 1, classed; pt. 2, dictionary.

A. L. A. Catalog, 1904-1911. Class list, 3,000 titles for a popular library; ed. by Elva L. Bascom. Chic. A. L. A. pub. board, 1912. 350 p. 26^{cm}. $1.50. 019

Supplement to A. L. A. Catalog, 1904.

Contents: (1) Class list; (2) Books in A. L. A. Catalog, 1904, now out of print; (3) Books in A. L. A. Catalog, 1904, now issued in new editions; (4) Subject index, author index.

Both the main work and the supplement are useful in a library for many purposes, for example, (a) as a guide in selecting books on any subject because the selection was made by many experienced librarians, and because the annotations are in some cases helpful; (b) as an aid in ordering because the publisher's name and price are given and because care was exercised in the selection of editions; (c) in classifying books; (d) in the selection of subject headings; (e) in ordering printed catalog cards from the Library of Congress, because the serial numbers are given.

A previous A. L. A. Catalog was published in 1893, entitled Catalog of "A. L. A. Library," 5,000 volumes for a popular library (Wash. Government printing office).

A. L. A. Booklist, a guide to the best new books, adopted for state use by the League of library commissions. Jan. 1905-1916. Chic. A. L. A. pub. board, 1905-16. v. 1-13. 20^{cm}. $1 per year. 010.5

— Subject index; v. 1-6 Jan. 1905-June 1910. 216 p. 20^{cm}. 40 cts.

Monthly except July and August.

"The main purpose of the A. L. A. Booklist is to aid public libraries in book buying; its secondary aim is to give assistance in cataloging and classifying to librarians whose training or experience is limited."

A monthly guide which gives carefully selected lists of recent publications in general literature, fiction, children's books, U. S. government documents, and new editions of older works. Before 1915 the general list was an alphabetical author list but after that date it is a classified list arranged by the Dewey D. C. numbers. For each book included the Booklist gives author's full name, title, place, publisher, date, paging, price, L. C. card number, D. C. class number, suggested subject headings and a careful critical note which estimates the value of the book, compares it with other works on the same subject, and indicates the type of library for which it is recommended. Planned especially for the small and medium sized libraries and most useful in that type.

Each volume has an author and title index. In addition to the subject index to v. 1-6 noted above, there is also a subject index to v. 7.

Everyman's library. Dictionary catalog of the first 505 vols. of Everyman's library, arranged and annotated by I. M. Cooper and M. A. McVety. N. Y. Dutton [1911] 173 p. 18^{cm}. 10 cts. 011

A publisher's catalog, but useful as furnishing a list of titles which are generally accepted as classics in the different great literatures of the world, and for its full annotations.

LIBRARY CATALOGS

Printed catalogs of libraries are useful reference aids not only to the cataloger but to the reference worker also. To the latter they are useful for verification of titles, descriptions of books and editions, information about authorship, contents, etc., analytic and other added entries not given in the library's own catalog, occasional notes, location of copies, etc. Dictionary and subject catalogs are also helpful in finding lists of books about subjects.

SUGGESTIVE LIST OF 100 REFERENCE BOOKS

The selection of the most important reference books for a small library is often difficult to make, depending as it must upon the amount of money available, which often is too limited to buy even the essential works of reference. While the selection depends also upon the character of the library, and upon special local needs, there are still many books which are necessary to every library. No library, however small and whatever its character, can be complete without a dictionary, an encyclopedia, an atlas, and a biographic dictionary.

To assist in selecting for a small public library, a suggestive list of the first one hundred reference books is offered. It must be remembered, as stated before, that these books can often be bought for less than the published price, at auction or second-hand. Many important works of reference are published by the government and can be obtained free, e. g., the Statistical abstract, Census reports, Congressional directory, etc. The titles are given to a certain extent in the order of usefulness of the books. It is comparatively simple to mention the first ten reference books, but after that the choice becomes more and more difficult, influenced as the librarian must be by the desire to cover as many subjects as possible. The personal estimate of a reference book based upon experience and habit will always influence in its selection. Therefore the following list is not claimed to be the best possible, but it may be helpful to some who find difficulty in selecting reference books.

American reference books have been preferred to foreign in some cases where the foreign books are better, but it is thought that in American libraries an American book is on the whole more useful where only one book on a subject can be bought. In such cases as the gazetteer and the atlas, the information in foreign works is not sufficiently full in American names.
